U.S. Judge Tells Denver Must Integrate Schools

Youths Gather To Hear Their Kind of Music

LEWISVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Prepared with a hippie peace-keeping group and hundreds of acres of parkland for spreading out, promoters of a pop music festival here awaited the arrival Saturday of tens of thousands of rock fans.

With an eye to the unexpected horde of 400,000 youths who descended on a White Lake, N.Y., festival earlier this month, the promoters deliberately overestimated attendance in setting up facilities for the Dallas International Pop Festival.

They said they were ready for an influx of 125,000 persons. The three-day festival, being held at a drag race strip and starring some top names in rock music, gets under way Saturday and ends Labor Day.

Unlike White Lake, the grounds in this small town about 15 miles north of Dallas, are on a major interstate highway.

Gary Bucker, one of the promoters, said Friday about 20,000 persons had bought tickets. He estimated between

Ft. Carson Betters Lot Of Prisoners

Several actions have been taken to rehabilitate prisoners in the Ft. Carson Stockade most of whom are in custody because they have gone absent without leave (AWOL).

Fewer than one-fourth of the men confined in the Ft. Carson stockade are actually from Ft. Carson. The other three-fourths are sent to Ft. Carson from other locations in the 13-state Fifth U. S. Army area.

When these arrive, they are screened and efforts are made to avoid confinement Those whose records and attitudes indicate that it may be possible to process their cases without confinement are placed in a troop unit.

A new successful program is the Ft. Carson Correctional Training Facility where the third class is in session. Of the first 70 enrolled for the rugged outdoor training, 63 have completed the course that is similar to the course given the elite Ft. Carson Recondo School students.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The 1971-model androids are coming off the drawing boards.

One is a dentist-training robot that can bleed, say "ouch" and jerk its head when the drill hits a "nerve."

Another, far more sophisticated, will be subjected in the name of medical science to just about every kind of indignity doctors can tell nurses to perpetrate.

The androids—computerized automatons fashioned in human form—are the latest in a series of life-size simulators designed to speed the training of physicians, dentists and nurses and at the same time eliminate the possibility of harm to human patients during the learning process.

They are the brainchildren of bioengineer Don F. Carter, one of the creators of Sim One, a $275,000 simulator used experimentally since 1967 to train anesthesiologists at the University of Southern California.

Sim One, a 6-foot-2, 195-pound robot with plastic flesh and aluminum bones, gives human-like reactions to anesthetic gases and to intubation, a delicate procedure which can damage living tissue if improperly performed.

Carter's dentist-trainer, being made at similar cost for the U.S. Public Health Service, will have replaceable teeth that can be drilled and filled, a tongue to get in the way of instruments, and gums that will swell if injected improperly.

He'll bleed if cut. Saliva will gather in his mouth and have to be sucked away by an aspirator. His breath will fog the student-dentist's mirror.

School Plans To Appeal Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Supreme Court Justice William J. Brennan Jr. Friday handed down a decision which, in effect, orders Denver public schools to proceed with plans for more equitable integration of students.

Justice Brennan's decision overturned a ruling by the 10th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Denver, which blocked the original plans calling for mandatory busing of students.

At the same time, Brennan's decision stayed an injunction of Dist. Judge William E. Doyle of the U.S. District Court in Denver, which would have forced the Denver school system to operate under integration plans for five northeast Denver schools.

A few hours after the Brennan decision was announced, School Board President William Berge met with board members, then announced that board attorneys would once again go before the appelate court.

Berge said the majority of members said they would support a move to ask the court for a new decision — one which would permit a voluntary busing program — and yet follow the Brennan ruling.

As Berge was explaining the board's intentions to the press, board attorney Victor Quinn filed a motion before the circuit court, asking it make an "express finding" that Judge Doyle abused his discretion in ordering the busing program.

The board asked the court to

U.S. Drafting Statement to Free Airmen

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials began Friday drafting a statement they hope will be sufficient to induce North Korea to release three American helicopter crewmen shot down over Communist territory Aug. 17.

North Korea demanded a confession and apology, alleging that the helicopter was "criminally" sent over its territory, as the price for release of the men, two of whom were reported injured. U.S. officials hope to meet that demand without unduly damaging American prestige.

Although previous similar negotiations at Panmunjom have been prolonged, there was a measure of optimism that the three soldiers in the present case might be freed relatively quickly. Officials noted that it was at only the third meeting of the Korean Armistice Commission following the incident that the North Koreans acknowledged Friday that the men are

Negro Interns Join Protest Of Nixon Pace

WASHINGTON (UPI) —A group of Negro interns joined staff lawyers in the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division Friday in protesting the Nixon administration's "apparent timidity" in civil rights enforcement.

Asst. Atty. Gen. Jerris Leonard, generally successful in ducking reporters stationed outside his first floor office, returned from the South to try and quell the growing dissent.

As staff lawyers prepared a petition of grievances for presentation to Leonard, the Negro interns sent a two-page letter to the office of Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, who is vacationing at the California White House.

The department was unable to judge how many law students were represented by the protesters who called themselves "dissident black interns." But a spokesman said there were 12 Negro interns in the Civil Rights Division.

The letter said, "We are profoundly disillusioned by the apparent timidity of the Department of Justice in the field of civil rights. We therefore deem it necessary to voice our position concerning some of the present policy of this department and the Nixon administration."

Delay May Loom for Thursday Rulison Shot

DENVER (AP)—A 40-kiloton underground nuclear explosion in western Colorado, scheduled for Thursday, may face a few days' delay while litigation challenging safety of the shot is cleared.

The 10th Circuit Court of Appeals called Friday for a transcript of U. S. District Court proceedings before considering whether Judge Alfred A. Arraj was correct in refusing to halt the blast.

The Colorado Open Space Coordinating Council, a non-profit organization claiming to speak for 10,000 persons, is appealing the ruling. It contends the blast might create radiation hazards to humans, animals and plants, which is denied by officials of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Arguments were presented before a three-judge appellate tribunal by attorneys for the open space group, the AEC and Austral Oil Co., but both sides said no transcript of the two-day district court hearing had been completed. They estimated initially it would be finished early next week, but later the possibility developed it might be ready Saturday night.

Commissioners Want Five-Story Courthouse

Two county commissioners Friday said they wanted the best that they could get in a courthouse and the best they can get is a five-story building, not a four-story building.

But wanting something and being able to afford it quite often are two different things, Commissioners Keith McBurney and James Ross conceded.

"I'd rather have a Lincoln Continental than anything else," said Ross. "But wanting it and being able to afford it is something else again."

Ross and McBurney were the only ones commenting on what they'd like in the way of a courthouse Friday. Commissioner Jack Mitchell was unavailable.

But it's all a question of money, the two Republican commissioners conceded. And whether they've got enough money for a five-story building is something that won't be decided until the bids are taken Oct. 2 at the County Office Building.

The reason why the two commissioners prefer, and want, a

Big Labor Day Push For Fun Fills Roads

By United Press International

Forerunners of an expected record number of vacationers wheeled onto the nation's highways Friday in search of fun and relaxation on summer's last holiday weekend.

The National Safety Council said up to 725 persons may die in traffic accidents before the Labor Day weekend ends at midnight Monday. Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe urged drivers to show extra caution.

The Safety Council said virtually all of the nation's 100 million motor vehicles would be on the highways during the holiday period from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Monday.

Chrysler Plans New Small Car

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Chrysler Corp. has announced its intended entry into the field of subcompact automobiles, possibly as early as spring of 1971.

The subcompact field had been a high interest point during Chrysler's four-day national new car preview here.

Chrysler's subcompact would have a 91-inch wheel base, a 166 inch length and a 71.6 inch width.

Chrysler chairman Lynn Townsend said the code name for the car is "the 25 Car." He said the number carries no special significance.

The car would be smaller than Chrysler's Valiant but Townsend said it would be bigger than the Volkswagen.

"This will not be an import-derived car. It will be an American car developed to suit the American driver," Townsend said. The car would be produced at plants in the United States and Canada.

The "25 Car" would come in two models, one for the Dodge divisions and another for Chrysler-Plymouth.

No hints as to the price of the car were given. During its four-day new car preview, Chrysler did not reveal prices on any models. Townsend said price tags on the 1970 cars would probably be made next month along with warranty plans.

In Pittsburgh, Workers Say 'Want Work'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — White construction workers, idled because of demonstrations by Negroes demanding more building-trade jobs, marched through Pittsburgh Friday shouting: "We want to work!"

They paraded to the city-county office building and about 40 stormed the office of Mayor Joseph Barr while the rest, estimated at 3,000 by police, massed outside.

The workers demanded payment of $1.3 million total wages lost by 13,000 workers during a two-day layoff at 10 big construction projects. The layoff was designed to avert any violence during demonstrations by the Black Construction Coalition. Work is to resume Tuesday after the Labor Day weekend.

Inside the office building, the demonstrators shouted: "We want Barr now! We want Barr now!"

Nixon Relaxes Before Coming Here on Monday

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon planned a relaxed Labor Day weekend before flying to Colorado Springs, Colo., Monday to tour the North American Defense (NORAD) headquarters and address the national governor's conference.

Nixon spent Friday morning with his staff preparing for next week's official schedule, which includes a cabinet meeting, and studying the tax reform bill.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler reported that the President and his fiscal and economic advisers have been taking a close look at the tax reform bill passed by the House.

The House bill gives greater tax cuts to the middle income group than the Nixon administration wants.

Asked whether Nixon would make a fight for his tax reform proposals, Ziegler said: "There have been some discussions regarding the tax reform bill but I have no announcements" on the subject.

Nader's Raiders Go Back to School

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government was naderized this summer.

After three months of "reaching for the cobwebs" in federal agencies, Ralph Nader's raiders, crusaders, invaders, and graders have dispersed to their schools and regular jobs.

Now they will put it all down on paper and tell the public what they concluded about the agencies that are supposed to be serving the public.

What they did this summer is perhaps without precedent: 100 outsiders, private citizens, roaming through the halls and offices of government, putting operations under the microscope, evaluating them for the public.

Last summer, Nader's raiders numbered but seven. But they managed to shake up the Federal Trade Commission with a report highly critical of that agency's role in protecting the consumer.

This year, the summer project expanded to scrutinize the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Civil Aeronautics Board, the Food and Drug Administration, the Agriculture and Labor departments, and the air and water pollution-control agencies of the Departments of Interior and Health, Education and Welfare.

Their findings, Nader says, are not expected until late this year. Before leaving the project this week, however, its six directors and Nader issued a 20-page indictment of the information policies of many of the agencies, accusing them of violating the Freedom of Information Act in letter and spirit.

What they did, from June 10 until now, Nader says, was to "reach for the cobwebs—to find out how the agencies actually operate, to what extent they are carrying out their declared missions, and how they relate among each other and with the public."

Nader said one of the key purposes of the summer project was "to show how much change can be brought about in government when citizens know how to penetrate the secrecy of these agencies."

The investigators were students and graduates of law, medicine and engineering from Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Ohio State and Western Reserve Universities and the Universities of Chicago, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Southern California.

Working under six project directors, they split up into teams for their sorties into the agencies. They sought interviews with personnel at all levels and tried to read as many documents as were made available.

The Colorado Open Space Coordinating Council, a non-profit organization claiming to speak for 10,000 persons, is appealing the ruling. It contends the blast might create radiation hazards to humans, animals and plants, which is denied by officials of the Atomic Energy Commission.

Arguments were presented before a three-judge appellate tribunal by attorneys for the open space group, the AEC and Austral Oil Co., but both sides said no transcript of the two-day district court hearing had been completed. They estimated initially it would be finished early next week, but later the possibility developed it might be ready Saturday night.

Commissioners Want Five-Story Courthouse

Two county commissioners Friday said they wanted the best that they could get in a courthouse and the best they can get is a five-story building, not a four-story building.

But wanting something and being able to afford it quite often are two different things, Commissioners Keith McBurney and James Ross conceded.

"I'd rather have a Lincoln Continental than anything else," said Ross. "But wanting it and being able to afford it is something else again."

Ross and McBurney were the only ones commenting on what they'd like in the way of a courthouse Friday. Commissioner Jack Mitchell was unavailable.

But it's all a question of money, the two Republican commissioners conceded. And whether they've got enough money for a five-story building is something that won't be decided until the bids are taken Oct. 2 at the County Office Building.

The reason why the two commissioners prefer, and want, a

Big Labor Day Push For Fun Fills Roads

By United Press International

Forerunners of an expected record number of vacationers wheeled onto the nation's highways Friday in search of fun and relaxation on summer's last holiday weekend.

The National Safety Council said up to 725 persons may die in traffic accidents before the Labor Day weekend ends at midnight Monday. Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe urged drivers to show extra caution.

The Safety Council said virtually all of the nation's 100 million motor vehicles would be on the highways during the holiday period from 6 p.m. local time Friday to midnight Monday.

Nader's Raiders Go Back to School

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government was naderized this summer.

After three months of "reaching for the cobwebs" in federal agencies, Ralph Nader's raiders, crusaders, invaders, and graders have dispersed to their schools and regular jobs.

Now they will put it all down on paper and tell the public what they concluded about the agencies that are supposed to be serving the public.

What they did this summer is perhaps without precedent: 100 outsiders, private citizens, roaming through the halls and offices of government, putting operations under the microscope, evaluating them for the public.

Last summer, Nader's raiders numbered but seven. But they managed to shake up the Federal Trade Commission with a report highly critical of that agency's role in protecting the consumer.

This year, the summer project expanded to scrutinize the Interstate Commerce Commission, the Civil Aeronautics Board, the Food and Drug Administration, the Agriculture and Labor departments, and the air and water pollution-control agencies of the Departments of Interior and Health, Education and Welfare.

Their findings, Nader says, are not expected until late this year. Before leaving the project this week, however, its six directors and Nader issued a 20-page indictment of the information policies of many of the agencies, accusing them of violating the Freedom of Information Act in letter and spirit.

What they did, from June 10 until now, Nader says, was to "reach for the cobwebs—to find out how the agencies actually operate, to what extent they are carrying out their declared missions, and how they relate among each other and with the public."

Nader said one of the key purposes of the summer project was "to show how much change can be brought about in government when citizens know how to penetrate the secrecy of these agencies."

The investigators were students and graduates of law, medicine and engineering from Harvard, Yale, Princeton, Ohio State and Western Reserve Universities and the Universities of Chicago, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Southern California.

Working under six project directors, they split up into teams for their sorties into the agencies. They sought interviews with personnel at all levels and tried to read as many documents as were made available.

The President also named the U.S. delegation to the UN General Assembly, which opens in New York Sept. 16, with former child movie star Shirley Temple Black among the representatives.

The Western White House said the chief executive would have a full schedule on next Monday's holiday trip to Colorado. He will fly to Peterson Field, arriving at 3 p.m. MDT and then fly by helicopter to Cheyenne Mountain for private briefings by military commanders of NORAD, a joint United States-Canadian command, headquartered there.

In the evening the President and Mrs. Nixon will attend a private dinner for the nation's governors and their wives hosted by Gov. John Love of Colorado at the Broadmore Hotel.

man was backed against a wall by a worker shouting: "Cameras off! Cameras off!" The cameraman was hit several times while other workers attempted to pull the man away.

The group quieted down when three union stewards, members of a delegation conferring with Barr, climbed onto a desk and filled them in on the meeting.

One of the stewards said Barr was trying to convince owners of the projects to give the men their lost wages.

Barr later held a news conference and defended his action.

"In closing down the construction projects, maintenance of the peace was the primary consideration," he said. "I recognize that there is justification for protest on both sides, but in the final analysis as mayors must consider the safety and wellbeing of the entire community."

Commissioners Want Five-Story Courthouse

five-story building is simple, they said.

"A five-story building will serve the needs of the courts until the year 2,000," said McBurney. "A four story building won't suffice until the year 1985."

A five story building, with the fourth and fifth floors unfinished, would contain 24 courtrooms, but the four floor building, with the fourth story unfinished would only have 13 courtrooms.

"Look at it like this," said McBurney. ' We argued for a much larger building for the County Office Building that you are sitting in right now. We lost. Now, seven years later this building is far too small. We are having to find offices elsewhere."

Still, the money angle looms large and propositions anything that the commissioners will do. For example:

—It's known right now that a five-story building, even with the fourth and fifth floors unfinished, will cost in excess of $4 million.

—Even a four-story building will cost in excess of $3 million.

But hold on a second: that's what the commissioners are estimating, on the word of the architects. Even McBurney concedes that "what the estimates are and what the contractors will come in and bid might be worlds apart. Of course, we hope that won't be the case. But at any rate, we have got to have enough money to pay for the courthouse when it is finished.

Things admittedly look a little scary right now, financial-wise. For one thing, even before the bids come in the commissioners have had to delete some proud and costly items from the courthouse that was predicted at one time to be the most handsome building around.

Already pared from the plans was an extensive plaza concept — trees, walkways, water fountains and the like. Also eliminated from the final plans was a proposed underground tunnel leading from the adjacent jail to the courthouse.

"We will have to build these things later," said McBurney.

Right now, in the hip pocket, the commissioners have $4.2 million on hand for construction of the courthouse. If they can do a five-story building for that, that's what they want. If they can't, they'll go the route of a four-story building.

Everybody at the county level is hoping there will be a hundred bidders on hand and some body among the contractors comes up with the right price.

Woman Injured In Auto Crash

A Colorado Springs woman was injured Thursday in a one-car accident at Academy Blvd. and Shelly Ave.

Accordingto a police report, Marcilene D. Zortman, 2225 Glenwood Circle, lost control of the vehicle she was driving as she attempted to negotiate a left turn from Academy to Shelly Ave.

The vehicle went into an eight foot ditch and was totally demolished.

The woman was taken to Memorial Hospital by E&E ambulance where she was treated for contusions and abrasions of the body and a fractured arm.

Group Expects Speedy Answer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lannon Walker, board chairman of the American Foreign Service Association, says Undersecretary of State Elliot Richardson promises a speedy response on the group's request for recognition as the sole agent of U. S. foreign service workers on personnel and employment matters.

The foreign service officers seeking reforms in the U. S. diplomatic corps met with Richardson for an hour Thursday night.

Walker said Richardson approved the group's request for boosts in travel expense advance money, in advance payments for temporary lodgings and in allowances for assignment shifts within the United States.

Four Defendants Plead Innocent To Theft Counts

Four defendants charged with theft pleaded innocent Friday before District Court Judge William M. Calvert and had their trial dates set for the week starting Nov. 3.

The first was John E. Chambers, 35, Lakewood, accused of stealing a car belonging to Pike City Motor Leasing, 421 E. Pikes Peak Ave., July 21.

He also entered an innocent plea to obtaining food and lodging by fraud which says he ran up a bill more than $50 at the Ski Hi Lodge, 2908 N. Nevada Ave., July 15.

Ronald Earl Woodruff, 19, Ft. Carson and 1 Brookside St. entered an innocent plea to stealing a motorcycle from Michael Stanton, 17 Waltham St., July 23.

The third defendant was Nathaniel Bannister, 22, Ft. Carson, charged with the theft of a television set from U-Rent-M, 213 E. Cache La Poudre St., March 24.

The final defendant was Sammy T. Scott.

Scott, 26, 417 S. Weber St. is charged with stealing furniture from a warehouse belonging to Berdon's Finer Homes, 5260 N. Nevada Ave., July 7.

Scott still has another chargeof burglary against him. He has pleaded innocent and is set for trial Sept. 29.

Rape Trial Set Nov. 3 For Sutherland

Robert Sutherland, 52, 1306 E. Uintah St., pleaded innocent Friday to assault to rape and District and District Court Judge William M. Calvert set Nov. 3 for trail.

The incident is said to have happened July 24 at the underpass by the 900 block of North Nevada Avenue and a 17-year-old girl was involved.

According to a police report two men, Michael Rankin, 1303 N. Nevada Ave. and Robert Rose, Ft. Carson, were driving past and heard the girl screaming. They went to her aid and captured the defendant.

Henry Doyle Shuflin pleaded innocent to assault with a deadly weapon and will be tried Nov. 3.

He is accused of threatening Eve Lee Durham, 625 E. Willamette Ave. with a gun at her apartment July 1.

Rail Trip Planned by History Group

A trip on the La Junta Streamliner via the Santa Fe Railway will be held Sept. 20 under the sponsorship of the Colorado Midland Chapter of the National Railway Historical Society (NRHS).

The group will leave the Rio Grande Depot at 5:10 p.m. and return at the Santa Fe depot at 10:40 p.m. the same day.

This train is being considered for discontinuance by the Interstate Commerce Commission whose decision is due shortly. If the train is discontinued before Sept. 21 the trip will be held on the next to the last day of operation. The train, in this event, would go only to La Junta on the last day.

The group will arrive in La Junta at 7:30 p.m. and leave there at 8:30 p.m.

Tickets can be obained by mailing checks or money orders to the Colorado Midland Chapter NRHS, P. O. Box 9061, Colorado Springs, Colo. 80909. Tickets for adults will be $7.50, and for children, $4.25. Meals will not be included in the price of the tickets.

Man Accused of Stealing Motorcycle

Rodney Edward Renzelman, 22, 1015 Norwood Ave. was charged i n district court Friday with theft.

He is accused of stealing a motorcycle belonging to Bill Brokaw Motorcycles, 1314 Fountain Creek Blvd., July 30.

A Pueblo woman, Dora May Robinson, 40, was charged with attempting to obtain a narcotic drug by fraud.

According to the information she tried to get a quantity of dilaudid from a local doctor, Thursday.

Burglars Strike Soft Drink Stand

Ray's A&W, 2703 W. Colorado Ave. was buglarized sometime between 11 p.m. Thursday and 5:55 p.m. Friday, according to a police report.

The burglars took an undetermined amount of change and damaged a cigarette machine. Police said entry was made by forcing a door.

Massive Reinforcements Poured Into Jungle to Trap North Viet Division

By JAY SHARBUTT
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Massive new reinforcements poured Saturday into jungled ridges 31 miles south of Da Nang, virtually doubling the size of an allied force attempting to trap a North Vietnamese army division.

Just after daybreak about 1,500 U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops were moved into the area near the key district town of Hiep Duc where heavy fighting has continued since Aug. 17.

The sudden move essentially placed a task force of about 3,000 allied troops on four sides of a jungled complex of hill roughly 2½ miles long on the northern edge of Hiep Duc Valley.

First Marine Division sources said sharp fighting in the valley and on the lower slopes in recent days indicates a heavy concentration of enemy, possibly most of the 2nd North Vietnamese Army Division that allied officers say already has lost up to 1,000 killed in the two weeks of fighting near Hiep Duc.

The key target of the allied task force is the center hill, a 1,270-foot peak called Deo Ram by the Vietnamese and Hill 381 on military maps.

At dusk Friday, a reinforced Marine reconnaissance team took over abandoned fire support base Ryder which is about two miles north of Deo Ram. Troops and artillery pieces began moving in by helicopter at daybreak Saturday.

Ryder's reactivation will give the U.S. forces three artillery bases within close range of the suspected enemy positions. The others are the Americal Division's Landing Zones West and Center, which are 2½ miles south and four miles southeast respectively of Deo Ram.

Artillery and air strikes were continuing in an effort to blast away the thick jungle that covers the tops of all three peaks.

"If we can strip it with artillery and napalm we can get at them," said one Marine officer. About the liklihood of a ground assault against Deo Ram, he added: "There's not a commander alive who would call for another Hamburger Hill."

Fighting around Hiep Duc began Aug. 17 when U.S. Army patrols ran into strong enemy forces near Landing Zone West. The fighting increased sharply after an Army Command helicopter was shot down Aug. 19 and enemy forces in dug-in positions fought bitterly against American troops trying to reach the crash site two miles south of Landing Zone West.

Since the fighting there slackened off, heavy encounters have occurred to the north as the enemy forces apparetly withdrew in that direction.

Sources said it was believed that the large concentration of enemy troops moved on to the high ground of Deo Ram's ridges within the last few days.

All three regiments of the North Vietnamese 2nd Division are believed to be supported by elements of an elite battalion, the 14th Antiaircraft Artillery, whose crews are trained in using heavy machine guns against helicopters.

Denver Told Must Integrate Public Schools

order the Doyle injunction stayed.

Chief Circuit Court Judge Alfred P. Murrah gave attorneys for the mandatory busing program until 9 a.m. Saturday to file an answer to the board's motion. At the same time he ordered the circuit court clerk's office open Saturday morning to receive the answer.

Judge Murrah indicated the court will rule as soon as possible on the issue in order to pave the way for the opening of schools Tuesday.

School Supt. Robert D. Gilberts, meanwhile, said the system was prepared to follow the original mandatory busing guidelines, and he anticipated the opening of schools — on schedule — Tuesday morning.

"Interruption takes time, and opportunities," Gilberts said. "Our biggest problem right now is communication.

Gilberts said as of now he is prepared to follow the Brennan decision to the letter.

As Gilberts and Berge talked to the press, four northeast Denver women and their children paraded outside the school administration building, protesting Justice Brennan's decision.

"It's not a matter of prejudice, because we already live in an integrated neighborhood," said Mrs. Louise Dewitt, mother of two school-age children. "But our votes — for school board members — showed we were against this busing program. Now the Supreme Court overthrows this. I'll send my children to a parochial school nearby, rather than have them bused."

The Denver School Board slowed the integration pace of the city's schools after an election changed its makeup from 4-3 for swift integration-busing procedures, to 4-3 for slower action.

In his decision upholding Judge Doyle's injunction, Justice Brennan said "An order of a district court granting or denying a preliminary injunction should not be disturbed by a reviewing court unless it appears the grant of the injunction was an abuse of discretion."

He said "Where a preliminary injunction has been issued to vindicate constitutional rights, the presumption in favor of the district court's action applies with particular force."

Justice Brennan said the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals "seems to have based its action on the premise that public support for the plan might be developed" if the matter waited for a full trial.

That, the justice said, is not justification for waiting to put a plan into effect.

Delay May Loom for Rulison Shot

Tuesday or Wednesday I don't see how we can possibly decide the case before Thursday," said Judge Delmas C. Hill, who was presiding.

He raised the possibility of a delay for a few days in the explosion, already postponed from May.

The court, Judge Hill said, dislikes the idea of having a deadline "and being rushed into something, particularly something as important as this is."

The court recessed, subject to call, but all three judges—Hill, Oliver Seth and George Holloway—left the courts building early in the afternoon.

Because of the Labor Day holiday Monday, it appeared unlikely the case could be considered earlier than Tuesday, regardless of the time of delivery of a transcript.

The underground explosion, known as Project Rulison, is part of the AEC's Plowshare program to find peaceful uses for atomic energy. Plans call for setting off the blast, equivalent to 40,000 tons of TNT, 8,442 feet below the surface of sparsely-settled Battlement Mesa 40 miles northeast of Grand Junction, Colo. The explosion is intended to determine whether natural gas can be jarred from sandstone rocks in commercial quantities and whether it can be purified for public use.

If the experiment is successful the blast may be the forerunner of others in several Western states designed to unlock 300 trillion cubic feet of gas. An AEC estimate that 1.2 megatons of nuclear explosions would be necessary to free all of the gas has led to claims that 500 blasts similar to Rulison are possible.

An attorney for Austral Oil, a Houston, Tex., firm which is a partner with the AEC in the project, estimated every day's delay in the explosion would cost his company $31,000 a day. AEC experts assembling for the blast have other commitments, the court was told.

Meanwhile, the Colorado Supreme Court assigned Dist. Judge William M. Ela of Grand Junction to hear another action to halt the explosion. Also backed by the open space council, it was filed in Glenwood Springs disqualified themselves. The Supreme Court announced Judge Ela will hear the case Tuesday morning.

An AEC spokesman announced the agency had furnished answers to a set of questions propounded by the nonprofit Colorado Committee on Environmental Information. It said the questions were handed to the organization president, Dr. H. Peter Metzger, Boulder biochemist.

3 Injured in Greeley Fire

GREELEY, Colo. (AP) — A four alarm fire early Friday caused an estimated $175,000 in damage to the Matthews Produce Co., and injured three firemen.

The company's original building on the northeast edge of Greeley was destroyed, but a newly constructed extension was saved. Firemen said they expected to be at the scene until mid-afternoon, attempting to control spot flareups.

Two firemen were buried under bricks when a wall collapsed, and were dug from the rubble. Fireman Gary Nolan suffered a broken leg and back injuries, and was listed in fair condition at Weld County Hospital. Firemen Eldon Harrill suffered bruises and was treated and released.

Youths Gather To Hear Their Kind of Music

65,000 and 100,000 would attend.

Large groups of long-haired young people started arriving Monday in camp grounds surrounding Garza-Little Eelm Reservoir near the festival grounds.

Usually over the Labor Day weekend thousands of persons flock to the federal camp grounds around the lake but park rangers say with hundreds of acres of park available they foresee no crowding problems.

Highway Patrol Capt. W. J. White said he was reducing coverage over his 12 county district during the Labor Day weekend to put one-third of his force at Lewisville.

"We have a responsibility on these long holiday weekends to keep the drunks off the highway and save lives. It's going to stretch us pretty thin to cover the district and this festival," he said.

In addition, outside the fence at the raceway will be 100 off-duty officers in plain clothes who will work traffic and stop persons trying to slip in. Inside will be 50 long-haired "friends" in distinctive T shirts and arm bands.

"This has been done at several festivals and proved to be the most successful way," Buckner said.

The Hog Farmers, a group from a hippie commune in New Mexico, also are on hand to keep the peace. Hugh Romney, leader of the Hog Farmers, said they stop fights by getting the crowd around the fighters to start kissing. "It usually works," he said.

Rain fell earlier this week on the meadow where the audience will sit to hear the music. "But the ground's perfect now," Buckner said. "As long as it doesn't rain during the festival, we'll have no problem at all."

policies "to which the administration seemingly adheres."

They cited the "de-emphasis of the South" as the focal point of the Voting Rights Act of 1965 and the "relaxation of school desegregation guidelines."

They also protected the administration's "indirect support of the Whitten amendment." This is a House-passed provision that stipulated that no federal aid money can be used to force busing of students, closing of schools, or pupils assignments against the wishes of parents.

The fourth protest involved the administration's alleged "failure to vigorously prosecute police brutality cases unless assured of success."

2 Fined for Failing to Douse Fire

Two men pleaded guilty before U. S. Commissioner Howard Erickson in Denver Friday to charges that they failed to extinguish their campfire on the Pike National Forest, according to Miss Helen Nawojczyk, forest service dispatcher.

Harlan L. Harris was fined $75 she said, and Richard J. Jackson as fined $50. Both men are from Denver.

The men, Miss Nawojczyk said, had been picknicking in the Scraggy View Picnic Ground on the South Platte River on Aug. 21. Steve Vest, assistant forester on the South Platte District of the Pike National Forest, issued a citation to the men.

If convicted of leaving a campfire unextinguished, she said, offenders can be fined a maximum of $500 and or given a jail sentence. If the campfire causes a forest fire the offender can be billed for the cost of suppressing the fire.

alive and may be returned "in accordance with past practices."

This was evidently an allusion to North Korea's release, a year after they were shot down in May, 1963, of two other American helicopter crewmen. The U.N. Command in that case signed a document saying the men were spying, then repudiated the confession as soon as they were returned. The same procedure was followed in the return to the crew of the surveillance ship Pueblo last December.

At Panmunjom, the North Koreans said Capt. David H. Crawford of Pooler, Ga., and Spec. 4 Herman E. Hoffstatter of Lowpoint, Ill., were seriously injured when their craft was shot down Aug. 17. The pilot, WO Malcolm V. Loepka of Richmond, Ind., was said to have been slightly injured.

The North Korean delegate Maj. Gen. Lee Choon-Sun, said the men are receiving medical treatment but gave no further word on their condition. He rejected a U.S. request for their immediate return for medical attention.

North Korea said the chopper was downed about 15 miles north of the demilitarized zone between North and South Korea.

State Fair Attendance Beats 1968

PUEBLO (AP)—The Colorado State Fair went into its last four days Friday with preparations for a large fiesta and possible visits by governors of some states.

Officials said crowds have been running about 6,500 ahead of the 1968 total with 153,000 persons recorded thus far. On Thursday, 35,784 persons passed through the turnstyles, the largest single day crowd in the fair's history.

Fiesta celebrations begin Saturday and continue through Monday night, the last day of the fair. A parade is scheduled Sunday morning.

Fair officials also designate Sunday as Day of American Governors. Governors attending the National Governors Conference in Colorado Springs have been invited to the fair but there was no word on whether any would attend, a spokesman said.

One of the stewards said Barr was trying to convince owners of the projects to give the men their lost wages.

Barr later held a news conference and defended his action.

"In closing down the construction projects, maintenance of the peace was the primary consideration," he said. "I recognize that there is justification for protest on both sides, but in the final analysis as mayors must consider the safety and wellbeing of the entire community."

Commissioners Want Five-Story Courthouse

five-story building is simple, they said.

"A five-story building will serve the needs of the courts until the year 2,000," said McBurney. "A four story building won't suffice until the year 1985."

A five story building, with the fourth and fifth floors unfinished, would contain 24 courtrooms, but the four floor building, with the fourth story unfinished would only have 13 courtrooms.

"Look at it like this," said McBurney. ' We argued for a much larger building for the County Office Building that you are sitting in right now. We lost. Now, seven years later this building is far too small. We are having to find offices elsewhere."

Still, the money angle looms large and propositions anything that the commissioners will do. For example:

—It's known right now that a five-story building, even with the fourth and fifth floors unfinished, will cost in excess of $4 million.

—Even a four-story building will cost in excess of $3 million.

But hold on a second: that's what the commissioners are estimating, on the word of the architects. Even McBurney concedes that "what the estimates are and what the contractors will come in and bid might be worlds apart. Of course, we hope that won't be the case. But at any rate, we have got to have enough money to pay for the courthouse when it is finished.

Things admittedly look a little scary right now, financial-wise. For one thing, even before the bids come in the commissioners have had to delete some proud and costly items from the courthouse that was predicted at one time to be the most handsome building around.

Already pared from the plans was an extensive plaza concept — trees, walkways, water fountains and the like. Also eliminated from the final plans was a proposed underground tunnel leading from the adjacent jail to the courthouse.

"We will have to build these things later," said McBurney.

Right now, in the hip pocket, the commissioners have $4.2 million on hand for construction of the courthouse. If they can do a five-story building for that, that's what they want. If they can't, they'll go the route of a four-story building.

Everybody at the county level is hoping there will be a hundred bidders on hand and some body among the contractors comes up with the right price.

Woman Injured In Auto Crash

A Colorado Springs woman was injured Thursday in a one-car accident at Academy Blvd. and Shelly Ave.

Accordingto a police report, Marcilene D. Zortman, 2225 Glenwood Circle, lost control of the vehicle she was driving as she attempted to negotiate a left turn from Academy to Shelly Ave.

The vehicle went into an eight foot ditch and was totally demolished.

The woman was taken to Memorial Hospital by E&E ambulance where she was treated for contusions and abrasions of the body and a fractured arm.

Four Defendants Plead Innocent To Theft Counts

Four defendants charged with theft pleaded innocent Friday before District Court Judge William M. Calvert and had their trial dates set for the week starting Nov. 3.

The first was John E. Chambers, 35, Lakewood, accused of stealing a car belonging to Pike City Motor Leasing, 421 E. Pikes Peak Ave., July 21.

He also entered an innocent plea to obtaining food and lodging by fraud which says he ran up a bill more than $50 at the Ski Hi Lodge, 2908 N. Nevada Ave., July 15.

Ronald Earl Woodruff, 19, Ft. Carson and 1 Brookside St. entered an innocent plea to stealing a motorcycle from Michael Stanton, 17 Waltham St., July 23.

The third defendant was Nathaniel Bannister, 22, Ft. Carson, charged with the theft of a television set from U-Rent-M, 213 E. Cache La Poudre St., March 24.

The final defendant was Sammy T. Scott.

Scott, 26, 417 S. Weber St. is charged with stealing furniture from a warehouse belonging to Berdon's Finer Homes, 5260 N. Nevada Ave., July 7.

Scott still has another chargeof burglary against him. He has pleaded innocent and is set for trial Sept. 29.

Rape Trial Set Nov. 3 For Sutherland

Robert Sutherland, 52, 1306 E. Uintah St., pleaded innocent Friday to assault to rape and District and District Court Judge William M. Calvert set Nov. 3 for trail.

The incident is said to have happened July 24 at the underpass by the 900 block of North Nevada Avenue and a 17-year-old girl was involved.

According to a police report two men, Michael Rankin, 1303 N. Nevada Ave. and Robert Rose, Ft. Carson, were driving past and heard the girl screaming. They went to her aid and captured the defendant.

Henry Doyle Shuflin pleaded innocent to assault with a deadly weapon and will be tried Nov. 3.

He is accused of threatening Eve Lee Durham, 625 E. Willamette Ave. with a gun at her apartment July 1.

Rail Trip Planned by History Group

A trip on the La Junta Streamliner via the Santa Fe Railway will be held Sept. 20 under the sponsorship of the Colorado Midland Chapter of the National Railway Historical Society (NRHS).

The group will leave the Rio Grande Depot at 5:10 p.m. and return at the Santa Fe depot at 10:40 p.m. the same day.

This train is being considered for discontinuance by the Interstate Commerce Commission whose decision is due shortly. If the train is discontinued before Sept. 21 the trip will be held on the next to the last day of operation. The train, in this event, would go only to La Junta on the last day.

The group will arrive in La Junta at 7:30 p.m. and leave there at 8:30 p.m.

Tickets can be obained by mailing checks or money orders to the Colorado Midland Chapter NRHS, P. O. Box 9061, Colorado Springs, Colo. 80909. Tickets for adults will be $7.50, and for children, $4.25. Meals will not be included in the price of the tickets.

Man Accused of Stealing Motorcycle

Rodney Edward Renzelman, 22, 1015 Norwood Ave. was charged i n district court Friday with theft.

He is accused of stealing a motorcycle belonging to Bill Brokaw Motorcycles, 1314 Fountain Creek Blvd., July 30.

A Pueblo woman, Dora May Robinson, 40, was charged with attempting to obtain a narcotic drug by fraud.

According to the information she tried to get a quantity of dilaudid from a local doctor, Thursday.

Burglars Strike Soft Drink Stand

Ray's A&W, 2703 W. Colorado Ave. was buglarized sometime between 11 p.m. Thursday and 5:55 p.m. Friday, according to a police report.

The burglars took an undetermined amount of change and damaged a cigarette machine. Police said entry was made by forcing a door.

Massive Reinforcements Poured Into Jungle to Trap North Viet Division

By JAY SHARBUTT
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — Massive new reinforcements poured Saturday into jungled ridges 31 miles south of Da Nang, virtually doubling the size of an allied force attempting to trap a North Vietnamese army division.

Just after daybreak about 1,500 U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese troops were moved into the area near the key district town of Hiep Duc where heavy fighting has continued since Aug. 17.

The sudden move essentially placed a task force of about 3,000 allied troops on four sides of a jungled complex of hill roughly 2½ miles long on the northern edge of Hiep Duc Valley.

First Marine Division sources said sharp fighting in the valley and on the lower slopes in recent days indicates a heavy concentration of enemy, possibly most of the 2nd North Vietnamese Army Division that allied officers say already has lost up to 1,000 killed in the two weeks of fighting near Hiep Duc.

The key target of the allied task force is the center hill, a 1,270-foot peak called Deo Ram by the Vietnamese and Hill 381 on military maps.

At dusk Friday, a reinforced Marine reconnaissance team took over abandoned fire support base Ryder which is about two miles north of Deo Ram. Troops and artillery pieces began moving in by helicopter at daybreak Saturday.

Ryder's reactivation will give the U.S. forces three artillery bases within close range of the suspected enemy positions. The others are the Americal Division's Landing Zones West and Center, which are 2½ miles south and four miles southeast respectively of Deo Ram.

Artillery and air strikes were continuing in an effort to blast away the thick jungle that covers the tops of all three peaks.

"If we can strip it with artillery and napalm we can get at them," said one Marine officer. About the liklihood of a ground assault against Deo Ram, he added: "There's not a commander alive who would call for another Hamburger Hill."

Fighting around Hiep Duc began Aug. 17 when U.S. Army patrols ran into strong enemy forces near Landing Zone West. The fighting increased sharply after an Army Command helicopter was shot down Aug. 19 and enemy forces in dug-in positions fought bitterly against American troops trying to reach the crash site two miles south of Landing Zone West.

Since the fighting there slackened off, heavy encounters have occurred to the north as the enemy forces apparetly withdrew in that direction.

Sources said it was believed that the large concentration of enemy troops moved on to the high ground of Deo Ram's ridges within the last few days.

All three regiments of the North Vietnamese 2nd Division are believed to be supported by elements of an elite battalion, the 14th Antiaircraft Artillery, whose crews are trained in using heavy machine guns against helicopters.

Denver Told Must Integrate Public Schools

order the Doyle injunction stayed.

Chief Circuit Court Judge Alfred P. Murrah gave attorneys for the mandatory busing program until 9 a.m. Saturday to file an answer to the board's motion. At the same time he ordered the circuit court clerk's office open Saturday morning to receive the answer.

Judge Murrah indicated the court will rule as soon as possible on the issue in order to pave the way for the opening of schools Tuesday.

School Supt. Robert D. Gilberts, meanwhile, said the system was prepared to follow the original mandatory busing guidelines, and he anticipated the opening of schools — on schedule — Tuesday morning.

"Interruption takes time, and opportunities," Gilberts said. "Our biggest problem right now is communication.

Gilberts said as of now he is prepared to follow the Brennan decision to the letter.

As Gilberts and Berge talked to the press, four northeast Denver women and their children paraded outside the school administration building, protesting Justice Brennan's decision.

"It's not a matter of prejudice, because we already live in an integrated neighborhood," said Mrs. Louise Dewitt, mother of two school-age children. "But our votes — for school board members — showed we were against this busing program. Now the Supreme Court overthrows this. I'll send my children to a parochial school nearby, rather than have them bused."

The Denver School Board slowed the integration pace of the city's schools after an election changed its makeup from 4-3 for swift integration-busing procedures, to 4-3 for slower action.

In his decision upholding Judge Doyle's injunction, Justice Brennan said "An order of a district court granting or denying a preliminary injunction should not be disturbed by a reviewing court unless it appears the grant of the injunction was an abuse of discretion."

He said "Where a preliminary injunction has been issued to vindicate constitutional rights, the presumption in favor of the district court's action applies with particular force."

Justice Brennan said the 10th Circuit Court of Appeals "seems to have based its action on the premise that public support for the plan might be developed" if the matter waited for a full trial.

That, the justice said, is not justification for waiting to put a plan into effect.

3 Injured in Greeley Fire

GREELEY, Colo. (AP) — A four alarm fire early Friday caused an estimated $175,000 in damage to the Matthews Produce Co., and injured three firemen.

The company's original building on the northeast edge of Greeley was destroyed, but a newly constructed extension was saved. Firemen said they expected to be at the scene until mid-afternoon, attempting to control spot flareups.

Two firemen were buried under bricks when a wall collapsed, and were dug from the rubble. Fireman Gary Nolan suffered a broken leg and back injuries, and was listed in fair condition at Weld County Hospital. Firemen Eldon Harrill suffered bruises and was treated and released.

Thieves Take $200 From Lum's

Lum's Restaurant, 2731 E. Boulder St., was burglarized of $7 in change sometime between 1 a.m. and 6:45 a.m. Friday, police reported.

Another $200 in damage was incurred when the burglars forced open an aluminum door to gain entrance.

Delay May Loom for Rulison Shot

Tuesday or Wednesday I don't see how we can possibly decide the case before Thursday," said Judge Delmas C. Hill, who was presiding.

He raised the possibility of a delay for a few days in the explosion, already postponed from May.

The court, Judge Hill said, dislikes the idea of having a deadline "and being rushed into something, particularly something as important as this is."

The court recessed, subject to call, but all three judges—Hill, Oliver Seth and George Holloway—left the courts building early in the afternoon.

Because of the Labor Day holiday Monday, it appeared unlikely the case could be considered earlier than Tuesday, regardless of the time of delivery of a transcript.

The underground explosion, known as Project Rulison, is part of the AEC's Plowshare program to find peaceful uses for atomic energy. Plans call for setting off the blast, equivalent to 40,000 tons of TNT, 8,442 feet below the surface of sparsely-settled Battlement Mesa 40 miles northeast of Grand Junction, Colo. The explosion is intended to determine whether natural gas can be jarred from sandstone rocks in commercial quantities and whether it can be purified for public use.

If the experiment is successful the blast may be the forerunner of others in several Western states designed to unlock 300 trillion cubic feet of gas. An AEC estimate that 1.2 megatons of nuclear explosions would be necessary to free all of the gas has led to claims that 500 blasts similar to Rulison are possible.

An attorney for Austral Oil, a Houston, Tex., firm which is a partner with the AEC in the project, estimated every day's delay in the explosion would cost his company $31,000 a day. AEC experts assembling for the blast have other commitments, the court was told.

Meanwhile, the Colorado Supreme Court assigned Dist. Judge William M. Ela of Grand Junction to hear another action to halt the explosion. Also backed by the open space council, it was filed in Glenwood Springs disqualified themselves. The Supreme Court announced Judge Ela will hear the case Tuesday morning.

An AEC spokesman announced the agency had furnished answers to a set of questions propounded by the nonprofit Colorado Committee on Environmental Information. It said the questions were handed to the organization president, Dr. H. Peter Metzger, Boulder biochemist.

Fishing Tackle Box Stolen From Home

65,000 and 100,000 would attend.

Large groups of long-haired young people started arriving Monday in camp grounds surrounding Garza-Little Eelm Reservoir near the festival grounds.

Usually over the Labor Day weekend thousands of persons flock to the federal camp grounds around the lake but park rangers say with hundreds of acres of park available they foresee no crowding problems.

Highway Patrol Capt. W. J. White said he was reducing coverage over his 12 county district during the Labor Day weekend to put one-third of his force at Lewisville.

"We have a responsibility on these long holiday weekends to keep the drunks off the highway and save lives. It's going to stretch us pretty thin to cover the district and this festival," he said.

In addition, outside the fence at the raceway will be 100 off-duty officers in plain clothes who will work traffic and stop persons trying to slip in. Inside will be 50 long-haired "friends" in distinctive T shirts and arm bands.

"This has been done at several festivals and proved to be the most successful way," Buckner said.

The Hog Farmers, a group from a hippie commune in New Mexico, also are on hand to keep the peace. Hugh Romney, leader of the Hog Farmers, said they stop fights by getting the crowd around the fighters to start kissing. "It usually works," he said.

Rain fell earlier this week on the meadow where the audience will sit to hear the music. "But the ground's perfect now," Buckner said. "As long as it doesn't rain during the festival, we'll have no problem at all."

2 Fined for Failing to Douse Fire

Two men pleaded guilty before U. S. Commissioner Howard Erickson in Denver Friday to charges that they failed to extinguish their campfire on the Pike National Forest, according to Miss Helen Nawojczyk, forest service dispatcher.

Harlan L. Harris was fined $75 she said, and Richard J. Jackson as fined $50. Both men are from Denver.

The men, Miss Nawojczyk said, had been picknicking in the Scraggy View Picnic Ground on the South Platte River on Aug. 21. Steve Vest, assistant forester on the South Platte District of the Pike National Forest, issued a citation to the men.

If convicted of leaving a campfire unextinguished, she said, offenders can be fined a maximum of $500 and or given a jail sentence. If the campfire causes a forest fire the offender can be billed for the cost of suppressing the fire.

alive and may be returned "in accordance with past practices."

This was evidently an allusion to North Korea's release, a year after they were shot down in May, 1963, of two other American helicopter crewmen. The U.N. Command in that case signed a document saying the men were spying, then repudiated the confession as soon as they were returned. The same procedure was followed in the return to the crew of the surveillance ship Pueblo last December.

At Panmunjom, the North Koreans said Capt. David H. Crawford of Pooler, Ga., and Spec. 4 Herman E. Hoffstatter of Lowpoint, Ill., were seriously injured when their craft was shot down Aug. 17. The pilot, WO Malcolm V. Loepka of Richmond, Ind., was said to have been slightly injured.

The North Korean delegate Maj. Gen. Lee Choon-Sun, said the men are receiving medical treatment but gave no further word on their condition. He rejected a U.S. request for their immediate return for medical attention.

North Korea said the chopper was downed about 15 miles north of the demilitarized zone between North and South Korea.

State Fair Attendance Beats 1968

PUEBLO (AP)—The Colorado State Fair went into its last four days Friday with preparations for a large fiesta and possible visits by governors of some states.

Officials said crowds have been running about 6,500 ahead of the 1968 total with 153,000 persons recorded thus far. On Thursday, 35,784 persons passed through the turnstyles, the largest single day crowd in the fair's history.

Fiesta celebrations begin Saturday and continue through Monday night, the last day of the fair. A parade is scheduled Sunday morning.

Fair officials also designate Sunday as Day of American Governors. Governors attending the National Governors Conference in Colorado Springs have been invited to the fair but there was no word on whether any would attend, a spokesman said.

For Those Who Would Learn

"But, if the public school system doesn't teach our children even basic economics, and most of us can't afford to send our children to an acceptable private school after paying taxes to support the government school system, what are we to do?"

The plaint, or words to that effect, comes with increasing frequency from parents who are in an indestructible link between an understanding of at least basic economics and the maintenance of human freedom itself.

Our usual answer to the plea is home study and tutoring by the parents themselves.

And, then, too often, there comes this agonizing, although encouraging, admission: "But we, too, are products of that same school system. We, too, are economically ignorant. You are suggesting that the 'blind lead the blind.'"

To which we reply that, rather than being a hopeless situation, an environment where ignorance is admitted and where a desire to learn is present, a situation where the pupil and tutor can learn together is actually the ideal, perhaps the only, condition under which true education can occur.

At this point, naturally, the question of proper textbooks and instructional materials comes up . . . and the necessity for making a decision. Shall it be a correspondence course, the more time-consuming process of digging the desired information out of various texts, or, perhaps a combination of the two?

For the parents whose time is limited, the correspondence course approach may be the right decision. This offers the advantage of maximum content in concentrated form from the efforts of experienced researchers and thinkers and will, in many instances, lead to wider reading later on. When pressed for recommendations in this respect, we have suggested courses being offered by the below listed, either of which will be pleased to provide particulars upon request:

Rampart College, First Western Bank Building, Fourth and Main Streets, Santa Ana, California.

Philosophic Research Unlimited, P. O. Box Zero, Chloride, Arizona.

Incidentally, it is appropriate to emphasize at this point that, when we use the term "economics," we use it in its total and categorical sense—HUMAN ACTION—all of it.

"Economics," as described above, applies to the two correspondence courses recommended in the foregoing and will apply, in the same way, to the list of recommended texts which will be provided in tomorrow's editorial.

No teacher, it is also appropriate to add, no course, no text, no combination of the three, can teach anyone anything where the desire to learn is absent.

Presidents Quitting

Way back when, at any rate way back when a "college" was a "collegium" and Latin was important in the curriculum, there would have been little likelihood of a headline like the one in a recent issue of U.S. News & World Report. It read, "Needed Immediately: 200 College Presidents."

Apparently "presidential fatigue" is running high as the heads of colleges and universities find they and their offices seem to be the chief targets of campus radicals. National Assn. of State Universities and Land-Grant Colleges reports that presidential vacancies in their 111 schools are running 20 percent higher than five years ago.

And who can blame them for not putting up with the guff, some perhaps deserved but most of it undeserved, when they can step back into a professorship with comfortable salaries and without so much strain? Or perhaps at higher salaries in the business world?

Dr. Walter Adams, acting president of Michigan State, according to the news weekly, put it this way:

"He (a college president) must have the wisdom of Solomon, the patience of Job, the strength of Hercules, the constitution of an ox, the energy of a beaver, the leadership of Moses and the charisma of Christ—besides a distinguished military and administrative record."

Few humans could present such a combination of qualifications. But in the days of the "collegium" no such need existed. There was a different concept of the word. Actually it meant "colleagueship, the connection between colleagues, between those who jointly fill the same office." So we can assume that the college was a body of scholars jointly seeking knowledge and learning from one another. The word "schola" meant "learned leisure, learned conversation." And what was learned via conversation, discussion and debate, was termed "disciplina" or discipline. Imagine students today wanting to have anything to do with discipline! Particularly self-discipline, although, happily, some do.

If both students and schools were to get back to the goals of learning rather than haranguing from opposite ends of platforms for personal power, presidents might be more eager for jobs. Under ideal conditions they might not even be needed. The people of the state will benefit as the state gets out of the school business and permits individuals to seek knowledge at whatever fountain is dispensing the flavor that contributes most to their growth.

Barring this, perhaps consideration should be given to the U.S. News suggestion that running of schools be turned over to the field of management instead of leaving it to the educationists.

SOME THINGS ARE FOREVER

Men live and die.
Nations and civilizations,
And even races of men,
Do likewise.
Nothing is forever, it seems;
Not the world,
Not the sun,
Not the universe
In the manner it now appears to us.
Nothing is forever,
Except the materials
We, the world and the universe
Are made of,
And the Creator
Or First Cause
Or whatever rules
The intricate, delicately balanced,
Rhythmical order of all life
In the personal, human sense
And in the great universe
Of whirling suns and galaxies
Which men now think
They will one day rule.
More power to them
Say I.
In the opening lines, I spoke only Of material things.
There are other things
That do endure and will endure
Until the end of time
(if there is an end).
These are the things of the spirit,
The principles, the moral laws
(the eternal verities, if you please),
The natural laws
And nature and the Creator,
Or First Cause.
These principles and laws will live
After our race has passed into oblivion,
And will be around for the next universe
And the new races of men
To profit by—
Until they lose, as we have lost ours,
Their sense of values.

I am not a pessimist, as you may suspect after reading the above bit of free verse(?). I am still optimist to believe that we may blunder out of our present predicament as we blundered into it. I am speaking not only of our own country, which has blundered further, perhaps, than any other, because it was so much better off at the beginning, but of the world in general and all the races of men thereon.

In Great Britain, they used to call it, "muddling through," and for a few centuries she muddled through some pretty frightening circumstances, but she will have to do some pretty expert muddling to make it out of her present situation—and her experts are all dead.

As for us, with the possible exception of the founding fathers, experts we never had. We have just been piling one muddle on top of another for a long, long time and we have had plenty of experts at that. And I can see no hope, barring a miracle, for relief in the forseeable future. But I am optimist enough to believe in miracles.

In the above "poem," I was taking a long, long view. And nothing is forever, excepting those things I enumerated therein. But one thing is certain and that is if we keep on with this urban renewal thing, we will leave nothing for future archeologists to paw over but brand new ruins. That is, if they will hold up for a few centuries after we have left the scene, which is rather doubtful considering how they are being built.

The same can be said for France and the other so-called western countries as about England and our own benighted states, they'll be lucky if they can muddle through their present situations. West Germany appears strong at present, but she has some built-in socialistic programs that will put her on the rocks along with the rest of us within a few short decades, or less.

The proud "Western" civilization has been on the decline since WW 1 and someone has lately greased the skids. Optimist though I may be, I can see nothing ahead for the near future, barring the miracle, but a few centuries of slavery for all mankind. But the spirit of Freedom is one of the things that will endure and I expect it to triumph in the end. There will be free men working underground, as there have always been, and nothing makes men love freedom so much as being enslaved.

Nation's Press

The Attack on Capital Gains

(Wall Street Journal)

In most of the talk of tougher tax treatment of capital gains, there's a stunning unwillingness—or inability—to come to grips with the likely effects of the proposed changes.

The staff of the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, for example, leans toward requiring taxpayers to hold assets for a year, instead of six months, before they could qualify for preferential tax treatment.

How would this affect federal revenue? Well, the staff figures it would bring in an extra $300 million a year—if it could be assumed that taxpayers would continue to hold securities and other assets for the same lengths of time they do now.

Of course nothing of the kind can be assumed. The intrusion of the tax change would strongly influence most, if not all, investors. Wherever possible, investors would hold assets longer and sell less frequently; the upshot quite possibly could be a reduction, not an increase, in Treasury revenue.

In a similar way the committee staff estimates that raising the maximum capital gains tax rate to 35 percent from 25 percent would bring in an extra $715 million a year—assuming that tax payers continued to realize capital gains at about the same pace as in the past. The higher top rate, like the longer holding period, would guarantee that the past pattern would not prevail and, again, net revenue could fall instead of rising. The revenue loss would be even greater if, as the AFL-CIO proposes, all gains were taxed just like ordinary income.

Obviously enough, the tax reformers' chief aim is not more money for Uncle Sam but more "justice" as among individual taxpayers. When it comes to assessing justice, however, the reformers once again find reality rather elusive.

Those who favor a crackdown on the capital gains system argue, for one thing, that it conflicts with the progressive tax structure—as though there were something inherently just about progressive levies. It's hard to see what's so just about requiring an individual, as his income rises, to pay not merely more taxes but a swiftly rising percentage of his earnings. What it often amounts to is a plan to punish a nation's most productive citizens.

When an individual saves enough money to become an investor — the reformers sometimes seem to be saying that all investors inherited their funds from rich uncles — he may on occasion realize a capital gain. It may mean that the tax on his income, including the gain, will be at a lower rate than the tax paid by a less-thrifty neighbor who gets all of his income from wage. But should the tax system be designed to penalize thrift?

There also appears to be an assumption that investors almost always gain—an assumption that hasn't been noticeably shaken by the current shakeout in the stock market. The fact is that investments can be a loss affair, and someone must take the risks if the economy is to continue to grow and provide more jobs. In its own interest, as well as in the interest of justice, the nation must be sure that the penalties on the risk-takers do not become excessive.

Moreover, many people appear to believe that an investor whose stock has risen in price from $50 to $60 is always $10 richer, that he has always obtained $10 in real income. Since a large part of the gain may well reflect only inflation, is it fair to tax the $10 exactly the same way that you would tax $10 of ordinary income?

None of this is to advocate that capital gains not be taxed, or even that they should be taxed more lightly than at present. To a certain, difficult to measure, degree, most capital gains are indeed regarded as income by the recipients and, for the sake of equity, ought to be taxed as such.

All we're saying is that capital gains are seldom, if ever, exactly the same thing as ordinary income. Any effort to treat them as though they were is likely to deprive the Treasury of revenue, defeat true tax justice and slow the nation's economic growth.

And that plainly enough, would represent no gain for anybody.

How to Get POWs Released

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

To talk with the wife of a downed U. S. flier who has been a prisoner of war in North Vietnam for almost four years is a heart - wrenching experience. The depth of the mute appeal for help cannot in the nature of things be translated into effective words.

Mrs. Sybil Stockdale, whose husband, Navy Captain James Bond Stockdale, was shot down in 1965, knows all the frustrating limitations. She is national coordinator of an organization called the National League of Families of American Prisoners in Southeast Asia, with headquatrers in Coronado, Calif. She doesn't want to trade on public sympathy; as she says, she is proud of being the wife of a pilot who was doing his duty when misfortune struck. She doesn't want to say anything that could be used to make anti-American propaganda in Hanoi. But there is always the question: Is our State Department doing all it could be doing to have the North Vietnamese treat prisoners in accordance with the humane Geneva Convention of 1957?

Christmas mail and Christmas packages apparently do not go through to prisoners in Hanoi, even though the Geneva Convention stipulates that they are entitled to receive them. The North Vietnamese claim that the 1957 Geneva rules do not cover their situation, inasmuch as the Americans have not declared war. But the convention explicitly says that the accords, signed by North Vietnam on June 28, 1957, "shall apply to all cases of declared war or of any other armed conflict which may arise between two or more of the High Contracting Parties, even if the state of war is not recognized by one of them." This puts the ball in Ho Chi Minh's court. Unfortunately, Ho Chi Minh doesn't consider he is under any obligation to follow any particular rules of play.

What could be done to make Ho Chi Minh listen? Mrs. Stockdale's organization gets a somewhat less enigmatic response, and considerably more overtly expressed sympathy, from Secretary of Defense Melvin Larid than from his predecessors. She herself has received warm and courteous treatment from both Averell Harriman, Lyndon Johnson's peace negotiator, and the present Peace Ambassador, Henry Cabot Lodge. When Xuan Thuy, chief of the Hanoi delegation to the Paris Peace Talks, refused to release a list of U. S. prisoners of war held by Hanoi (there may be as many as a thousand of them), Laird said he was "deeply shocked and disappointed by this cruel response of Hanoi's representative to such a basic request for humanitarian action."

This sort of thing shows that Laird's heart is in the right place, but the quality of his cardiac response does not get through to North Vietnam. The whole thing necessarily degenerates into a "you're-another" game of mutual recrimination. The North Vietnamese ask, in effect, "Why did you bomb us if you believe in being humane?" Our answer is, "Why did you try to subvert the government of South Vietnam if you didn't want war? So the irresistible rhetorical force meets the immovable rhetorical object.

It so happens that Mrs. Stockdale's National League of Families of American Prisoners in Southeast Asia is repeating an old experience. In 1950, Captain Eugene R. Guild, of Glenwood Springs, Colo., a retired U. S. Army officer who had lost a son in Korea, formed a no-dues organization called the Fighting Homefolks of Fighting Men. Captain Guild says that of 389 men known to be held as prisoners in Korea, most were alive at last reports. He has often tried to obtain the names and addresses of their families from the Pentagon, only to be told that such information would invade the "privacy" of American citizens.

Captain Guild, having waited longer, is not inclined to be so politic as Mrs. Stockdale. He wants to see some "muscle" applied to the North Vietnamese. Addressing himself to President Nixon on behalf of his own organization, he "requests that you demand in Paris that for each percentage of U. S. troops withdrawn from Vietnam, the Communists liberate a corresponding percentage of the U. S. POWs they hold. This would forestall the holding of our POWs in Vietnam for blackmail, as the Communists held our POWs in Korea."

Would this jeopardize Nixon's withdrawal plans? Maybe. But if we are to withdraw under duress of any kind, what will be the upshot? A bigger war tomorrow, with more Captain Guilds and more Sybil Stockdales forced to form more organizations of the kith and kin of POWs? The game, as we play it, will have no end if "iron" is never exhibited on behalf of the Geneva rules.

LIVING MORAL LAWS

To the Editor:

In Corinthians 1-13-11 we read, "Now that I am a man, I have no more need for childish ways." If you will observe the ways of both men and women and analyze same, comparing their way to that of a child you arrive at one conclusion, that being, many still have childish ways.

They desire as they did when they were a child. They want something for nothing. They want more for less. They interfere in the right of property owners. They seek, desire, and ask government to do for them that which they should do for themselves.

They seek, pass, and uphold unprincipled laws. They hate. They seek revenge. They do unto others as they would not have the others do unto them. When driving a car they speed up to a stop light as though they think they can scare the light so that it will change to go, thereby permitting their passing.

Because they disagree with the principles of the editor they cancel subscription to the GT. Throughout the ages man has been a recommender, some for good and some for evil. The Psalmist recommends that you taste the LORD and see for yourself that he is good. I too recommend the goodness of God to all who put their trust in him.

I also RECOMMEND being a man or a woman and trying to live by moral laws.

OH! MR. NIXON

To the Editor:

Where is the Capitol of our country. Does the newly elected president have the right to move our Capitol to any place he desires? Will the next President have the right to take the Capitol with him to any place he desires?

If Mr. Johnson had taken the capitol to Houston, I and possibly you would have thought he was crazy. I did mention as a joke that Mr. Johnson might do that but thought it too absurd for anyone to think it possible, but now Mr. Nixon comes along and takes everything clear across the country, and all without any right to do so.

He was elected to be president, and not to chase all over the world and then come back to Washington, where all the billions of dollars have been put into buildings for our congress and officers to conduct the business of our country. The fact that Mr. Nixon seems to like ocean scenery does not give him the right to transplant all our national business across the country as he has done. Congress is at fault in letting him do this.

They cannot move all the business of the nation out to California. The extra expenses involved have been enormous and at a time when economy has been promised in all the elections by all the candidates. Our whole government has been a farce since the election.

First they almost double the salaries of all the candidates, and those already in office, including the President. Then Mr. Nixon makes trips around the world at enormous expense to the government. Then this big move to CROWN it all, after promising to economize during election.

He sure deserves to be halted in his tracks before he makes any more bad blunders. I voted for him, and am sorry of it. I think he has made the worst start of any president we have ever had. Stop him before he runs the country into the Ocean.

Congress get us out of the United Nations. They are a menace to our nation.

FRANK S. WELSH

REMEMBERING

To the Editor:

Do you remember when:

Attending college was a privilege rather than a right. A farmer could plant what he wished. The Supreme Court protected society rather than the criminals. The aged were cared for by their children.

Foreign officials visited the White House without asking for money. We entered a war to win it. A life sentence didn't mean parole in ten years. Our flag was respected at home and abroad.

America conducted her foreign affairs without consulting the UN. A father went on welfare only out of desperation and got off it as soon as possible. Charity was a virtue instead of big business. We could laugh at jokes about the Irish, Negroes, Jews or Swedes without being considered bigots.

The doctor's first question was "Where does it hurt?" rather than "Do you have insurance?" U. S. Grant was the name of a president rather than a federal handout. Giving aid to the enemy was treason. Now it's called foreign aid.

BELIEVES IN PEACE

To the Editor:

As a former resident of Colorado Springs I would appreciate the opportunity to communicate through your newspaper my reasons for becoming a draft dodger. In order for my action to have meaning I feel that it is necessary for the feelings of myself and a growing number of Americans to be heard. I hope you will give that opportunity to me so that the cause of peace might be furthered.

In December of 1968 I graduated from the University of Denver. At that time I faced the eventuality of the draft. In January of this year my wife and I immigrated to Canada and I became a draft dodger. On August 26 I became a fugitive from the United States because I did not appear for my Armed Forces Physical. I have returned my draft card to my local board as I cannot in good conscience participate in the Selective Service System.

I feel that as a member of society I have an obligation to uphold the freedom of mankind. It is my firm belief that the Selective Service System and the Military of the United States are operating under a policy which is contrary to the basic principles of freedom.

The current actions of the U. S. Armed Forces in Viet Nam and the stated policies of the Pentagon are in my estimation contrary to the principles and ideals for which the United States stands. Although I realize I have a responsibility to the United States, the country in which I was born and raised, I feel my highest responsibility is to society and mankind.

I cannot participate in a system run by the United States which operates contrary to the best interests of society. Arnold Toynbee and Bertrand Russell, two of this age's most eminent philosophers, both state that the greatest danger to our society is its drift toward war. As a citizen of the world and a member of world society I refuse to hasten that drift toward war by allowing myself to be drafted into the U. S. Army.

I realize full well that the advantages I enjoy as an American citizen are what allow me to make this decision. Had I not been so fortunate as to live in the United States I probably would have no choice in a matter such as this.

But does not this freedom of choice mean that the weight of responsibility rests heavier on me. My obligation as an American is to work for the freedom of all men. The policies of the United States as exemplified by the military do not serve this end. Americans must learn that wars do not strengthen their position in the world nor do they liberate men—for dead men cannot be free.

I have chosen to live in Canada and hope in some small way I am able to do something here to help bring about the peace our world so sorely needs. My decision was not an easy one. It is never easy to leave behind family and friends and move from a land which has given one so much, and realize that you can never go back. Nor is it easy to break the laws of the country you love. The decision is ultimately a personal one.

I feel I cannot serve in the army and that no purpose would be served by my going to prison. Instead, I have come to Canada. As a Canadian I feel that I can support the principles of freedom and peace. Now that the act is done I can only hope that, in the words of Jean-Paul

Until they lose, as we have lost ours,
Their sense of values.

I am not a pessimist, as you may suspect after reading the above bit of free verse(?). I am still optimist to believe that we may blunder out of our present predicament as we blundered into it. I am speaking not only of our own country, which has blundered further, perhaps, than any other, because it was so much better off at the beginning, but of the world in general and all the races of men thereon.

In Great Britain, they used to call it, "muddling through," and for a few centuries she muddled through some pretty frightening circumstances, but she will have to do some pretty expert muddling to make it out of her present situation—and her experts are all dead.

As for us, with the possible exception of the founding fathers, experts we never had. We have just been piling one muddle on top of another for a long, long time and we have had plenty of experts at that. And I can see no hope, barring a miracle, for relief in the forseeable future. But I am optimist enough to believe in miracles.

In the above "poem," I was taking a long, long view. And nothing is forever, excepting those things I enumerated therein. But one thing is certain and that is if we keep on with this urban renewal thing, we will leave nothing for future archeologists to paw over but brand new ruins. That is, if they will hold up for a few centuries after we have left the scene, which is rather doubtful considering how they are being built.

The same can be said for France and the other so-called western countries as about England and our own benighted states, they'll be lucky if they can muddle through their present situations. West Germany appears strong at present, but she has some built-in socialistic programs that will put her on the rocks along with the rest of us within a few short decades, or less.

The proud "Western" civilization has been on the decline since WW 1 and someone has lately greased the skids. Optimist though I may be, I can see nothing ahead for the near future, barring the miracle, but a few centuries of slavery for all mankind. But the spirit of Freedom is one of the things that will endure and I expect it to triumph in the end. There will be free men working underground, as there have always been, and nothing makes men love freedom so much as being enslaved.

The Attack on Capital Gains

(Wall Street Journal)

In most of the talk of tougher tax treatment of capital gains, there's a stunning unwillingness—or inability—to come to grips with the likely effects of the proposed changes.

The staff of the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, for example, leans toward requiring taxpayers to hold assets for a year, instead of six months, before they could qualify for preferential tax treatment.

How would this affect federal revenue? Well, the staff figures it would bring in an extra $300 million a year—if it could be assumed that taxpayers would continue to hold securities and other assets for the same lengths of time they do now.

Of course nothing of the kind can be assumed. The intrusion of the tax change would strongly influence most, if not all, investors. Wherever possible, investors would hold assets longer and sell less frequently; the upshot quite possibly could be a reduction, not an increase, in Treasury revenue.

In a similar way the committee staff estimates that raising the maximum capital gains tax rate to 35 percent from 25 percent would bring in an extra $715 million a year—assuming that tax payers continued to realize capital gains at about the same pace as in the past. The higher top rate, like the longer holding period, would guarantee that the past pattern would not prevail and, again, net revenue could fall instead of rising. The revenue loss would be even greater if, as the AFL-CIO proposes, all gains were taxed just like ordinary income.

Obviously enough, the tax reformers' chief aim is not more money for Uncle Sam but more "justice" as among individual taxpayers. When it comes to assessing justice, however, the reformers once again find reality rather elusive.

Those who favor a crackdown on the capital gains system argue, for one thing, that it conflicts with the progressive tax structure—as though there were something inherently just about progressive levies. It's hard to see what's so just about requiring an individual, as his income rises, to pay not merely more taxes but a swiftly rising percentage of his earnings. What it often amounts to is a plan to punish a nation's most productive citizens.

When an individual saves enough money to become an investor — the reformers sometimes seem to be saying that all investors inherited their funds from rich uncles — he may on occasion realize a capital gain. It may mean that the tax on his income, including the gain, will be at a lower rate than the tax paid by a less-thrifty neighbor who gets all of his income from wage. But should the tax system be designed to penalize thrift?

There also appears to be an assumption that investors almost always gain—an assumption that hasn't been noticeably shaken by the current shakeout in the stock market. The fact is that investments can be a loss affair, and someone must take the risks if the economy is to continue to grow and provide more jobs. In its own interest, as well as in the interest of justice, the nation must be sure that the penalties on the risk-takers do not become excessive.

Moreover, many people appear to believe that an investor whose stock has risen in price from $50 to $60 is always $10 richer, that he has always obtained $10 in real income. Since a large part of the gain may well reflect only inflation, is it fair to tax the $10 exactly the same way that you would tax $10 of ordinary income?

None of this is to advocate that capital gains not be taxed, or even that they should be taxed more lightly than at present. To a certain, difficult to measure, degree, most capital gains are indeed regarded as income by the recipients and, for the sake of equity, ought to be taxed as such.

All we're saying is that capital gains are seldom, if ever, exactly the same thing as ordinary income. Any effort to treat them as though they were is likely to deprive the Treasury of revenue, defeat true tax justice and slow the nation's economic growth.

And that plainly enough, would represent no gain for anybody.

How to Get POWs Released

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

To talk with the wife of a downed U. S. flier who has been a prisoner of war in North Vietnam for almost four years is a heart - wrenching experience. The depth of the mute appeal for help cannot in the nature of things be translated into effective words.

Mrs. Sybil Stockdale, whose husband, Navy Captain James Bond Stockdale, was shot down in 1965, knows all the frustrating limitations. She is national coordinator of an organization called the National League of Families of American Prisoners in Southeast Asia, with headquatrers in Coronado, Calif. She doesn't want to trade on public sympathy; as she says, she is proud of being the wife of a pilot who was doing his duty when misfortune struck. She doesn't want to say anything that could be used to make anti-American propaganda in Hanoi. But there is always the question: Is our State Department doing all it could be doing to have the North Vietnamese treat prisoners in accordance with the humane Geneva Convention of 1957?

Christmas mail and Christmas packages apparently do not go through to prisoners in Hanoi, even though the Geneva Convention stipulates that they are entitled to receive them. The North Vietnamese claim that the 1957 Geneva rules do not cover their situation, inasmuch as the Americans have not declared war. But the convention explicitly says that the accords, signed by North Vietnam on June 28, 1957, "shall apply to all cases of declared war or of any other armed conflict which may arise between two or more of the High Contracting Parties, even if the state of war is not recognized by one of them." This puts the ball in Ho Chi Minh's court. Unfortunately, Ho Chi Minh doesn't consider he is under any obligation to follow any particular rules of play.

What could be done to make Ho Chi Minh listen? Mrs. Stockdale's organization gets a somewhat less enigmatic response, and considerably more overtly expressed sympathy, from Secretary of Defense Melvin Larid than from his predecessors. She herself has received warm and courteous treatment from both Averell Harriman, Lyndon Johnson's peace negotiator, and the present Peace Ambassador, Henry Cabot Lodge. When Xuan Thuy, chief of the Hanoi delegation to the Paris Peace Talks, refused to release a list of U. S. prisoners of war held by Hanoi (there may be as many as a thousand of them), Laird said he was "deeply shocked and disappointed by this cruel response of Hanoi's representative to such a basic request for humanitarian action."

This sort of thing shows that Laird's heart is in the right place, but the quality of his cardiac response does not get through to North Vietnam. The whole thing necessarily degenerates into a "you're-another" game of mutual recrimination. The North Vietnamese ask, in effect, "Why did you bomb us if you believe in being humane?" Our answer is, "Why did you try to subvert the government of South Vietnam if you didn't want war? So the irresistible rhetorical force meets the immovable rhetorical object.

It so happens that Mrs. Stockdale's National League of Families of American Prisoners in Southeast Asia is repeating an old experience. In 1950, Captain Eugene R. Guild, of Glenwood Springs, Colo., a retired U. S. Army officer who had lost a son in Korea, formed a no-dues organization called the Fighting Homefolks of Fighting Men. Captain Guild says that of 389 men known to be held as prisoners in Korea, most were alive at last reports. He has often tried to obtain the names and addresses of their families from the Pentagon, only to be told that such information would invade the "privacy" of American citizens.

Captain Guild, having waited longer, is not inclined to be so politic as Mrs. Stockdale. He wants to see some "muscle" applied to the North Vietnamese. Addressing himself to President Nixon on behalf of his own organization, he "requests that you demand in Paris that for each percentage of U. S. troops withdrawn from Vietnam, the Communists liberate a corresponding percentage of the U. S. POWs they hold. This would forestall the holding of our POWs in Vietnam for blackmail, as the Communists held our POWs in Korea."

Would this jeopardize Nixon's withdrawal plans? Maybe. But if we are to withdraw under duress of any kind, what will be the upshot? A bigger war tomorrow, with more Captain Guilds and more Sybil Stockdales forced to form more organizations of the kith and kin of POWs? The game, as we play it, will have no end if "iron" is never exhibited on behalf of the Geneva rules.

LIVING MORAL LAWS

To the Editor:

In Corinthians 1-13-11 we read, "Now that I am a man, I have no more need for childish ways." If you will observe the ways of both men and women and analyze same, comparing their way to that of a child you arrive at one conclusion, that being, many still have childish ways.

They desire as they did when they were a child. They want something for nothing. They want more for less. They interfere in the right of property owners. They seek, desire, and ask government to do for them that which they should do for themselves.

They seek, pass, and uphold unprincipled laws. They hate. They seek revenge. They do unto others as they would not have the others do unto them. When driving a car they speed up to a stop light as though they think they can scare the light so that it will change to go, thereby permitting their passing.

Because they disagree with the principles of the editor they cancel subscription to the GT. Throughout the ages man has been a recommender, some for good and some for evil. The Psalmist recommends that you taste the LORD and see for yourself that he is good. I too recommend the goodness of God to all who put their trust in him.

I also RECOMMEND being a man or a woman and trying to live by moral laws.

OH! MR. NIXON

To the Editor:

Where is the Capitol of our country. Does the newly elected president have the right to move our Capitol to any place he desires? Will the next President have the right to take the Capitol with him to any place he desires?

If Mr. Johnson had taken the capitol to Houston, I and possibly you would have thought he was crazy. I did mention as a joke that Mr. Johnson might do that but thought it too absurd for anyone to think it possible, but now Mr. Nixon comes along and takes everything clear across the country, and all without any right to do so.

He was elected to be president, and not to chase all over the world and then come back to Washington, where all the billions of dollars have been put into buildings for our congress and officers to conduct the business of our country. The fact that Mr. Nixon seems to like ocean scenery does not give him the right to transplant all our national business across the country as he has done. Congress is at fault in letting him do this.

They cannot move all the business of the nation out to California. The extra expenses involved have been enormous and at a time when economy has been promised in all the elections by all the candidates. Our whole government has been a farce since the election.

First they almost double the salaries of all the candidates, and those already in office, including the President. Then Mr. Nixon makes trips around the world at enormous expense to the government. Then this big move to CROWN it all, after promising to economize during election.

He sure deserves to be halted in his tracks before he makes any more bad blunders. I voted for him, and am sorry of it. I think he has made the worst start of any president we have ever had. Stop him before he runs the country into the Ocean.

Congress get us out of the United Nations. They are a menace to our nation.

REMEMBERING

To the Editor:

Do you remember when:

Attending college was a privilege rather than a right. A farmer could plant what he wished. The Supreme Court protected society rather than the criminals. The aged were cared for by their children.

Foreign officials visited the White House without asking for money. We entered a war to win it. A life sentence didn't mean parole in ten years. Our flag was respected at home and abroad.

America conducted her foreign affairs without consulting the UN. A father went on welfare only out of desperation and got off it as soon as possible. Charity was a virtue instead of big business. We could laugh at jokes about the Irish, Negroes, Jews or Swedes without being considered bigots.

The doctor's first question was "Where does it hurt?" rather than "Do you have insurance?" U. S. Grant was the name of a president rather than a federal handout. Giving aid to the enemy was treason. Now it's called foreign aid.

BELIEVES IN PEACE

To the Editor:

As a former resident of Colorado Springs I would appreciate the opportunity to communicate through your newspaper my reasons for becoming a draft dodger. In order for my action to have meaning I feel that it is necessary for the feelings of myself and a growing number of Americans to be heard. I hope you will give that opportunity to me so that the cause of peace might be furthered.

In December of 1968 I graduated from the University of Denver. At that time I faced the eventuality of the draft. In January of this year my wife and I immigrated to Canada and I became a draft dodger. On August 26 I became a fugitive from the United States because I did not appear for my Armed Forces Physical. I have returned my draft card to my local board as I cannot in good conscience participate in the Selective Service System.

I feel that as a member of society I have an obligation to uphold the freedom of mankind. It is my firm belief that the Selective Service System and the Military of the United States are operating under a policy which is contrary to the basic principles of freedom.

The current actions of the U. S. Armed Forces in Viet Nam and the stated policies of the Pentagon are in my estimation contrary to the principles and ideals for which the United States stands. Although I realize I have a responsibility to the United States, the country in which I was born and raised, I feel my highest responsibility is to society and mankind.

I cannot participate in a system run by the United States which operates contrary to the best interests of society. Arnold Toynbee and Bertrand Russell, two of this age's most eminent philosophers, both state that the greatest danger to our society is its drift toward war. As a citizen of the world and a member of world society I refuse to hasten that drift toward war by allowing myself to be drafted into the U. S. Army.

I realize full well that the advantages I enjoy as an American citizen are what allow me to make this decision. Had I not been so fortunate as to live in the United States I probably would have no choice in a matter such as this.

But does not this freedom of choice mean that the weight of responsibility rests heavier on me. My obligation as an American is to work for the freedom of all men. The policies of the United States as exemplified by the military do not serve this end. Americans must learn that wars do not strengthen their position in the world nor do they liberate men—for dead men cannot be free.

I have chosen to live in Canada and hope in some small way I am able to do something here to help bring about the peace our world so sorely needs. My decision was not an easy one. It is never easy to leave behind family and friends and move from a land which has given one so much, and realize that you can never go back. Nor is it easy to break the laws of the country you love. The decision is ultimately a personal one.

I feel I cannot serve in the army and that no purpose would be served by my going to prison. Instead, I have come to Canada. As a Canadian I feel that I can support the principles of freedom and peace. Now that the act is done I can only hope that, in the words of Jean-Paul-

LOVE IS LIFE

To the Editor:

God's Love alone is Life, pure, harmonious, perfect and always the same substance and power for good.

When we recognize God's Love filling all space, we realize that God-Intelligence regards every organ and every cell of everyone and everything, as pure Love, pure substance, pure etheric, creative energy and Life, the only substance and life existing.

In this allness of God's Love and Life, there are no distinctions, no differences, all are capable of expressing God-Life. All are capable of expressing the righteousness of God, the rightness of God, the right thinking of God -Intelligence in every cell.

We can let our right thinking, our right doing, our right being come forth so we are conscious of God's righteousness as our only expression.

There is only God-Love and God-Life and God-Light, so truly, we have never, ever, experienced, expressed or shown forth anything less.

In our entirety, we are one with the Life, Light and Love of Spirit. All cells in our body contain spirit substance and life, making our body wholly whole in God-Life and Love and therefore, HOLY.

COULD ANY BELIEF BE MORE DIVINE than that? It's wonderful. It's marvelous. It's TRUE. Love alone is life. Let's get into it! It is in us!

RED OR GREEN?

To the Editor:

Howard Selden leaves me with the impression that he is a wise and cool -headed observer and commentator; I remember nothing he has written with which I disagree at all.

Mr. Selden commented on my pet peeve: the driver in a hurry to reach the next light and be stopped thereby, and his description was typically excellent. He also said he could drive the length of Nevada Ave. at the proper speed, and if not bothered by poor drivers he could hit every light green.

Now I have often tried this since Mr. Smith said it could be done, and I can't do it except on the chance I get in at the proper portion of the light sequence — then it works as advertised. But this portion is a fraction of the possibilities for meeting a stoplight, and therefore the chance to get through is the same fraction, in my experience.

But Mr. Selden spoke as if it worked every time. . .I'm going to try it some more and keep closer records, for if he says it, there must be something to it.

There is one other possibility: I once kept count of the red and green lights I met and compared them. Over several years I ran a consistent average of 68 per cent red lights — seems it should be 50-50, doesn't it? Maybe Mr. Selden gets the favored percentage of green that I do not get. . .?

Lions Annual School Is Scheduled

The Lions annual School of Instruction for new officers and members will be held Sept. 7 at the Ramada Inn in Pueblo.

A luncheon will be held at 12:30 p.m. and the school will begin at 2:30 p.m.

The school is open to all new officers and members of Lions District 6-South, which includes the Colorado Springs clubs, and those in Southern Colorado. All Lions and their Ladies are invited to attend.

Larry Nelson of Colorado Springs, who is district governor, recently returned from the Lions International's 52nd international meeting in Tokyo, Japan.

At his first Colorado meeting, Nelson stressed the "dynamic new dimension" of Lionism in establishing youth groups, which will be called Leo Clubs, and the emphasis that Lions International is placing on its youth exchange program which provides good will between countries and an opportunity for youth to participate on a person-to-person basis with peoples of other countries.

Nelson has also announced that the Lions of Southern Colorado have pledged support for this new program. He said also that the State Lions Convention will be held next spring in Colorado Springs.

Co-Defendants Are Ruled Legally Insane

Two co-defendants who previously pleaded insanity have been found legally insane and their sanity trial was scheduled in district court Friday for Sept. 4.

The pair were Robert L Lobato Jr., 20, Pueblo, and James A . Wyatt, 23, Austin, Tex.

They pleaded insanity Aug. 1 when two other co-defendants, Donald William Tevyaw, 21, Providence R. I. and Perry G. Doughty, 20, Elmhurst, N. Y. entered a similar plea.

Tevyaw and Doughty have been found legally sane and will be tried on the guilt issue Nov. 3.

The four are charged with simple robbery and alleged to have robbed Marion Earl Young, 630 E Boulder St. while a second count of theft says they stole his car. Both incidents happened July 8.

Pravda Has Hard Words For China Leadership

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

What Pravda had to say this week about Egypt and China makes the reader wonder whether there isn't more danger of full-scale war in the Far East than in the Middle East.

On Wednesday, the Soviet Communist party newspaper warmly approved the idea that Gamal Abdel Nasser should concentrate on Egypt's internal economy to strengthen his "socialist-oriented" regime. The suggestion seemed to be that total war with Israel could wait until Egypt is stronger.

On Thursday, Pravda reported growing Soviet anxiety over Red China's calls "for war" at a time when "the military arsenals of the Maoists are filling up with new weapons."

The point was difficult to miss. Those new Chinese weapons are nuclear-tipped missiles which can be pointed north.

The long Pravda article, fashioned perhaps more for world opinion than for Peking ears, seemed to lay down an advance Kremlin case, should Moscow feel provoked to action against China or its nuclear installations.

All this appears to strengthen reports—evidently leaked by Communist sources in Washington—that the Russians are probing for what the reaction might be to a preventive strike at China's nuclear potential. Some say these reports are exaggerated, but Pravda's words make it seem that the Kremlin wants both Peking and the world to recognize the possibility.

While the possibility exists, Moscow would hardly relish the risk of a major Middle East conflagration which could produce a big-power showdown. In this light, the Pravda article on Egypt is intriguing.

Pravda spoke glowingly of the internal program Nasser proposed early in 1968 as holding good prospects for neutralizing his domestic foes.

The program includes land reform and the breaking up of big holdings for redistribution among the peasants. The Pravda writer says this would broaden Nasser's political base and help solve the economic and political difficulties which arose after the disastrous six-day war with Israel in 1967.

Pravda finds "reactionary" forces in Egypt trying to impede Nasser's program by saying that now, while Israelis occupy Egyptian territory, is not the time to be talking of social-economic reforms. This may be Moscow's way of suggesting that Nasser tend to his domestic knitting and not be hasty about war with Israel.

The Russians historically detest being required to watch two major fronts simultaneously, and China seems to be the more worrisome one. Thursday's Pravda attack, one of the toughest-sounding to date, seemed also part of a concentrated Soviet propaganda campaign to arouse widespread anti-Chinese feeling among the Soviet population. To the Soviet reader of the article, Peking will likely appear to be a monstrous threat.

Mao Tse-tung, said Pravda, is seeking "superpower" status, and his regime "has taken a dangerous, absurdly adventurist stand on questions of war and peace which affect the destinies of peoples of the entire planet." Mao is, it said, pushing "his favorite conception of the inevitability of war." But the U.S.S.R. is "afraid of nobody's threats."

"Yet the adventurism of the Peking leaders, the atmosphere of war hysteria they are fanning, complicate the entire international situation.

"Yet the adventurism of the Peking leaders, the atmosphere of war hysteria they are fanning, complicate the entire international situation. The methods of threats, blackmail and provocations . . . making calls not for peace but for war—all this causes the legitimate anxiety of many peoples and states . . . . The military arsenals of the Maoists are filling up with new weapons. Yet a war, should it break out in present-day conditions, what with existing weaponry and lethal armaments and modern means of delivery, would not spare a single continent."

Pravda wound up with a prediction: Mao's policy "has no future."

Police Looking For Missing Machine Guns

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Maryland and Delaware state police have issued an alert for a missing shipment of Marine Corps machine guns bound for a base at Davisville, R.I.

Police said the tractor-trailer, one of a convoy of three trucks, was last seen Thursday night in the Washington area.

Marine officials told police the truck was expected to go either around Baltimore, up U.S. 1 or Maryland 7 through Wilmington, Del., or up U.S. 301 along Maryland's eastern shore.

The two companion trucks of the convoy were said to be waiting at a rest area on the New Jersey Turnpike.

Maryland state police said they had not been advised of the convoy's point of origin.

Sees Students Helping With Curriculum

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — The president of Colorado State College said schools may expect to see an emerging responsible voice in curriculum planning—the voice of the student.

Dr. Darrell Holmes, speaking Thursday in Cheyenne to nearly 700 educators, said students will become more mature and reponsible individuals through increased decision-making.

Holmes predicted a "partnership" between student governments and school faculties in developing programs relevant to today's society.

The meeting of the educators officially opens the 1969 - 70 school year for Cheyenne school personnel. Students return to classes in Cheyenne next Tuesday.

Detroit Telling Blacks 'Blue Is Beautiful'

By GENE SCHROEDER
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — In the hope of signing up more blacks, Detroit's Police Department is proclaiming that "Blue Is Beautiful."

The department launched a stepped-up drive for new recruits this week as it formally dedicated a new recruiting headquarters in the inner city.

The two-story building is three blocks from 12th Street, where Detroit's 1967 race riot began.

Two police lieutenants, two sergeants, 10 mobile task force patrolmen recruiters and 14 patrolmen-investigators are assigned to the recruiting unit.

Some 40 per cent of Detroit's population is Negro, but only about 10 per cent of the police force is black.

Police officials emphasize that any qualified applicants—white or black—can find a place on the 4,000-man force. But they concede that the new program seeks a higher proportion of black recruits.

Police Commissioner Johannes Spreen said in an interview there is no Negro quota for the program and no ratio between the number of whites and blacks being sought.

"I have some 200 job openings," Spreen said, "and if I get 200 blacks I'll put them in right now. But we want to make sure everyone is qualified—and if we get 200 whites, we'll put them in, too.

"The color is blue—police blue—but we're encouraging and trying to get the blacks in.

"The trouble is a lot of them aren't interested because they're afraid of being called 'Uncle Toms,' or 'pigs,' or joining a so-called racist, oppressive police force . . . And jobs are easier in industry."

Before the centralization of recruiting activities in separate headquarters—a process under way for several months—potential recruits had to apply at police headquarters downtown.

Frequently, said recruiter Eugene Mangum, an applicant would leave police headquarters to find his car ticketed for a parking infraction. "This was not what you would call good recruiting technique," he said.

"I would say the quality of our recruits is at least the same, and probably better, since we moved out here," Mangum said. He said physical and educational requirements have been lowered and this has brought in more applicants.

Shorter applicants are now accepted along with those who have not completed high school or an equivalent.

The recruiting effort also uses two donated vans to "go where the people are." One van-mounted recruiting team went to the Michigan State Fair this week.

Applicants who qualify are put on the city payroll the next week at $8,000 a year and assigned to minor duties until a class begins at the police academy. Applicants can still be eliminated at the academy.

More and more men with at least some college background have been applying. A spokesman pointed to the new pay scale as a reason. After four years a policeman earns $10,800 a year plus fringe benefits.

Suit Claims Chemical Caused Crop Failure

DEL NORTE, Colo. (AP) A $5.5 million lawsuit charging a commercial fertilizer not only damaged this year's potato crop in portions of the San Luis Valley, but also damaged the land for future crops, has been filed in District Court here against Pure Gas and Chemical Co., Denver.

The 24-page lawsuit, was filed by 33 San Luis Valley potato growers, and charges the fertilizer, a mix known commercially as 16-20-0, effected 1,400 acres.

The complaint was filed Aug. 26, however the Colorado Department of Agriculture confirmed the damage earlier, attributing it to fertilizer, but not identifying its commercial name.

A Pure Gas and Chemical Co. spokesman said the firm has not yet had time to investigate all the legal aspects of the case. He said, however, the fertilizer has been in use about 15 years.

Lawyer Calls DA's Office 'Despicable'

"Despicable" was the word used for the district attorney's office Friday by defense counsel Leo Rector.

Rector was referring to the form in which six felony charges had been filed against his client, Ronald Box Edwards, 18, 3526 N. Cascade Ave.

The lawyer heatedly charged that the D. A.'s office had deliberately filed an alias, "Butch" to sway and prejudice the jury when and if the matters come to trial. Rector said that everyone with the exception of himself, had a nickname.

He also stated he felt "deep anger" against the DA. He requested Judge William M. Calvert to strike the word "Butch" from the charges and also asked that two separate charges consisting of two counts each be filed as four informations.

In reply Deputy District Attorney Montell Dunn said he "resented" Rector's remarks. The lawyer, said Dunn, seemed to blame the DA's office for the crimes committed by the defendant. As for the name "Butch," he added, "We did not name him that. He did it himself."

Rector's two motions were promptly denied by Judge Calvert and defense counsel then pleaded Edwards innocent to all the charges which include, burglaries, thefts and entering a motor vehicle.

Trial date was set for the week of Nov. 3.

Edwards is a member of a group of young men at one time facing an equal assortment of charges. Two of them, Brian Lane Brenton, 20, 2115 W. Colorado Ave. and Jeffrey Scott Moore, 20, 3526 N. Cascade Ave. pleaded guilty to one of the charges Aug. 2 and will be sentenced Sept. 5.

Man Pleads Innocent To Drug Charge

Neil Calvin Gregerson pleaded innocent in district court Friday to a dangerous drug charge and Judge William M. Calvert set Dec. 1 for trial.

Gergerson, 20, 1204 N. Cooper St. is said to have methamphetamine in his possession Aug. 20.

Charge Is Amended To Simple Assault

A charge of assault with a deadly weapon against Billy Gene Hudson was amended in district court Friday to simple assault and the defendant pleaded guilty.

Hudson, 22, 3662 Overton St. was first accused of attacking James Ivy, Security, with an iron bar, Feb. 9 at the Security Shopping Center.

Judge William M. Calvert continued the case to Sept. 19 for sentencing.

A second defendant, Wayne Thomas Boyles, 21, 1436 N. Swope Ave. had a charge of possession of a narcotic drug reduced to disorderly person and guilty plea was entered.

According to the original information Boyles had marijuana in his possession May 31.

He will be sentenced Sept. 12.

LOVE IS LIFE

To the Editor:

God's Love alone is Life, pure, harmonious, perfect and always the same substance and power for good.

When we recognize God's Love filling all space, we realize that God-Intelligence regards every organ and every cell of everyone and everything, as pure Love, pure substance, pure etheric, creative energy and Life, the only substance and life existing.

In this allness of God's Love and Life, there are no distinctions, no differences, all are capable of expressing God-Life. All are capable of expressing the righteousness of God, the rightness of God, the right thinking of God -Intelligence in every cell.

We can let our right thinking, our right doing, our right being come forth so we are conscious of God's righteousness as our only expression.

There is only God-Love and God-Life and God-Light, so truly, we have never, ever, experienced, expressed or shown forth anything less.

In our entirety, we are one with the Life, Light and Love of Spirit. All cells in our body contain spirit substance and life, making our body wholly whole in God-Life and Love and therefore, HOLY.

COULD ANY BELIEF BE MORE DIVINE than that? It's wonderful. It's marvelous. It's TRUE. Love alone is life. Let's get into it! It is in us!

RED OR GREEN?

To the Editor:

Howard Selden leaves me with the impression that he is a wise and cool -headed observer and commentator; I remember nothing he has written with which I disagree at all.

Mr. Selden commented on my pet peeve: the driver in a hurry to reach the next light and be stopped thereby, and his description was typically excellent. He also said he could drive the length of Nevada Ave. at the proper speed, and if not bothered by poor drivers he could hit every light green.

Now I have often tried this since Mr. Smith said it could be done, and I can't do it except on the chance I get in at the proper portion of the light sequence — then it works as advertised. But this portion is a fraction of the possibilities for meeting a stoplight, and therefore the chance to get through is the same fraction, in my experience.

But Mr. Selden spoke as if it worked every time. . .I'm going to try it some more and keep closer records, for if he says it, there must be something to it.

There is one other possibility: I once kept count of the red and green lights I met and compared them. Over several years I ran a consistent average of 68 per cent red lights — seems it should be 50-50, doesn't it? Maybe Mr. Selden gets the favored percentage of green that I do not get. . .?

Lions Annual School Is Scheduled

The Lions annual School of Instruction for new officers and members will be held Sept. 7 at the Ramada Inn in Pueblo.

A luncheon will be held at 12:30 p.m. and the school will begin at 2:30 p.m.

The school is open to all new officers and members of Lions District 6-South, which includes the Colorado Springs clubs, and those in Southern Colorado. All Lions and their Ladies are invited to attend.

Larry Nelson of Colorado Springs, who is district governor, recently returned from the Lions International's 52nd international meeting in Tokyo, Japan.

At his first Colorado meeting, Nelson stressed the "dynamic new dimension" of Lionism in establishing youth groups, which will be called Leo Clubs, and the emphasis that Lions International is placing on its youth exchange program which provides good will between countries and an opportunity for youth to participate on a person-to-person basis with peoples of other countries.

Nelson has also announced that the Lions of Southern Colorado have pledged support for this new program. He said also that the State Lions Convention will be held next spring in Colorado Springs.

Co-Defendants Are Ruled Legally Insane

Two co-defendants who previously pleaded insanity have been found legally insane and their sanity trial was scheduled in district court Friday for Sept. 4.

The pair were Robert L Lobato Jr., 20, Pueblo, and James A . Wyatt, 23, Austin, Tex.

They pleaded insanity Aug. 1 when two other co-defendants, Donald William Tevyaw, 21, Providence R. I. and Perry G. Doughty, 20, Elmhurst, N. Y. entered a similar plea.

Tevyaw and Doughty have been found legally sane and will be tried on the guilt issue Nov. 3.

The four are charged with simple robbery and alleged to have robbed Marion Earl Young, 630 E Boulder St. while a second count of theft says they stole his car. Both incidents happened July 8.

Pravda Has Hard Words For China Leadership

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

What Pravda had to say this week about Egypt and China makes the reader wonder whether there isn't more danger of full-scale war in the Far East than in the Middle East.

On Wednesday, the Soviet Communist party newspaper warmly approved the idea that Gamal Abdel Nasser should concentrate on Egypt's internal economy to strengthen his "socialist-oriented" regime. The suggestion seemed to be that total war with Israel could wait until Egypt is stronger.

On Thursday, Pravda reported growing Soviet anxiety over Red China's calls "for war" at a time when "the military arsenals of the Maoists are filling up with new weapons."

The point was difficult to miss. Those new Chinese weapons are nuclear-tipped missiles which can be pointed north.

The long Pravda article, fashioned perhaps more for world opinion than for Peking ears, seemed to lay down an advance Kremlin case, should Moscow feel provoked to action against China or its nuclear installations.

All this appears to strengthen reports—evidently leaked by Communist sources in Washington—that the Russians are probing for what the reaction might be to a preventive strike at China's nuclear potential. Some say these reports are exaggerated, but Pravda's words make it seem that the Kremlin wants both Peking and the world to recognize the possibility.

While the possibility exists, Moscow would hardly relish the risk of a major Middle East conflagration which could produce a big-power showdown. In this light, the Pravda article on Egypt is intriguing.

Pravda spoke glowingly of the internal program Nasser proposed early in 1968 as holding good prospects for neutralizing his domestic foes.

The program includes land reform and the breaking up of big holdings for redistribution among the peasants. The Pravda writer says this would broaden Nasser's political base and help solve the economic and political difficulties which arose after the disastrous six-day war with Israel in 1967.

Pravda finds "reactionary" forces in Egypt trying to impede Nasser's program by saying that now, while Israelis occupy Egyptian territory, is not the time to be talking of social-economic reforms. This may be Moscow's way of suggesting that Nasser tend to his domestic knitting and not be hasty about war with Israel.

The Russians historically detest being required to watch two major fronts simultaneously, and China seems to be the more worrisome one. Thursday's Pravda attack, one of the toughest-sounding to date, seemed also part of a concentrated Soviet propaganda campaign to arouse widespread anti-Chinese feeling among the Soviet population. To the Soviet reader of the article, Peking will likely appear to be a monstrous threat.

Mao Tse-tung, said Pravda, is seeking "superpower" status, and his regime "has taken a dangerous, absurdly adventurist stand on questions of war and peace which affect the destinies of peoples of the entire planet." Mao is, it said, pushing "his favorite conception of the inevitability of war." But the U.S.S.R. is "afraid of nobody's threats."

"Yet the adventurism of the Peking leaders, the atmosphere of war hysteria they are fanning, complicate the entire international situation.

"Yet the adventurism of the Peking leaders, the atmosphere of war hysteria they are fanning, complicate the entire international situation. The methods of threats, blackmail and provocations . . . making calls not for peace but for war—all this causes the legitimate anxiety of many peoples and states . . . . The military arsenals of the Maoists are filling up with new weapons. Yet a war, should it break out in present-day conditions, what with existing weaponry and lethal armaments and modern means of delivery, would not spare a single continent."

Pravda wound up with a prediction: Mao's policy "has no future."

Police Looking For Missing Machine Guns

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Maryland and Delaware state police have issued an alert for a missing shipment of Marine Corps machine guns bound for a base at Davisville, R.I.

Police said the tractor-trailer, one of a convoy of three trucks, was last seen Thursday night in the Washington area.

Marine officials told police the truck was expected to go either around Baltimore, up U.S. 1 or Maryland 7 through Wilmington, Del., or up U.S. 301 along Maryland's eastern shore.

The two companion trucks of the convoy were said to be waiting at a rest area on the New Jersey Turnpike.

Sees Students Helping With Curriculum

CHEYENNE, Wyo. (AP) — The president of Colorado State College said schools may expect to see an emerging responsible voice in curriculum planning—the voice of the student.

Dr. Darrell Holmes, speaking Thursday in Cheyenne to nearly 700 educators, said students will become more mature and reponsible individuals through increased decision-making.

Holmes predicted a "partnership" between student governments and school faculties in developing programs relevant to today's society.

The meeting of the educators officially opens the 1969 - 70 school year for Cheyenne school personnel. Students return to classes in Cheyenne next Tuesday.

Detroit Telling Blacks 'Blue Is Beautiful'

By GENE SCHROEDER
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — In the hope of signing up more blacks, Detroit's Police Department is proclaiming that "Blue Is Beautiful."

The department launched a stepped-up drive for new recruits this week as it formally dedicated a new recruiting headquarters in the inner city.

The two-story building is three blocks from 12th Street, where Detroit's 1967 race riot began.

Two police lieutenants, two sergeants, 10 mobile task force patrolmen recruiters and 14 patrolmen-investigators are assigned to the recruiting unit.

Some 40 per cent of Detroit's population is Negro, but only about 10 per cent of the police force is black.

Police officials emphasize that any qualified applicants—white or black—can find a place on the 4,000-man force. But they concede that the new program seeks a higher proportion of black recruits.

Police Commissioner Johannes Spreen said in an interview there is no Negro quota for the program and no ratio between the number of whites and blacks being sought.

"I have some 200 job openings," Spreen said, "and if I get 200 blacks I'll put them in right now. But we want to make sure everyone is qualified—and if we get 200 whites, we'll put them in, too.

"The color is blue—police blue—but we're encouraging and trying to get the blacks in.

"The trouble is a lot of them aren't interested because they're afraid of being called 'Uncle Toms,' or 'pigs,' or joining a so-called racist, oppressive police force . . . And jobs are easier in industry."

Before the centralization of recruiting activities in separate headquarters—a process under way for several months—potential recruits had to apply at police headquarters downtown.

Frequently, said recruiter Eugene Mangum, an applicant would leave police headquarters to find his car ticketed for a parking infraction. "This was not what you would call good recruiting technique," he said.

"I would say the quality of our recruits is at least the same, and probably better, since we moved out here," Mangum said. He said physical and educational requirements have been lowered and this has brought in more applicants.

Shorter applicants are now accepted along with those who have not completed high school or an equivalent.

The recruiting effort also uses two donated vans to "go where the people are." One van-mounted recruiting team went to the Michigan State Fair this week.

Applicants who qualify are put on the city payroll the next week at $8,000 a year and assigned to minor duties until a class begins at the police academy. Applicants can still be eliminated at the academy.

More and more men with at least some college background have been applying. A spokesman pointed to the new pay scale as a reason. After four years a policeman earns $10,800 a year plus fringe benefits.

Charge Is Amended To Simple Assault

A charge of assault with a deadly weapon against Billy Gene Hudson was amended in district court Friday to simple assault and the defendant pleaded guilty.

Hudson, 22, 3662 Overton St. was first accused of attacking James Ivy, Security, with an iron bar, Feb. 9 at the Security Shopping Center.

Judge William M. Calvert continued the case to Sept. 19 for sentencing.

A second defendant, Wayne Thomas Boyles, 21, 1436 N. Swope Ave. had a charge of possession of a narcotic drug reduced to disorderly person and guilty plea was entered.

According to the original information Boyles had marijuana in his possession May 31.

He will be sentenced Sept. 12.

Suit Claims Chemical Caused Crop Failure

DEL NORTE, Colo. (AP) A $5.5 million lawsuit charging a commercial fertilizer not only damaged this year's potato crop in portions of the San Luis Valley, but also damaged the land for future crops, has been filed in District Court here against Pure Gas and Chemical Co., Denver.

The 24-page lawsuit, was filed by 33 San Luis Valley potato growers, and charges the fertilizer, a mix known commercially as 16-20-0, effected 1,400 acres.

The complaint was filed Aug. 26, however the Colorado Department of Agriculture confirmed the damage earlier, attributing it to fertilizer, but not identifying its commercial name.

A Pure Gas and Chemical Co. spokesman said the firm has not yet had time to investigate all the legal aspects of the case. He said, however, the fertilizer has been in use about 15 years.

There are about 39,000 miles of roads and highways in Argentina.

Lawyer Calls DA's Office 'Despicable'

"Despicable" was the word used for the district attorney's office Friday by defense counsel Leo Rector.

Rector was referring to the form in which six felony charges had been filed against his client, Ronald Box Edwards, 18, 3526 N. Cascade Ave.

The lawyer heatedly charged that the D. A.'s office had deliberately filed an alias, "Butch" to sway and prejudice the jury when and if the matters come to trial. Rector said that everyone with the exception of himself, had a nickname.

He also stated he felt "deep anger" against the DA. He requested Judge William M. Calvert to strike the word "Butch" from the charges and also asked that two separate charges consisting of two counts each be filed as four informations.

In reply Deputy District Attorney Montell Dunn said he "resented" Rector's remarks. The lawyer, said Dunn, seemed to blame the DA's office for the crimes committed by the defendant. As for the name "Butch," he added, "We did not name him that. He did it himself."

Rector's two motions were promptly denied by Judge Calvert and defense counsel then pleaded Edwards innocent to all the charges which include, burglaries, thefts and entering a motor vehicle.

Pain of War Slowed Company in Viet Jungle

By HORST FAAS
and PETER ARNETT
Associated Press Writers

SONG CHANG VALLEY, Vietnam (AP)—"Do they know what it means to disobey orders under fire?" the officer asked.

The men of A Company knew. Still they refused to go once again down that jungled rocky slope where unseen North Vietnamese had waited in bunkers and trenches.

The ranks of A Company of the 196th Infantry Brigade's battleworn 3rd Battalion were riddled. The men were exhausted, their uniforms ripped and caked with dirt.

They had made the push down the slope of Nui Lon Mountain repeatedly for five days. Each time the enemy survived a rain of bombs and artillery shells and picked them off in a deadly crossfire at close range. Those who remained decided they would not do it again.

"I am sorry, sir, but my men refuse to go; we cannot move out," Lt. Eugene Shurtz Jr. reported to his battalion commander over a crackling field telephone. That was when Lt. Col. Robert C. Bacon asked if they knew the penalty for disobeying orders.

The lieutenant said they did, "but some of them simply had enough. They are broken. There are boys here who have only 90 days left in Vietnam. The situation is psychic here. Most of our squad and platoon leaders have been killed or wounded. We've got a leadership problem."

Bacon had taken over the battalion after Lt. Col. Eli P. Howard was killed in a helicopter crash with Associated Press photographer Oliver Noonan and six other men. The battalion had been trying to reach the wreckage ever since the crash last Tuesday.

The colonel said he was certain the enemy had moved on, that there was no danger. He told Shurtz to order his men out once more. Again they refused. Then Bacon sent one of his seasoned Vietnam veterans—Sgt. Okey Blankenship of Panther, W. Va.—to "give them a pep talk and kick in the butt." Blankenship found them bearded and beaten, crouched in the tall, blackened elephant grass, one of them crying.

They said they were sick of the endless fighting and heat, fire fights by day and mortar shells at night, no sleep, no mail, no hot food, none of the little things that made war bearable. The sergeant saw youngsters of 19 and 20 with fear in their eyes.

Blankenship's temper flared and he began to argue. "One of them yelled to me that his company had suffered too much," Blankenship recalled. "I said another company was down to 15 men and still on the move—lied to him.

"Don't call us cowards! We're not cowards," the soldier shouted, and ran toward Blakenship with his fists raised.

Blankenship turned his back and walked away.

Behind him the men began to stir. Slowly they picked up their rifles.

Sergeant Roused Troops With His Own Courage

PANTHER, W.Va. (AP) — Sgt. Okey Blankenship, who roused a war-shattered infantry company for one more advance, learned courage from his father, his mother said last week. His father learned it in the mines.

"He got it from his daddy," said Wadie Blankenship. She had just heard how her son rallied demoralized GIs who had balked Sunday at another foray into enemy trenches at Nui Lon Mountain, South Vietnam, where most of their leaders had been killed or wounded.

The sergeant's father, Mose Blankenship, has faced danger daily for 25 years in the coal mines that dot this remote hill country of southern West Virginia.

"His daddy's no coward and he taught Okey not to be a coward," Mrs. Blankenship said.

Blankenship, 31, a 14-year Army veteran serving his fourth Vietnam tour, was flown to where A Company, 3rd Battalion, 196th Light Infantry Brigade, was waiting after having refused its company commander's orders to move out.

He told them another company that had suffered more was still on the move, and, "Maybe they have got . . . a little more than you have got." That did it. The men picked up their rifles and followed Blankenship back to the war.

The sergeant is the oldest of seven sons and one daughter.

"He was just a normal boy," his mother said. "He's not shy and likes to talk a lot. He's free with everybody. He used to help everybody, not for money but just to be with them and do good.

"He used to help us around the house and ride the coal trucks and work with Mr. Bailey down the road on his farm," he said. He would not take money for it, she added.

He used to go squirrel hunting and "we'd have squirrel stew all the time. Now we hardly have it at all since Okey's not here."

Blankenship writes home regularly but "doesn't tell us much about what goes on over there. I guess he doesn't want to worry us so he just talks about his family and friends and how much he misses us," his mother said.

He left high school at 17 and enlisted in the Army. He later got a high school equivalancy to make the service a career. Married three times, the sergeant has three children including Robert, 11, who stays with relatives in Panther each summer.

"Tell him I love him and am real proud of him," said Robert. "The first time I see him, I'm going to give him a big hug."

A local Army recruiter said Blankenship has the Bronze Star, two Purple Hearts and campaign ribbons from service in Vietnam, Germany and Korea. His tour ends next January," Mrs. Blankenship said.

"He wants to stay longer but they won't let him," she said. "I'm glad because we want him back here."

Alfred Dechenne Is Sent to Camille Job

Alfred Dechenne of the Pikes Peak Chapter, American National Red Cross, has been assigned to the disaster relief operation underway along the Gulf Coast in the wake of Hurricane Camille.

A trained Red Cross disaster worker, Dechenne was assigned to go to Mississpipi by the Western Area Headquarters of the American Red Cross in San Francisco.

Two Firms Win Jobs At Buckley Guard Base

DENVER (AP)—The Hensel Phelps Construction Co., Greeley, and Penner Construction Co., Denver, submitted the apparent low bids for Phase II construction of the aerospace data facility at Buckley Air National Guard Base in Denver.

Omaha, Neb., district engineer, Col. B. P. Pendergrass, said the firms' bid was $3,097,000. The government estimate was $4,393,080.

Work includes building a one-story concrete operations building and a guardhouse. Exterior work will be electrical distribution, concrete walks, road surfacing, grading and seeding.

Yellowstone National Park, in the northwest corner of Wyoming, is world famous for its geysers, including Old Faithful.

Despite Their Handicap Children Climb Mountain

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — In medical terms, they're called "intractable cases," which means there is no hope for them to be cured in a home environment.

But 36 children under treatment at Children's Asthma Research Institute and Hospital determined on a Saturday earlier this month to overcome effects of the respiratory disease by attempting to climb 7,851-foot Mt. Morrison, one of the highest in the front range of the Colorado Rockies.

Five of the children decided they didn't want to go any higher than the base.

The 36 others started the climb.

Of those, 21 made it to the top.

None suffered ill effects from the climb, which took about four hours.

"We call it an 'exercise in therapy,'" said a hospital spokesman, Cliff Malson. "It gives kids a psychological boost, a better image of their own bodies. Some have never been to school because of their asthmatic conditions at home. Being able to run and play here is a big factor," he said.

The children on the climb — the youngest seven years old — were all checked out medically one week before the climb, and again Friday. They took their medicine with them, but no medicine was needed until they reached the top, supervisors said.

Those who reached the top were allowed to put their names in a pickle jar placed at the summit four years ago when the first group made the climb.

The group on the climb this year was the largest ever, the hospital said, and culmination of several "training climbs" made earlier this summer.

Lilton Brown Has Preliminary On Murder Count

Accused murderer Lilton Brown, 43, 921 E. Cimmaron St. appeared in district court Friday for his preliminary hearing when Judge Patrick M. Hinton advised him of his rights.

Brown is accused of the fatal shooting of his estranged wife, Alice Ester Brown, 34, 525 E. Moreno St., Aug. 3.

The incident happened in the 00 block of West Colorado Avenue and Mrs. Brown was shot once in the chest.

Brown was first charged with assault to murder but on Thursday when he appeared before Judge William M. Calvert for arraignment and was prepared to enter his plea, Deputy District Attorney objected, telling the court that Mrs. Brown had died a matter of hours before and that the assault to murder charge would be dismissed and a first degree murder charge filed later that day.

Judge Calvert sustained his objection and the second charge was filed late Thursday.

On Friday when the defendant appeared he was asked if he had counsel and he replied that local attorney Roger Hunt was representing him. Hunt had been appointed by the court.

Judge Hinton then appointed Hunt to represent him on the murder charge and the case was continued to Sept. 12 for arraignment.

Man Fined $76.80 By Judge Quine

Harold L. Miller was fined $76.80 Friday by County Court Judge James F. Quine Jr. for giving beer to two minor girls. One was aged 16 and the other 14.

The offense happened April 25.

Aaron Warren Clark, 21, Ft. Carson, paid a $56 fine for assault and battery.

He was accused of attacking an M.P. in an alley off the 00 block of North Nevada Avenue, July 17.

Miller Is Found Legally Insane

Charles H. Miller, charged with attempted burglary has been found legally insane by psychiatrists at the Colorado State Hospital. Miller, 26, 13 Cherokee Road, appeared in district court Friday and Judge William M. Calvert set Sept. 5 for a hearing on the sanity matter.

The defendant is accused of trying to break into the Town House Lounge, 907 Manitou Ave., June 25.

Tommy Dies Of Rabies

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Little Tommy Buchmann, who clung to life for a record 124 days while in a coma with rabies, died Friday at University Hospital, two days after his third birthday.

His heart stopped at 4:30 a.m. He had never regained consciousness since he went into a deep coma and was placed on a respirator on April 27.

Medical officials at the hospital said he had survived longer than anyone else known to have contacted rabies.

Tommy was playing in the back yard April 1 when his mother, washing dishes in the kitchen just a few steps away, heard Tommy scream.

A wild bobcat had attacked, clawing the lad and biting him on the leg, shoulder and the base of the skull. Mrs. Buchmann drove the bob cat off.

Tommy began a series of rabies shots—he had 18—but still developed the dread sickness.

Pain of War Slowed Company in Viet Jungle

and PETER ARNETT
Associated Press Writers

SONG CHANG VALLEY, Vietnam (AP)—"Do they know what it means to disobey orders under fire?" the officer asked.

The men of A Company knew. Still they refused to go once again down that jungled rocky slope where unseen North Vietnamese had waited in bunkers and trenches.

The ranks of A Company of the 196th Infantry Brigade's battleworn 3rd Battalion were riddled. The men were exhausted, their uniforms ripped and caked with dirt.

They had made the push down the slope of Nui Lon Mountain repeatedly for five days. Each time the enemy survived a rain of bombs and artillery shells and picked them off in a deadly crossfire at close range. Those who remained decided they would not do it again.

"I am sorry, sir, but my men refuse to go; we cannot move out," Lt. Eugene Shurtz Jr. reported to his battalion commander over a crackling field telephone. That was when Lt. Col. Robert C. Bacon asked if they knew the penalty for disobeying orders.

The lieutenant said they did, "but some of them simply had enough. They are broken. There are boys here who have only 90 days left in Vietnam. The situation is psychic here. Most of our squad and platoon leaders have been killed or wounded. We've got a leadership problem."

Bacon had taken over the battalion after Lt. Col. Eli P. Howard was killed in a helicopter crash with Associated Press photographer Oliver Noonan and six other men. The battalion had been trying to reach the wreckage ever since the crash last Tuesday.

The colonel said he was certain the enemy had moved on, that there was no danger. He told Shurtz to order his men out once more. Again they refused. Then Bacon sent one of his seasoned Vietnam veterans—Sgt. Okey Blankenship of Panther, W. Va.—to "give them a pep talk and kick in the butt." Blankenship found them bearded and beaten, crouched in the tall, blackened elephant grass, one of them crying.

They said they were sick of the endless fighting and heat, fire fights by day and mortar shells at night, no sleep, no mail, no hot food, none of the little things that made war bearable. The sergeant saw youngsters of 19 and 20 with fear in their eyes.

Blankenship's temper flared and he began to argue. "One of them yelled to me that his company had suffered too much," Blankenship recalled. "I said another company was down to 15 men and still on the move—lied to him.

"Don't call us cowards! We're not cowards," the soldier shouted, and ran toward Blakenship with his fists raised.

Blankenship turned his back and walked away.

Behind him the men began to stir. Slowly they picked up their rifles.

Sergeant Roused Troops With His Own Courage

PANTHER, W.Va. (AP) — Sgt. Okey Blankenship, who roused a war-shattered infantry company for one more advance, learned courage from his father, his mother said last week. His father learned it in the mines.

"He got it from his daddy," said Wadie Blankenship. She had just heard how her son rallied demoralized GIs who had balked Sunday at another foray into enemy trenches at Nui Lon Mountain, South Vietnam, where most of their leaders had been killed or wounded.

The sergeant's father, Mose Blankenship, has faced danger daily for 25 years in the coal mines that dot this remote hill country of southern West Virginia.

"His daddy's no coward and he taught Okey not to be a coward," Mrs. Blankenship said.

Blankenship, 31, a 14-year Army veteran serving his fourth Vietnam tour, was flown to where A Company, 3rd Battalion, 196th Light Infantry Brigade, was waiting after having refused its company commander's orders to move out.

He told them another company that had suffered more was still on the move, and, "Maybe they have got . . . a little more than you have got." That did it. The men picked up their rifles and followed Blankenship back to the war.

The sergeant is the oldest of seven sons and one daughter.

"He was just a normal boy," his mother said. "He's not shy and likes to talk a lot. He's free with everybody. He used to help everybody, not for money but just to be with them and do good.

"He used to help us around the house and ride the coal trucks and work with Mr. Bailey down the road on his farm," he said. He would not take money for it, she added.

He used to go squirrel hunting and "we'd have squirrel stew all the time. Now we hardly have it at all since Okey's not here."

Blankenship writes home regularly but "doesn't tell us much about what goes on over there. I guess he doesn't want to worry us so he just talks about his family and friends and how much he misses us," his mother said.

He left high school at 17 and enlisted in the Army. He later got a high school equivalancy to make the service a career. Married three times, the sergeant has three children including Robert, 11, who stays with relatives in Panther each summer.

"Tell him I love him and am real proud of him," said Robert. "The first time I see him, I'm going to give him a big hug."

A local Army recruiter said Blankenship has the Bronze Star, two Purple Hearts and campaign ribbons from service in Vietnam, Germany and Korea. His tour ends next January," Mrs. Blankenship said.

"He wants to stay longer but they won't let him," she said. "I'm glad because we want him back here."

Alfred Dechenne Is Sent to Camille Job

Alfred Dechenne of the Pikes Peak Chapter, American National Red Cross, has been assigned to the disaster relief operation underway along the Gulf Coast in the wake of Hurricane Camille.

A trained Red Cross disaster worker, Dechenne was assigned to go to Mississpipi by the Western Area Headquarters of the American Red Cross in San Francisco.

Two Firms Win Jobs At Buckley Guard Base

DENVER (AP)—The Hensel Phelps Construction Co., Greeley, and Penner Construction Co., Denver, submitted the apparent low bids for Phase II construction of the aerospace data facility at Buckley Air National Guard Base in Denver.

Omaha, Neb., district engineer, Col. B. P. Pendergrass, said the firms' bid was $3,097,000. The government estimate was $4,393,080.

Work includes building a one-story concrete operations building and a guardhouse. Exterior work will be electrical distribution, concrete walks, road surfacing, grading and seeding.

Yellowstone National Park, in the northwest corner of Wyoming, is world famous for its geysers, including Old Faithful.

Wall Street Report

NEW YORK (AP) — Carrying its latest advance into a third straight session, the stock market pushed forward in fairly quiet trading early this afternoon, with vains extending their lead over losses to about 400 issues.

"It's an extension of the technical rise that got going Wednesday," an analyst said, adding that the "market is performing quite well considering that many investors are continuing to stay on the sidelines prior to the long Labor Day weekend." The stock exchanges will be closed Monday.

The Associated Press 60-stock average at noon was up .8 at 293.2, with industrials up .7, rails up .6, and utilities up .4.

Armour Co. opened at 46½, off 70 from its last trade on June 20. Trading in Amour was halted by the exchange after announcement of General Host Corp's. plans to sell its Armour holdings to Greyhound Corp. After termination of the General Host-Greyhound agreement was announced earlier this week the txchange voted to permit trading to resume.

Tijuana Put Off Limits For Military

By RON ROACH

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — If Tijuana is placed off limits to military personnel because of the narcotics danger, plenty of young servicemen will be shut off from the only place where they can legally buy a glass of beer. They don't like the prospect.

Many of the servicemen who frequent the lively border town are under 21, the legal drinking age in California.

"I don't go along with it," Anderson said. "It's a refuge in a way, so servicemen can get away from California. Why can't a guy go out and have a clean drink once in a while? In Virginia they let sailors drink on base at age 18."

Jerry Gamble, a navy electrician from Granite Falls, Wash., said he doesn't think authorities could keep servicemen out of Tijuana no matter how hard they tried.

"Nine out of 10 would make it down there," Gamble said. "In the service you have guys—young guys—away from home. They are away from their girls. I'm married and I don't do it, but it's the American way, if they don't have their girls, to go down there, find a young girl, spend the night and be ready for a full work week."

Marine Cpl. Gary Engle, 21, of Glendive, Mont., said that as far as the narcotics problem goes, "guys who really want marijuana are going to get it anyway."

"There are parts of Baja California that are very scenic and interesting for the military man," said Marine Sgt. Larry B. Wilson, 23, of Rockford, Ill. "But Tijuana, itself—there are shops and prostitutes. Prostitutes are cheaper in Tijuana than they are in San Diego.

"But the dope, and so forth, I don't go in for that. Wouldn't risk bringing dope across the border, but I know some Marines and people who would."

One Navy wife said:

"I'm pleased as punch. I don't want my husband getting entrapped by all those senoritas down there."

The off limits plan brought a roar of Mexican protest.

"I don't think putting a whole city, state or county off limits is the answer," said Tijuana's police chief, Carlos Buentiempo.

"Marijuana and drugs have not been a problem here," said Abdel Saad, president of the chamber of commerce in Ensenada, about 70 miles from Tijuana.

Moogs Played In Live Concert

NEW YORK (AP) — Moog Synthesizers, those electronic machines that can sound like any musical instrument or just wail weirdly, were played in live concert for the first time on Thursday night.

Robert Moog, 35, the engineer who fathered the synthesizer, said he was pleased with the concert and hopes there will be more, even though one fuse blew and a plug was accidentally pulled twice, instantly stopping the music.

Four Moogs were played by two quartets. One quartet played Herbert Deutsch's four-part far-out jazz work titled "Stage One," "Space Walk," "Blues for Lunar Landscape" and "Peace." The other quartet played Chris Swansen's thickly orchestrated jazz composition "Ooh Baby."

One synthesizer was used for playing melody and sounded like an electric organ. One played chords, one sounded like a bass, and one made the sounds of percussion.

Three looked like telephone switchboards with looped cords and one resembled a small, neat computer.

Much of the sound was wavery and hollow, as though coming from outer space.

The Moog is usually used in recording, either along with traditional instruments or on all-synthesizer records. The best known of these is "Switched on Bach."

Some 4,000 persons sat on the ground, around sculpture, reflecting pools and trees, in the Museum of Modern Art's Sculpture Garden, for 1¼-hour concert. It was part of the museum's summertime weekly series "Jazz in the Garden."

When the plug was pulled the first time, stopping "Ooh Baby," the musicians strolled off stage and people began asking each other whether it was the end of the concert or some kind of power failure.

Cuba Denies Reports of Espionage

MIAMI (AP) — Havana Radio says Cuba has formally denied that two of its diplomats expelled from the United States had been using their status in the United Nations for espionage activities.

The broadcast, monitored in Miami Thursday, said the denial was made in a note sent by Foreign Minister Raul Roa to U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

"Cuba has the right and the duty to watch the activities of her enemies, the actions of Yankee imperialism and its organs and agents subversive to our country," Roa was quoted as writing. "But it is completely false that Cuba used her mission at the U.N. for such objectives."

Roa expressed the "most energetic protest against the arbitrary measure of the United States government" in barring the two diplomats.

The U.S. State Department last week ordered Lazaro Eddy Espinosa Bonet, 25, to leave the country, charging he had attempted to hire a Cuban refugee for a mission "related to the security of the office of the President."

The State Department said the incident "did not involve the personal or physical security of the President.

Alberto Boza Hidalgo-Gato, 28, first secretary of Cuba's mission to the United Nations, was accused of attempting to gather information concerning operations of a U.S. military installation by recruiting refugees as spies.

In his note to U Thant, the Cuban foreign minister called for relocation of the United Nations.

"The United States does not offer the minimal elemental security for operations of the top international organization," Roa said.

"The U.N. must be moved to another country which could offer the necessary guarantees."

Pilot Ejects Moments Before Plane Explodes

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — Twisted knee, sprained ankle and a knowledge that the ejection seat on jet fighter planes really works are 1st Lt. Douglas B. Evans' souvenirs of an air explosion.

Evans, a 29-year-old Dayton, Ohio, National Guard pilot, said Thursday of the ejection seat, "Boy, it does a good job."

Evans was flying an F84F Thunderstreak jet on a training mission near Shaw Air Force Base in South Carolina Monday when fire erupted in the rear of his plane.

"I got in the seat, pulled the handles and it worked like advertised," Evans said. The plane exploded in a "huge fireball" just seconds after his parachute opened, he said.

Evans is training at Travis Field near Savannah, where he was treated for his leg injuries.

Pentagon Says Narcotics Cross Mexican Border

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says it is concerned about narcotics traffic across the Mexican border and is considering declaring several border cities off limits to U. S. servicemen.

No final decision has been made, the Pentagon said in its statement Thursday.

The statement appeared to contradict an earlier announcement by the 11th Naval District that it already was decided that Tijuana, Mexico, will be off limits to some 150,000 servicemen in Southern California for 30 days effective Sept. 15.

A Navy spokesman in San Diego, Calif., said a clarifying announcement would be made today in Washington.

I'VE INVITED SOME PEOPLE TO DINE WITH US.

SIR GEOFFREY, SIR EGBERT, SIR BALDRIC, SIR WILFRED, SIR JOHN AND SIR ERIC.

WHAT SHALL WE SERVE?

SIRLOIN, NATURALLY!

ON STAGE

...JERRY MOSS IS GONE?! WHAT DO THE POLICE MEAN? COULDN'T HE HAVE SIMPLY GONE ON A TRIP?

NOT WITHOUT THE POLICE KNOWING... THEY'VE BEEN HAVING HIM WATCHED...

PETE... FREDDA TOLD ME THAT PEN HASN'T BEEN HOME A SINGLE NIGHT SINCE JULIAN DIED... DO YOU SUPPOSE IT HAS SOMETHING TO DO WITH...

...WITH MOSS'S DISAPPEARANCE? IT'S WORTH ASKING HIM ABOUT!.

...DO YOU THINK YOU SHOULD?

WELL—I'M STILL COVERING THIS STORY FOR THE MAGAZINE! THERE'S A BIG DIFFERENCE BETWEEN BEING JUST PLAIN NOSY AND BEING NOSY FOR A LIVING!

TERRY & PIRATES

WORD OF THE STOLEN TAPE IS FLASHED TO ALL PARTIES CONCERNED, AND SHORTLY...

...IT WAS MY BROTHER, ALL RIGHT, SIR, WHEN I REACHED THE FOOT OF THE FIRE STAIRS HE'D JUST VANISHED.

NOT SURPRISING! FOR A COUP AS BOLD AS THIS, THE DESERTER MUST HAVE PLANNED HIS ESCAPE WITH GREAT CARE.

JUST ONE THING WENT WRONG, SIR. HE COULDN'T HAVE ANTICIPATED MEETING HIS BROTHER AND BEING IDENTIFIED IMMEDIATELY!

SMITTY

RUFF!

UFF!

WHAT A COLD I'VE GOT!

SNIFF

MR. McGOON DON'T WANTA BE DISTURBED—

I'M WILLIAM FASTBUCKLEY, HIS MANAGER!!

EARTHQUAKE, BABY!! WHAT'S TH' HAPPY WORD?

??—CAN'T YOU SEE BABY—THIS IS ME!!

SURE!!—BUT CAIN'T YO' SEE?—AH HAIN'T ME!!

SMILIN' JACK

BANANAS, IF YOU TRY TO EXPOSE ME TO PRINCE PETRO I'LL CHOKE YOU!

OH, NO! A SWEET INNOCENT POLLYANNA LIKE YOU COULD NOT RESORT TO VIOLENCE

GO SOAK YOUR PRETTY HEAD IN TH' POOL AND COOL OFF!

JACK MOSLEY 8-30

THAT SKUNK, BANANAS, HAS REALLY GOT ME OVER A BARREL BUT I'LL OUTSMART HIM SOMEHOW!

EVERYBODY OUT OF THE POOL AND GET DRESSED FOR DINNER!

WHAT A JOY IT IS TO HAVE SUCH DEAR FRIENDS AS MY GUESTS!

DONDI

CLICK!

BUT WHO'D FIGURE THE 'CHAIRMAN OF THE BOARD' WOULD COOL IT IN MIDVILLE?

WAIT'LL I SHOW THESE PICTURES TO KIPPY—LIKE, WOW!

ANIMAL, HOW 'BOUT A COUPLE OF BANANA SPLITS? YOU BUY!

OKAY...

FROM ICE PALACE

... BUT WE'LL HAVE TO EAT AND RUN!!

I DON'T HAVE NO MONEY ON ME!

FROM ICE PA

BRENDA STARR

EVER SINCE HORTON LEFT FOR THE EVERGLADES TO FIND BRENDA, YOU'VE BEEN GRINNING LIKE A CHESHIRE CAT!

YEAH.. AND IN ABOUT A MINUTE I'M GOING TO JUMP UP AND DOWN AND CLAP MY HANDS!

NOT BECAUSE HE'S AFRAID HIS NEWLY ACQUIRED NEWSPAPER WILL LOSE A TOP REPORTER. THAT'S NOT IT.. THAT GUY'S REALLY IN LOVE WITH HER!

MOON MULLINS

CONFOUND IT, SCRATCH-- IF YOU HAD GOUT, I WOULDN'T PULL YOU ALONG!

SLOW UP!

THEN SLOW DOWN, BLAST IT!

A TRADE?

YES! FOR A TURTLE

GASOLINE ALLEY

The situation at the garage isn't good, Chipper!

If I can do anything to help while I'm home on leave, Pop...

We thought you'd be going up to see Sara!

No, that's sort of off!

I'm sorry! I like Sara! What happened?

It's not much good... making love by mail!

RICK O'SHAY

LET'S SEE NOW... I WANT TO GO WEST, BUT WHICH WAY IS IT?

PREVAILING WINDS IN THIS COUNTRY COME FROM THE WEST, SO I'LL JUST WET MY FINGER AND...

AHA! I'M RIGHT ON COURSE, HEADED WEST!

THAT CROTCHETY OLD BIDDY... FIRING AT OUR PLANE, EASY! SHE GRAZED MY ARM... JUST A SCRATCH!

FINE! GIVE ME TOPROCK'S CHART! WHEN I LAND, MAKE THE MOST OF YOUR WOUND!

SO IT WAS YOU WHO KEPT FLYIN' OVER, EASY.. HARRASSING MY CHICKENS!

THIS IS AN OUTRAGE, MRS. COBB! YOU HIT IRIS! DUNNO HOW BADLY SHE'S HURT!

I JUST AIMED TO PEPPER TH' TAIL AND SCARE YOU OFF!

THERE'S NO PLACE I COULD LAND AT OXBOW! YOU DRIVE HER TO THE DOCTOR! FAST!

PRISCILLA'S POP

YOU LOOK HAPPY, HOLLYHOCK!

INDEED I AM, PRISCILLA !!

I'VE DECIDED NOT TO WORRY ABOUT MISS WEST GETTING MARRIED...

...AND QUITTING HER JOB AT THE LIBRARY !!

WHO KNOWS? SHE AND HER YOUNG MAN MAY HAVE A SPAT AND CALL IT ALL OFF!

I GUESS I'M A BORN OPTIMIST !!

WINTHROP

WITH RUNNERS ON BASE, THE PITCHER MUST NOT TAKE A WINDUP." WHY IS THAT?

I'LL SHOW YOU... TAKE A SOCK AT ME.

SEE? YOU USED A WINDUP, AND I DIDN'T.

BOF!

WHEN NASTY McNARF EXPLAINS SOMETHING TO YOU, YOU NEVER FORGET IT!

DICK CAVALLI

ALLEY OOP

SORRY T'HEAR YOU'RE GOIN' OUTA TH' ASTROLOGY BUSINESS!

AW, THAT KINDA BUSINESS AIN'T FOR ACTIVE YOUNG FOLKS LIKE US...

...IT'S MORE FOR OL' GUYS LIKE TH' GRAND WIZER!

I'M SURPRISED T'HEAR YOU SAY THAT!

YEH, WHY?

WELL, TH' WAY YOU ROLLED THAT BUNCH OF ROCKS DOWN ON 'IM LAST NIGHT WHILE HE WAS READIN' TH' STARS...

...I FIGGERED YOU DIDN'T CARE FOR TH' COMPETITION!

SHORT RIBS

YOU'LL NEVER GET US A LIFT THAT WAY! HOW WILL ANYBODY KNOW YOU WANT TO TRADE A STRING OF FISH FOR A RIDE?

AND WITH 'EM DANGLING IN THE SUN LIKE THAT THEY'RE RAPIDLY CHANGING FROM A POSSIBLE ASSET TO A DISTINCT LIABILITY!

IF AN' WHEN YOU KNOW-IT-ALLS COME UP WITH A BETTER IDEA, I'M ALL EARS!

NO FAITH, NO CHARITY, NO HOPE

I'M CERTAINLY NOT GOING TO PRODUCE MY GOURMET MEALS IN RETURN FOR SUCH PRIMITIVE LODGING!

WELL, COUNT ME OUT— I SUPPLIED THE WHEELS TO GET HERE!

AND I DID ALL THE PLANNING!

Is It Clear to YOU?

Do you find it hard to read? Is its language too out of date? Have you imagined it contradicts its self? Are you of the opinion God's love for us is a paradox? Do you think if God really loved us He would let us be sick, experience pain and suffer death? Is the Bible actually hard for you to understand? If your answer is "yes," then you should enroll in Sunday School, start going to church regularly and join the band of honest, serious seekers after God's own will in your life; the true interpretation of His word. To the believer the Bible makes sense, it is easy to understand and in it there are no contradictions. It is really the Book of Life.

First Presbyterians Schedule Activities

EMPLOYMENT OR UN-?

Wanted: Your sovereign soul. Full-time only, until eternity. Inquire within. No appointment necessary.

The Christian Homebuilders Sunday school class of First Presbyterian Church will hold their annual family retreat at Silver Cliff ranch this weekend. Harry MacDonald of the Young Life staff will lead the study centered upon relating the Gospel to the 70's. The retreat will open with supper tonight and end Monday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. William Tadder, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Davenport have served on the planning committee for the weekend retreat.

"The Group", single young adults in the church, will leave this morning for a weekend of camping at Aspen. They will also return Monday afternoon.

Jerold Hamilton, professor of organ at University of Illinois and organist and choir master of the Episcopal Church of St. John the Divine, will be the guest organist at the two morning church services. The Sunday evening church service will be led by the Rev. John Stevens.

PICNIC HELD SUNDAY

First Christian Church will hold a picnic at the White House Ranch in the Garden of the Gods Sunday from 3 to 7 p.m. This historic landmark of Colorado Springs was built by the founder of the city, General William J. Palmer, in 1907 for his daughter.

Ministers Are Last to Appreciate Their Wives

By LOUIS CASSELS
By United Press International

There must be a special place in heaven, somewhere between the saints and the cherubim, for the wives of clergymen.

They have one of the most difficult of all human vocations.

Because most of them accept the hardships of their role with quiet fortitude, few people realize how much they have to put up with. Even their own husbands sometimes fail to comprehend the heroic measure of patience and dedication required of a minister's wife.

Some of their trials are fairly obvious, even to a layman.

One is a chronic lack of money. Ministers are the lowest-paid professional group in America, and surveys of their financial status reveal that a large majority are constantly in debt. The husband may worry about this, but it's the wife who has to scrimp on the household budget and make do with last year's dress.

Another cross—the one which many clergy wives find heaviest to bear—is the fact that a pastor's time is not his own. He can rarely plan an evening at home without having it interrupted by a call from someone in trouble or a meeting which he has to attend. "I never see him" is the classic complaint of the clergy wife, and in some cases it's not much of an exaggeration.

A congregation also makes demands—sometimes quite unreasonable and thoughtless demands—on the time of the minister's wife herself. She is expected to show up at all major church functions and at many minor ones involving women, no matter how inconvenient it may be for her to do so.

Still another set of problems arises from the close scrutiny to which the private life of the pastor's family is sometimes subjected by members of the congregation. People who would hesitate to pass nosy judgments on their next-door neighbors seem to feel no qualms about criticizing Mrs. Minister for the way she keeps house or raises her children.

It takes an insider to identify other hardships which may befall the woman who marries a minister.

Some of the problems of ministerial marriages can be worked out only by the pastor and his wife. But many of the more serious difficulties could be eliminated if church congregations were a bit more generous and a bit less demanding.

Academy Schedules Last of Recitals

Catholic Mass and Protestant service will be held in the Air Force Academy Cadet Chapel at 11:30 a.m. Sunday.

James Roger Boyd, director of cadet chapel music, will present the last of the current public summer organ recitals at 4 p.m. in the Protestant Cadet Chapel.

Cadet chapels are open to visitors from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday and Saturday. Catholic and Jewish cadet chapels are open from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday, and the Protestant Chapel is open from 1 to 3 p.m. Tours are suspended during religious services.

Teen Group Presents String Music Program

A one-hour program of string music will be presented at race Church on y at4pmeeohr group is the Pikes Peak Strings, teenag egroup of musicians representing four school districts of the region.

This organization is sponsored by the arts and humanities education program and is conducted by Nicholas Rossi. Featured soloists with the group on this program will be Debbie Moon, violinist; Lanny Pollet, flutist, and Dr. J. Julius Baird, organist.

Readings to Teach At Illinois College

Sunday will be the last day in the Canon City Free Methodist Church for the Rev. and Xrs. William A. Reading, who have accepted a call to teach in the Theological College in Rock Island, Ill.

Both will teach theology and Bible subjects to young men and women preparing for the ministry. They each have a TH. Bdegree.

Before coming to the Canon City congregation, the coupel were the pastors in the Longmont church for four years. They had been assigned to the Canon City church for just one year when the unexpected appointments to the college were made. Prior to the Longmont pastorate, the couple had built a new Free Methodist Church in Albuquerque, N.M.

Rev. Reading had served the Rocky Mountain Conference as president of the board of Christian Education and was a delegate to the General Conference in Winona Lake, Wis., this summer. Mrs. Reading has served as J.M.S. Conference supervisor and childrens' worker at the conference camps. She is the Canon City F.M.Y. director and assistant pastor.

A replacement for the pastors will be announced soon by conference superintendnets.

Mexican Buddhists

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Luis Lavadare, chief monk of Mexico's first Buddhist temple, which opened last February, says there are 1,600 Buddhists in Mexico, including many movie and television personalities.

Freedom Under God

By DR. J. W. FIFIELD JR. AND MARY FIFIELD

America's eighty-fifth Labor Day Weekend! Do you consider yourself "employed or un-"? Although national statistics state 3.2 million or 3.6 per cent of our labor force are un-employed, most readers of this column are not fully "employed."

Whether your "job" is being a mother, businessman, or student your "true full employment" is to serve God as revealed by Christ each moment through conscience. Consider inflation. Devaluation of the dollar is a result of devaluation of the self. When our egotism is inflated away from God, the value of our labor is lessened and hence the value of our dollar. The gold standard is relevant only when based on God's standard.

If you do not see a place for God in your business it is because you have not fully experienced Freedom Under God within your own self. Consider the nervous, cigar-puffing executive who brags "If I'd let Christ into this company I'd never be where I am today!" Amusing, but sad. Do you excuse your enslavement to greed or delight in your freedom under God?

September I will be in the Midwest and East! I would be happy to meet with your church or neighborhood group. Please write for information immediately. Specify number in your group, location, preferred dates and times. Your contributions and letters are appreciated.

Canon City Church Meets New Pastor

The pastorate of First Southern Baptist Church of Canon City was assumed this week by the Rev. Warren Stowe. He and Mrs. Stowe will live at the parsonage at 1815 N. 10th St.

Rev. Stowe and his wife come to Canon City from Guymon, Okla. where he served as pastor for several years.

Pastorates also held by Rev. Stowe were at Raton, N.M., Brownfield, Tex. and Big Spring, Tex. He and Mrs. Stowe received their education at Baylor University and at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary, Fort Worth, Tex. They have two married daughters residing in Texas.

Virginia Minister to Preach at Evangelical

Guest speaker at Evangelical Presbyterian Church Sunday will be the Rev. Franklin Medford, pastor of the Lebanon Presbyterian Church of Greenwood, Va.

The Rev. Medford attended Covenant Theological Seminary in St. Louis, Mo. for two years and received both his Bachelor of Divinity and master of Theology degrees from Union Theological Seminary in Richmond, Va. He will be preaching in the morning services on "Tempering the Tongue."

Church in Wildwood Has Guest Musician

Special music in Church in the Wildwood, Sunday, will be provided by Mrs. Norman E. Lamb of Colorado Springs formerly of Dallas, Tex.

The services in the Church in the Wildwood start at 10:55 a.m. Nursery and Kindergarten care is provided during the services. Family Bible-centered study is held at 9:30 a.m.

Singing Place Family Performs at Bethel

The Singing Place Family of Emporia, Kan. will perform at all services Sunday at Bethel Baptist Church.

There will be an afternoon sing at 2:30 p.m. with several churches of the area participating.

Rough rector

GLOUCESTER, England (UPI) — A man who told a rector he wanted to object to his son's marriage banns testified before a church court that the rector barred him from their church and said he would knock him into a grave.

The rector was charged with unbecoming conduct and neglect of duty.

Catholic Layman Becomes Church Lay Theologian

The pastor of Divine Redeemer Catholic Church, Father Fredrick D. McCallin, has engaged the services of a lay theologian and former parishioner, Col. Paul F. Wiesner (AF Ret.)

The colonel is a 1969 graduate of the Institute of Lay Tehology (ILT) and its school of applied theology, which is a participating school in the University of California's graduate theological union at Berkeley, Calif. The institute (ILT) was started in 1960 by a Jesuit priest, Father Eugene Zimmers SJ, at the University of San Francisco, and has trained more than one hundred lay theologians to perform as parish evangelists throughout the United States and Canada.

In his new assignment at Divine Redeemer, Col. Wiesner will help the Pastor organize a parish council which will consist primarily of lay parishioners. When fully implemented, the council will assist the pastor in the planning, administration and execution of the religious, social and material affairs of the parish. The council will also provide an opportunity for each member of the parish to participate more fully in the work of the church. He received special training in theological education teaching methods, skills and various techniques necessary to conduct apostolic work in the parish. He will also head up the religious training for the high school and junior high school students, and will organize, implement and develop other apostolic programs desired by the Christian Community.

LUTHERAN WOMEN

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Nearly 10,000 women of The American Lutheran Church attended the convention of American Lutheran Church Women at which they received the assurance of Dr. Fredrik A. Schiotz, ALC president, that "God's face is turned toward you as you strive to carry out the will of Christ wherever you are."

Mrs. Eleanor Searle Whitney, of Locust Valley, N.Y., told the women that this is a time "to come to life, to be ignited, to take God's heavenly light to our churches and our communities."

Mrs. Whitney suggested that committees of ALCW women could help clean up slums, take children to health services, take out elderly people and "be a personal witness because you take something with you through this conference."

Name director for hunger project

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Dr. Malcolm P. Calhoun, a member of the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, has been named director of the denomination's five-year "halt hunger" program.

Dr. Calhoun will work full time on plans in the campaign against world hunger which followed a declaration by the church's General Assembly last April that "world hunger. . .is a top priority concern of the Presbyterian Church in the United States and that all possible resources. . .for at least the next five yers, must be focused on ways and means of dealing with the problem."

Lutheran youth conference

NEW YORK (UPI) — The fourth Lutheran world student conference will be held July 3-11, 1970, in Sao Leopoldo, Brazil.

About 60 delegates from around the world are scheduled to attend the conference, called World Encounter of Lutheran Youth. They will meet just days before the Lutheran World Federation Fifth Assembly convenes in Porto Alegre, Brazil, and about half of them are expected to attend that meeting.

LAY THEOLOGIAN — The pastor of Divine Redeemer Church, Father Frederick D. McCallin, seated, explains some of the parish plans to lay theologian Col. Paul F .Wiesner (Ret. A.F.) who recently joined the parish staff.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Mark was actually being enticed by the Devil. For stodgy clergymen are helping Satan kill off attendance and close up God's church dwellings! So why don't you preachers get on God's side and learn the simple strategy for filling the pews? Jesus outlined it, as I have described below. It's available to all speakers!

CASE K-590: Mark V., aged 42, is a clergyman.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I am about ready to give up the pulpit.

"For I just can't get people to come to church.

"For years I've tried to delude myself that television is the reason parishioners stay home.

"But other ministers, often with less education than I have, can still fill their churches.

"I spent 4 years in college and 3 years at the seminary.

"And I have helped burn the mortgages at 3 churches, but my parishioners never care to have me stay more than couple of years.

"My wife thinks I ought to stick to the pulpit but I am so discouraged, I think I'll take a job at a factory, unless you can argue me out of it."

Since we have a dearth of clergymen and thousands of empty churches here in America, I urged Rev. Mark to stick to his pulpit.

But I guaranteed him success if he would simply ignore the stodgy methods of the past and take an entirely new viewpoint.

"Imagine," I began, "that you are now working on your Ph.D. in psychology under my direction.

"Forget the fact you've been a pastor for the past 20 years.

"Instead, take the viewpoint of a graduate student in experimental psychology and see what effects you can produce on an audience by the public speaking formula I'll prescribe."

Then I outlined the type of sermon I wanted him to deliver the next Sunday.

I asked him to give me a text or title, which he did.

"Now," I added, "name 3 people who will likely be in your congregation that morning." He did.

"Make pastoral calls on them this week and try to notice something in their home or farm or store which lends itself to being a relevant example for your sermon text."

Then I gave him some mildly humorous stories that would also fit into his address and offer his audience a chance to laugh.

He hesitated about the funny stories, for he had always been so excessively intellectual and stodgy that he felt he couldn't get by with even one teeny little joke. But I insisted.

Then I warmed him to build his sermon to a crescendo and as he entered his peroration, to recite an appropriate poem which expressed his climactic thought in verse.

For rhythm grips an audience better than prose, especially at the climax.

He agreed to follow my prescription and report back.

Each of those 3 parishioners he had named, slapped him on the back, telling him it was the best sermon he had ever given.

The following week, he repeated this strategy but named 3 more. His use of cases merely imitated Christ's parable technique and is a guaranteed way to perk up the interest of any audience.

His congregation begged him to return at the end of the year and raised his salary 20 per cent. Attendance also had jumped almost 30 per cent.

So send for my booklet "Public Speaking Strategy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

Ministers Are Last to Appreciate Their Wives

By LOUIS CASSELS
By United Press International

There must be a special place in heaven, somewhere between the saints and the cherubim, for the wives of clergymen.

They have one of the most difficult of all human vocations.

Because most of them accept the hardships of their role with quiet fortitude, few people realize how much they have to put up with. Even their own husbands sometimes fail to comprehend the heroic measure of patience and dedication required of a minister's wife.

Some of their trials are fairly obvious, even to a layman.

One is a chronic lack of money. Ministers are the lowest-paid professional group in America, and surveys of their financial status reveal that a large majority are constantly in debt. The husband may worry about this, but it's the wife who has to scrimp on the household budget and make do with last year's dress.

Another cross—the one which many clergy wives find heaviest to bear—is the fact that a pastor's time is not his own. He can rarely plan an evening at home without having it interrupted by a call from someone in trouble or a meeting which he has to attend. "I never see him" is the classic complaint of the clergy wife, and in some cases it's not much of an exaggeration.

A congregation also makes demands—sometimes quite unreasonable and thoughtless demands—on the time of the minister's wife herself. She is expected to show up at all major church functions and at many minor ones involving women, no matter how inconvenient it may be for her to do so.

Still another set of problems arises from the close scrutiny to which the private life of the pastor's family is sometimes subjected by members of the congregation. People who would hesitate to pass nosy judgments on their next-door neighbors seem to feel no qualms about criticizing Mrs. Minister for the way she keeps house or raises her children.

It takes an insider to identify other hardships which may befall the woman who marries a minister.

Some of the problems of ministerial marriages can be worked out only by the pastor and his wife. But many of the more serious difficulties could be eliminated if church congregations were a bit more generous and a bit less demanding.

Academy Schedules Last of Recitals

Catholic Mass and Protestant service will be held in the Air Force Academy Cadet Chapel at 11:30 a.m. Sunday.

James Roger Boyd, director of cadet chapel music, will present the last of the current public summer organ recitals at 4 p.m. in the Protestant Cadet Chapel.

Cadet chapels are open to visitors from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday and Saturday. Catholic and Jewish cadet chapels are open from 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Sunday, and the Protestant Chapel is open from 1 to 3 p.m. Tours are suspended during religious services.

Readings to Teach At Illinois College

Sunday will be the last day in the Canon City Free Methodist Church for the Rev. and Xrs. William A. Reading, who have accepted a call to teach in the Theological College in Rock Island, Ill.

Both will teach theology and Bible subjects to young men and women preparing for the ministry. They each have a TH. Bdegree.

Before coming to the Canon City congregation, the coupel were the pastors in the Longmont church for four years. They had been assigned to the Canon City church for just one year when the unexpected appointments to the college were made. Prior to the Longmont pastorate, the couple had built a new Free Methodist Church in Albuquerque, N.M.

Rev. Reading had served the Rocky Mountain Conference as president of the board of Christian Education and was a delegate to the General Conference in Winona Lake, Wis., this summer. Mrs. Reading has served as J.M.S. Conference supervisor and childrens' worker at the conference camps. She is the Canon City F.M.Y. director and assistant pastor.

A replacement for the pastors will be announced soon by conference superintendnets.

Freedom Under God

By DR. J. W. FIFIELD JR. AND MARY FIFIELD

America's eighty-fifth Labor Day Weekend! Do you consider yourself "employed or un-"? Although national statistics state 3.2 million or 3.6 per cent of our labor force are un-employed, most readers of this column are not fully "employed."

Whether your "job" is being a mother, businessman, or student your "true full employment" is to serve God as revealed by Christ each moment through conscience. Consider inflation. Devaluation of the dollar is a result of devaluation of the self. When our egotism is inflated away from God, the value of our labor is lessened and hence the value of our dollar. The gold standard is relevant only when based on God's standard.

If you do not see a place for God in your business it is because you have not fully experienced Freedom Under God within your own self. Consider the nervous, cigar-puffing executive who brags "If I'd let Christ into this company I'd never be where I am today!" Amusing, but sad. Do you excuse your enslavement to greed or delight in your freedom under God?

September I will be in the Midwest and East! I would be happy to meet with your church or neighborhood group. Please write for information immediately. Specify number in your group, location, preferred dates and times. Your contributions and letters are appreciated.

Catholic Layman Becomes Church Lay Theologian

The pastor of Divine Redeemer Catholic Church, Father Fredrick D. McCallin, has engaged the services of a lay theologian and former parishioner, Col. Paul F. Wiesner (AF Ret.)

The colonel is a 1969 graduate of the Institute of Lay Tehology (ILT) and its school of applied theology, which is a participating school in the University of California's graduate theological union at Berkeley, Calif. The institute (ILT) was started in 1960 by a Jesuit priest, Father Eugene Zimmers SJ, at the University of San Francisco, and has trained more than one hundred lay theologians to perform as parish evangelists throughout the United States and Canada.

In his new assignment at Divine Redeemer, Col. Wiesner will help the Pastor organize a parish council which will consist primarily of lay parishioners. When fully implemented, the council will assist the pastor in the planning, administration and execution of the religious, social and material affairs of the parish. The council will also provide an opportunity for each member of the parish to participate more fully in the work of the church. He received special training in theological education teaching methods, skills and various techniques necessary to conduct apostolic work in the parish. He will also head up the religious training for the high school and junior high school students, and will organize, implement and develop other apostolic programs desired by the Christian Community.

LUTHERAN WOMEN

MINNEAPOLIS (UPI) — Nearly 10,000 women of The American Lutheran Church attended the convention of American Lutheran Church Women at which they received the assurance of Dr. Fredrik A. Schiotz, ALC president, that "God's face is turned toward you as you strive to carry out the will of Christ wherever you are."

Mrs. Eleanor Searle Whitney, of Locust Valley, N.Y., told the women that this is a time "to come to life, to be ignited, to take God's heavenly light to our churches and our communities."

Mrs. Whitney suggested that committees of ALCW women could help clean up slums, take children to health services, take out elderly people and "be a personal witness because you take something with you through this conference."

Name director for hunger project

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — Dr. Malcolm P. Calhoun, a member of the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, has been named director of the denomination's five-year "halt hunger" program.

Dr. Calhoun will work full time on plans in the campaign against world hunger which followed a declaration by the church's General Assembly last April that "world hunger. . .is a top priority concern of the Presbyterian Church in the United States and that all possible resources. . .for at least the next five yers, must be focused on ways and means of dealing with the problem."

Lutheran youth conference

NEW YORK (UPI) — The fourth Lutheran world student conference will be held July 3-11, 1970, in Sao Leopoldo, Brazil.

About 60 delegates from around the world are scheduled to attend the conference, called World Encounter of Lutheran Youth. They will meet just days before the Lutheran World Federation Fifth Assembly convenes in Porto Alegre, Brazil, and about half of them are expected to attend that meeting.

WORRY CLINIC

By George W. Crane, M.D., Ph.D.

Mark was actually being enticed by the Devil. For stodgy clergymen are helping Satan kill off attendance and close up God's church dwellings! So why don't you preachers get on God's side and learn the simple strategy for filling the pews? Jesus outlined it, as I have described below. It's available to all speakers!

CASE K-590: Mark V., aged 42, is a clergyman.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I am about ready to give up the pulpit.

"For I just can't get people to come to church.

"For years I've tried to delude myself that television is the reason parishioners stay home.

"But other ministers, often with less education than I have, can still fill their churches.

"I spent 4 years in college and 3 years at the seminary.

"And I have helped burn the mortgages at 3 churches, but my parishioners never care to have me stay more than couple of years.

"My wife thinks I ought to stick to the pulpit but I am so discouraged, I think I'll take a job at a factory, unless you can argue me out of it."

Since we have a dearth of clergymen and thousands of empty churches here in America, I urged Rev. Mark to stick to his pulpit.

But I guaranteed him success if he would simply ignore the stodgy methods of the past and take an entirely new viewpoint.

"Imagine," I began, "that you are now working on your Ph.D. in psychology under my direction.

"Forget the fact you've been a pastor for the past 20 years.

"Instead, take the viewpoint of a graduate student in experimental psychology and see what effects you can produce on an audience by the public speaking formula I'll prescribe."

Then I outlined the type of sermon I wanted him to deliver the next Sunday.

I asked him to give me a text or title, which he did.

"Now," I added, "name 3 people who will likely be in your congregation that morning." He did.

"Make pastoral calls on them this week and try to notice something in their home or farm or store which lends itself to being a relevant example for your sermon text."

Then I gave him some mildly humorous stories that would also fit into his address and offer his audience a chance to laugh.

He hesitated about the funny stories, for he had always been so excessively intellectual and stodgy that he felt he couldn't get by with even one teeny little joke. But I insisted.

Then I warmed him to build his sermon to a crescendo and as he entered his peroration, to recite an appropriate poem which expressed his climactic thought in verse.

For rhythm grips an audience better than prose, especially at the climax.

He agreed to follow my prescription and report back.

Each of those 3 parishioners he had named, slapped him on the back, telling him it was the best sermon he had ever given.

The following week, he repeated this strategy but named 3 more. His use of cases merely imitated Christ's parable technique and is a guaranteed way to perk up the interest of any audience.

His congregation begged him to return at the end of the year and raised his salary 20 per cent. Attendance also had jumped almost 30 per cent.

So send for my booklet "Public Speaking Strategy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Address: Dr. T. R. Van Dellen, Chicago Tribune, Tribune Tower, Chicago, Illinois 60611. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

HOW T KEEP WELL FOR VAN DELLEN, AUG. 30 JEAN

CARIES AND THE DIET

Cavities develop when bacterial enzymes in the saliva ferment carbohydrates in the diet. The resulting acid eats into the enamel and a cavity is in the making. It is not this simple because some people are blessed with fewer bacterial enzymes or harder enamel and are considered more cavity resistant.

The best defense against cavities is the avoidance of sweet, sticky foods and adequate fluorides at an early age to increase resistance of the enamel. It is important to differentiate between nutrition and diet.

Dietary sugars are important in relation to tooth decay. If these sugars (especially sucrose) do not come into contact with the teeth, they do not stimulate caries. No specific foods will prevent caries although there is some evidence that fat, cocoa, cheese, bone meal and unrefined cereals may protect against cavities. Certain phosphates, molybdenum, and vanadium might prove helpful along this line.

Before the teeth erupt, nutrients are important in dental development. Calcium and vitamin D are essential but there is no need for concern as long as the infant receives a nourishing diet.

The gums, connective tissue, and bony socket are less likely to be influenced by any particular food. These tissues are damaged more by local irritation including infection, calculus, plaques upon the teeth, traumatic occlusion and over-hanging margins of restorations. Periodontitis is more likely to occur in older people and is the most common cause of loss of teeth. No particular foods strengthen the tissues except a well-balanced diet. A recent Vietnamese study revealed a higher incidence of periodontal disease among villagers whose typical diet was low in total calories, protein, carbohydrates, riboflavin, and iron.

TRAVELING WITH CHILDREN

Mrs. E. T. writes: We are taking an extended auto trip this month and it will be up to me to see that our children don't get too tired or develop intestinal upsets. Have you any suggestions along this line?

REPLY

Yes we do, and you can find them in our leaflet, traveling with children. It can be obtained by sending stamped, self-addressed envelope with request.

---

DETERIORATED MENTALITY

M.M. writes: Could schizophrenia occur for the first time in old age?

REPLY

Yes, as a form of senile psychosis. This type of insanity is more common in early adult life whch is why it formerly was called dementia praecox. The name was changed after it was found that the disease may occur at any age from 3 to 93.

---

HOUSEWORK IS PAINFUL

A.R. writes: At age 48, I find household chores too painful to do, especially when kneeling and bending are required. What causes pain in the muscles and stiffness in the joints?

REPLY

Arthritis and muscular rheumatism. You need help if the distress is severe. Heat, massage, and pain relieving drugs may solve your problem.

Former Envoy Dies in Austria

SALZBURG, Austria (AP) — The body of Charles W. Thayer, writer and former U.S. diplomat, is to be cremated and his ashes returned to the United States, a local undertaker said today.

Thayer, 59, was rushed to a Salzburg hospital Thursday and died soon after. Death was due to an obstruction of a kidney artery, an autopsy showed.

Thayer was visiting Salzburg with his wife and their son.

Thayer held Foreign Service posts in Moscow, Munich and Berlin, and was director of the Voice of America in 1947-49, when the Cold War with Russia began.

He was attacked by the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., when he left the State Department in 1953. McCarthy said he was fired, but the department said his resignation was voluntary.

He wrote several books, some in light vein about his experiences in the U.S. Embassy in Moscow and others about U.S. relations with the Soviet Union and Germany.

Thayer was born in Villanova, Pa., and attended St. Paul's School in Concord, N.H. He was graduated from the U.S. Military Academy in 1933, but left the Army a few months later to join the Foreign Service.

Mrs. Thayer is a daughter of a former U.S. ambassador to Rome, James Dunn, and one of Thayer's sisters is married to Charles E. Bohlen, a former No. 1 career diplomat in the State Department.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

© 1969, By the Chicago Tribune
N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

I don't quite understand how Christ can "take away my sins". Psychologists say this is difficult, if not impossible. I have quite a few sins, and I would certainly like to be free of them — as would every normal person. I would appreciate an explanation. D.P.L.

The Bible says, "All we like sheep have gone astray, but the Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all." Now, I don't understand the divine chemistry by which this is done. But, like James Cowper wrote: "The dying thief rejoiced to see that fountain in his day; and there may I, though vile as he, wash all my sins away."

When I came to Christ, as a teenager, I had soiled some of the pages of my life. Even at an early age I had done things I was ashamed of. But, I heard an evangelist say that God would bury my sins in the depths of the sea, and remember them against me no more. This appealed to me, for I was troubled that sin was beginning to haunt me, even in my teens. I came to Christ, and it was as thought, with His nail-pierced hand, He tore all the soiled pages from the record of my life. I experienced an inner cleansing, and an assurance that God had, for Christ's sake forgiven my sin. How He does it is a wonderful mystery, and I need no explanation — but I know it works. Not only for me, but for countless thousands who have trusted in Christ for forgiveness. "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh but after the Spirit."

I see where local ministers in a Florida city refused to offer opening prayers at city commission meetings, because some claim it does no good. Are these ministers, in your opinion, right in refusing to pray at city hall meeting? K.L.

In my opinion, prayer is never unimportant. Jesus said: "Men ought always to pray and not faint."

If we pray only when conditions are favorable, we nullify the power of prayer to change unfavorable conditions and circumstances.

I believe that clergymen, when invited to pray at public functions, should gratefully accept if possible. Probably the ministers based their decision on not to lead in prayers on the fact that city commissioners in their case, had made up their minds about certain legislation, and therefore praying was superfluous. But, I believe that the presence of a clergyman in such meetings, leading in a sincere prayer for Divine guidance, would have some measurable effect upon the decisions of the group—and should not be discontinued.

Sometimes Congress makes decisions over which Christian prayer might seem inappropriate, but few would favor discontinuing prayer at the opening of Congressional sessions. Historically, prayer and the recognition of God in the affairs of the nation has been an important element. During the Constitutional Convention, George Washington said: "Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest can repair. The event is in the hands of God." We should wisely follow that exemplary act.

Dismantling House to Move It to Pure Air

DETROIT (AP) — When Detroit trucker William Picknik retired this summer, he figured he'd give his historic house a break too.

So Picknik, 55, is dismantling his 116-year-old, two-story farmhouse piece-by-piece and moving it from industrial southwest Detroit to the pure air of Mullett Lake, near the northern tip of Michigan's Lower Peninsula.

"I love this house," says Picknik, who retired early because his wife was ill. "I'm taking it back to the nice clean setting it belongs in.

Picknik feared that professional house movers might harm the old home, which has five fireplaces and huge walnut beams. So he set to work himself, dismantilng the old house with a hammer and crowbar. One of his old trucks was assigned to the moving job.

"It will take a lot of work and a lot of money to rebuild the house up north," Picknik said, pausing, shirtless, in his work. "But it will be my hobby to try to do it."

Picknik, who bought the house for $4,700, estimates it would cost about $100,000 to build it from scratch today. No room is smaller than 8-by-11 feet and the master bedroom is 17-by-17.

That old house was put together like a gigantic wood jigsaw puzzle, each piece locking with and reinforcing another.

FLAMINGO, Fla. (UPI)—The largest mahongany tree in the continental United States, more than 11 feet in circumference, grows in Everglades National Park. Vacationers can view the mammoth tree and an array of showy vegetation from an elevated boardwalk trail at Mahogany Hammock, located about halfway between the Park's major entrance southwest of Miami, and the Flamingo tourist center on Florida Bay.

No Word on Tricia's Ailment

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Tricia Nixon's abdominal pain has been diagnosed and she is expected to recover fully soon, the Western White House says.

A spokesman for the presidential family said Thursday that White House physician Dr. Walter Tkach preferred not to give out the diagnosis "in accordance with the principle of patient-physician relationship."

The president's 23-year-old daughter was recuperating at the Washington White House, but plans to return to California before Sept. 8, when her parents end their month-long vacation here.

Tricia's sister, Julie, and her husband, David Eisenhower, meanwhile, were heading to Washington to rejoin Tricia.

They were taking an Air Force courier plane from the Western White House this morning with a stopover in Chicago to attend a friend's wedding Saturday.

They planned to go on to Washington Sunday.

Justice Dept. Urges Protection From Mail

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department, urging the Supreme Court to uphold a law aimed at protecting a person from unwanted mail he considers obscene, contends the "right to speak confers no right to intrude on an unwilling listener" in his home.

The high court's consideration of the 1967 law at the next term provides the initial test of whether the court under Chief Justice Warren E. Burger will take a narrower view of free speech rights than did the Earl Warren court.

In a brief signed by Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold, the Justice Department argued Thursday that the right to "speak to the community at large may be made to yield to a citizen's countervailing right to privacy in his own home."

The law is under fire from various civil rights spokesmen. A group of mailers contends the law violates the freedom of speech.

Under the law, anyone being mailed an ad he believes is "erotically arousing" or "sexually provocative" may ask his postmaster to direct the advertiser to stop sending such mail.

A federal attorney may seek an injunction if the advertiser refuses to take the name off the mailing list. An advertiser disobeying an injunction may be held in contempt of court.

Carroll Righter

By Carroll Righter

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Now it's up to you to put your ideals on a working basis. For faith without works is dead. You need to prove, to yourself as well as to others, that you mean what you say. Show that you really do have a fine character. Live your ideals.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have to put everything on a practical basis if you are to make your whole life more profitable and satisfying. This applies even to religion. Plan how to make your property more valuable and comfortable. Be wise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Entertain your associates today to open the way for more satisfactory relations in the future. Put all that dynamism to work in constructive ways. Try to go to bed early tonight so that you can get a good start in the morning.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Sit down and figure out accurately what your assets and liabilities are. Plan your future intelligently. Decide on some recreation tonight for you and your mate. Give some time to the religion you like.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try to think of others today. Do whatever will please friends and relatives you like. Plan your personal life more wisely. Offer to help those who are in distress.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you want to gain a big favor from a prominent individual, be sure you do something constructive of a civic nature. Handle all duties very carefully. Do an extra-good job.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have many fine ideas and can now put them in operation to your benefit. Discuss them with brilliant people who can help you with them. This is the time to plan that important trip, also.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle all your responsibilities right away. Take care of them as quickly as possible. Use your good judgment instead of relying on hunches alone. Rest in the afternoon.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Do anything that will shed light on present baffling conditions. The approval of your associates is necessary. Be meticulous in honoring agreements with others. Don't try to back down.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan a course that permits you to accomplish more in the future. Scheduling your time wisely is the first step. You have to do something to improve the state of your health, as well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Go out for the recreation you need. Stop worrying about problems. Be with charming persons who will make you laugh and be your real self. Take that chip off your shoulder. You're not that kind of person.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Talking too much, or at the wrong time, could get you in trouble, especially at home. Be kind. Keep conditions more harmonious.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) After spiritual studies, visit with good friends and make fine plans for the future. Telephone those you wish to see later on. Make the appointments for the coming week. Be active and happy.

IF YOUR C HL ISDI BORN

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN one of those fascinating young people whose feet will be firmly planted on the ground. Others will only have to give an outline of some practical plan for your progeny to understand it and help to make it a great success. Break that stubborn streak early and turn it into a persevering one. An ideal contractor here, whether dealing with building, digging, or merchandising. MOTHER'S PILGRIMAGE

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Mrs. Robert Mass, wife of an attorney, wanted to see her 24-year-old son Gary in the Peace Corps in Rampur, Nepal, so she signed on a pilgrimage of the Methodist Federation for Social Action for a world tour.

Mrs. Mass was one of five Jews among 39 persons to make the trip. She found her son demonstrating modern methods of agriculture to villagers.

HOW T KEEP WELL FOR VAN DELLEN, AUG. 30 JEAN

CARIES AND THE DIET

Cavities develop when bacterial enzymes in the saliva ferment carbohydrates in the diet. The resulting acid eats into the enamel and a cavity is in the making. It is not this simple because some people are blessed with fewer bacterial enzymes or harder enamel and are considered more cavity resistant.

The best defense against cavities is the avoidance of sweet, sticky foods and adequate fluorides at an early age to increase resistance of the enamel. It is important to differentiate between nutrition and diet.

Dietary sugars are important in relation to tooth decay. If these sugars (especially sucrose) do not come into contact with the teeth, they do not stimulate caries. No specific foods will prevent caries although there is some evidence that fat, cocoa, cheese, bone meal and unrefined cereals may protect against cavities. Certain phosphates, molybdenum, and vanadium might prove helpful along this line.

Before the teeth erupt, nutrients are important in dental development. Calcium and vitamin D are essential but there is no need for concern as long as the infant receives a nourishing diet.

The gums, connective tissue, and bony socket are less likely to be influenced by any particular food. These tissues are damaged more by local irritation including infection, calculus, plaques upon the teeth, traumatic occlusion and over-hanging margins of restorations. Periodontitis is more likely to occur in older people and is the most common cause of loss of teeth. No particular foods strengthen the tissues except a well-balanced diet. A recent Vietnamese study revealed a higher incidence of periodontal disease among villagers whose typical diet was low in total calories, protein, carbohydrates, riboflavin, and iron.

Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if a stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.

TRAVELING WITH CHILDREN

Mrs. E. T. writes: We are taking an extended auto trip this month and it will be up to me to see that our children don't get too tired or develop intestinal upsets. Have you any suggestions along this line?

Former Envoy Dies in Austria

SALZBURG, Austria (AP) — The body of Charles W. Thayer, writer and former U.S. diplomat, is to be cremated and his ashes returned to the United States, a local undertaker said today.

Thayer, 59, was rushed to a Salzburg hospital Thursday and died soon after. Death was due to an obstruction of a kidney artery, an autopsy showed.

Thayer was visiting Salzburg with his wife and their son.

Thayer held Foreign Service posts in Moscow, Munich and Berlin, and was director of the Voice of America in 1947-49, when the Cold War with Russia began.

He was attacked by the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., when he left the State Department in 1953. McCarthy said he was fired, but the department said his resignation was voluntary.

He wrote several books, some in light vein about his experiences in the U.S. Embassy in Moscow and others about U.S. relations with the Soviet Union and Germany.

Thayer was born in Villanova, Pa., and attended St. Paul's School in Concord, N.H. He was graduated from the U.S. Military Academy in 1933, but left the Army a few months later to join the Foreign Service.

Mrs. Thayer is a daughter of a former U.S. ambassador to Rome, James Dunn, and one of Thayer's sisters is married to Charles E. Bohlen, a former No. 1 career diplomat in the State Department.

MY ANSWER by Billy Graham

N. Y. News Syndicate, Inc.

I don't quite understand how Christ can "take away my sins". Psychologists say this is difficult, if not impossible. I have quite a few sins, and I would certainly like to be free of them — as would every normal person. I would appreciate an explanation. D.P.L.

The Bible says, "All we like sheep have gone astray, but the Lord hath laid on Him the iniquity of us all." Now, I don't understand the divine chemistry by which this is done. But, like James Cowper wrote: "The dying thief rejoiced to see that fountain in his day; and there may I, though vile as he, wash all my sins away."

When I came to Christ, as a teenager, I had soiled some of the pages of my life. Even at an early age I had done things I was ashamed of. But, I heard an evangelist say that God would bury my sins in the depths of the sea, and remember them against me no more. This appealed to me, for I was troubled that sin was beginning to haunt me, even in my teens. I came to Christ, and it was as thought, with His nail-pierced hand, He tore all the soiled pages from the record of my life. I experienced an inner cleansing, and an assurance that God had, for Christ's sake forgiven my sin. How He does it is a wonderful mystery, and I need no explanation — but I know it works. Not only for me, but for countless thousands who have trusted in Christ for forgiveness. "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh but after the Spirit."

I see where local ministers in a Florida city refused to offer opening prayers at city commission meetings, because some claim it does no good. Are these ministers, in your opinion, right in refusing to pray at city hall meeting? K.L.

In my opinion, prayer is never unimportant. Jesus said: "Men ought always to pray and not faint."

If we pray only when conditions are favorable, we nullify the power of prayer to change unfavorable conditions and circumstances.

I believe that clergymen, when invited to pray at public functions, should gratefully accept if possible. Probably the ministers based their decision on not to lead in prayers on the fact that city commissioners in their case, had made up their minds about certain legislation, and therefore praying was superfluous. But, I believe that the presence of a clergyman in such meetings, leading in a sincere prayer for Divine guidance, would have some measurable effect upon the decisions of the group—and should not be discontinued.

Sometimes Congress makes decisions over which Christian prayer might seem inappropriate, but few would favor discontinuing prayer at the opening of Congressional sessions. Historically, prayer and the recognition of God in the affairs of the nation has been an important element. During the Constitutional Convention, George Washington said: "Let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest can repair. The event is in the hands of God." We should wisely follow that exemplary act.

Dismantling House to Move It to Pure Air

DETROIT (AP) — When Detroit trucker William Picknik retired this summer, he figured he'd give his historic house a break too.

So Picknik, 55, is dismantling his 116-year-old, two-story farmhouse piece-by-piece and moving it from industrial southwest Detroit to the pure air of Mullett Lake, near the northern tip of Michigan's Lower Peninsula.

"I love this house," says Picknik, who retired early because his wife was ill. "I'm taking it back to the nice clean setting it belongs in.

Picknik feared that professional house movers might harm the old home, which has five fireplaces and huge walnut beams. So he set to work himself, dismantilng the old house with a hammer and crowbar. One of his old trucks was assigned to the moving job.

"It will take a lot of work and a lot of money to rebuild the house up north," Picknik said, pausing, shirtless, in his work. "But it will be my hobby to try to do it."

Picknik, who bought the house for $4,700, estimates it would cost about $100,000 to build it from scratch today. No room is smaller than 8-by-11 feet and the master bedroom is 17-by-17.

That old house was put together like a gigantic wood jigsaw puzzle, each piece locking with and reinforcing another.

Largest mahogany tree

FLAMINGO, Fla. (UPI)—The largest mahongany tree in the continental United States, more than 11 feet in circumference, grows in Everglades National Park. Vacationers can view the mammoth tree and an array of showy vegetation from an elevated boardwalk trail at Mahogany Hammock, located about halfway between the Park's major entrance southwest of Miami, and the Flamingo tourist center on Florida Bay.

No Word on Tricia's Ailment

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Tricia Nixon's abdominal pain has been diagnosed and she is expected to recover fully soon, the Western White House says.

A spokesman for the presidential family said Thursday that White House physician Dr. Walter Tkach preferred not to give out the diagnosis "in accordance with the principle of patient-physician relationship."

The president's 23-year-old daughter was recuperating at the Washington White House, but plans to return to California before Sept. 8, when her parents end their month-long vacation here.

Tricia's sister, Julie, and her husband, David Eisenhower, meanwhile, were heading to Washington to rejoin Tricia.

They were taking an Air Force courier plane from the Western White House this morning with a stopover in Chicago to attend a friend's wedding Saturday.

They planned to go on to Washington Sunday.

Justice Dept. Urges Protection From Mail

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department, urging the Supreme Court to uphold a law aimed at protecting a person from unwanted mail he considers obscene, contends the "right to speak confers no right to intrude on an unwilling listener" in his home.

The high court's consideration of the 1967 law at the next term provides the initial test of whether the court under Chief Justice Warren E. Burger will take a narrower view of free speech rights than did the Earl Warren court.

In a brief signed by Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold, the Justice Department argued Thursday that the right to "speak to the community at large may be made to yield to a citizen's countervailing right to privacy in his own home."

The law is under fire from various civil rights spokesmen. A group of mailers contends the law violates the freedom of speech.

Under the law, anyone being mailed an ad he believes is "erotically arousing" or "sexually provocative" may ask his postmaster to direct the advertiser to stop sending such mail.

A federal attorney may seek an injunction if the advertiser refuses to take the name off the mailing list. An advertiser disobeying an injunction may be held in contempt of court.

Medical authorities suggest that August is a good time to schedule back-to-school physical exams. If corrective work is needed, there's time to get it done before school bells ring.

Carroll Righter

By Carroll Righter

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Now it's up to you to put your ideals on a working basis. For faith without works is dead. You need to prove, to yourself as well as to others, that you mean what you say. Show that you really do have a fine character. Live your ideals.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You have to put everything on a practical basis if you are to make your whole life more profitable and satisfying. This applies even to religion. Plan how to make your property more valuable and comfortable. Be wise.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Entertain your associates today to open the way for more satisfactory relations in the future. Put all that dynamism to work in constructive ways. Try to go to bed early tonight so that you can get a good start in the morning.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Sit down and figure out accurately what your assets and liabilities are. Plan your future intelligently. Decide on some recreation tonight for you and your mate. Give some time to the religion you like.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try to think of others today. Do whatever will please friends and relatives you like. Plan your personal life more wisely. Offer to help those who are in distress.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you want to gain a big favor from a prominent individual, be sure you do something constructive of a civic nature. Handle all duties very carefully. Do an extra-good job.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You have many fine ideas and can now put them in operation to your benefit. Discuss them with brilliant people who can help you with them. This is the time to plan that important trip, also.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Handle all your responsibilities right away. Take care of them as quickly as possible. Use your good judgment instead of relying on hunches alone. Rest in the afternoon.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Do anything that will shed light on present baffling conditions. The approval of your associates is necessary. Be meticulous in honoring agreements with others. Don't try to back down.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan a course that permits you to accomplish more in the future. Scheduling your time wisely is the first step. You have to do something to improve the state of your health, as well.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Go out for the recreation you need. Stop worrying about problems. Be with charming persons who will make you laugh and be your real self. Take that chip off your shoulder. You're not that kind of person.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Talking too much, or at the wrong time, could get you in trouble, especially at home. Be kind. Keep conditions more harmonious.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) After spiritual studies, visit with good friends and make fine plans for the future. Telephone those you wish to see later on. Make the appointments for the coming week. Be active and happy.

IF YOUR C HL ISDI BORN IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN one of those fascinating young people whose feet will be firmly planted on the ground. Others will only have to give an outline of some practical plan for your progeny to understand it and help to make it a great success. Break that stubborn streak early and turn it into a persevering one. An ideal contractor here, whether dealing with building, digging, or merchandising. The banking field is also fine for this chart.

MOTHER'S PILGRIMAGE

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Mrs. Robert Mass, wife of an attorney, wanted to see her 24-year-old son Gary in the Peace Corps in Rampur, Nepal, so she signed on a pilgrimage of the Methodist Federation for Social Action for a world tour.

Mrs. Mass was one of five Jews among 39 persons to make the trip. She found her son demonstrating modern methods of agriculture to villagers.

ALLEN-GOLDSMITH REPORT

Robert S. Allen

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Over the last six years, budget cutting action by the Senate has trimmed $8.6 billion from the regular appropriations requested for the Pentagon and the armed services.

That is a sizable sum. It represents about 2.6 per cent of the $349.8 billion in appropriations for defense purposes recommended for the 1964-69 fiscal years by former Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

During the same period, however, all the regular appropriations, totaling $671.2 billion, were cut $24.5 billion or 3.6 per cent . That means that some $321.5 billion in non-defense budget requests absorbed Senate cuts totaling $15.9 billion, about 4.9 per cent.

These totals, from a private study, set the dimensions of the current Senate controversy over military spending and national priorities. They provide statistical support for the assertion by Pentagon critics that the Senate (and the House too) are just rubber stamps in the annual budget process.

The statistics suggest that non-defense programs, cut nearly five per cent in the six fiscal years, were hit nearly twice as hard by the Senate budget cutters as were the programs in the Defense Department money bills, cut 2.6 per cent.

Budge experts say that disparity would probably increase a bit if totals for "supplemental" money bills were added to the regularly budgeted appropriations. That is because the Pentagon usually gets most of its supplemental requests — for pay, provisions and the like — while non-defense supplementals are more readily denied.

Non-experts might contend that the 3.6 per cent overall cut for all regular appropriations is not really very large. There can be much argument also about what is a "rubber stamp." The totals indicate, however, that small defense budget cuts have been smaller than non-defense budget cuts, which are also small.

TFX, FDL AND THEN? — In terms of weapons, rather than dollars, the congressional record for cuts is similar — some accomplishments, significant in themselves, but less so when viewed against the overall procurement program.

There is, in the first place, the Navy F-111 fighter, the Navy's version of the controversial TFX fighter designed to be used by all the services. The Navy plane was canceled because of a tide of congressional resistance which originated with Sen John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

Then there are the FDLs, the first deployment logistic ships, floating armories and weapons depots to carry major equipment for troops to be moved by airlift. Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, has been able to block the FDL program so far.

Some other weapon developments, such as transition to the new Poseidon missile for the Polaris submarine fleet, have been slowed by congressional pressures. Often, however, the pressure has been in the other direction. The Senate and House have prodded the Pentagon and sometimes voted sums in excess of presidential requests.

In the last six years, for example, Congress has, on a couple of occasions, called for a faster transition to nuclear power for warships, both carriers and escorts. Those speed-up pressures have sometimes paid off in the past.

The 41 missile firing submarines of the Polaris fleet, which are now viewed as the nation's major deterrent force by some of the Pentagon's critics, would surely have been delayed, and might not now be completed if Congress had not pressed for faster action by the Navy.

WHAT'S TO DO? — As senators are discovering in the long debate over the current procurement bill, it is hard to cut defense spending by zeroing in on individual weapons systems, however expensive. There are always persuasive arguments for the weapons, and additional sums are then required for men to use them.

Happily there is a gradual awakening to the fact that major cuts in defense spending will require a better definition of what the United States might have to do in the ultimate emergency with its weapons and its men in uniform.

In fighting against the FDL program, Russell argued a couple of years ago, that "If we can go anywhere and do anything, we'll always be going somewhere and doing something." That argument, by the supposed Senate hawk, has won the day against the mobile arms depot so far.

What is needed now is a better and broader blueprint of just where the United States may have to go, under its present commitments, and what its forces may have to do. That sort of planning has not really been done in recent years.

Now there are indications that congressional leaders will demand it in the hope of charting the way to a less expensive defense establishment.

Sketch by Hitler Pulled From Auction

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A sketch attributed to Adolf Hitler was withdrawn from an auction Thursday when the bidding stopped at $2,500—half of what the owner wanted.

The sketch shows a courtyard of a Munich beer hall and bears Hitler's signature and the date April 1919. The owner, an unnamed Brazilian diplomat, said he bought it from a German refugee in Barcelona, Spain, near the end of World War II.

Looking at Hollywood

By FLORABEL MUIR

HOLLYWOOD — You have to admit that Christopher Plummer is a fascinating cat. Few actors are involved in more prestige projects or are hotter, but Chris resolutely refuses to "go the star route." Like the other truly great actors of this or any age, his prime objective is challenge. A good example of his starring role in the film version of "The Royal Hunt of the Sun." Plummer starred in the acclaimed Broadway production, creating the role of the Spanish conqueror, Pizarro, and when it came time to make the film, the producers insisted Christopher be in front of the cameras.

What could be easier for Plummer than to recreate the role for which the critics had already lauded him and which he had months to perfect. For that reason, he declined the role and asked to play the other half of the great two - character struggle, the Incan leader Atahuallpa, going for the new challenge.

As one of the greatest dramatic and Shakespearean actors of our day, and as one of the two stars of the greatest money-making movie of all time, "The Sound of Music," Christopher Plummer can literally call his own shots, select the easy, glamorous roles. Instead, he attacks the highest mountains. His production of the imposing "Oedipus Rex" last year was a mighty steep slope to try on film, but Plummer scaled it brilliantly and brought a fabled Greek classic alive for millions of film patrons for the first time.

Plummer, a supreme interpreter of "Hamlet," had already done everything possible with the role, so when BBC TV offered to back him in a super production of the work, Christopher asked to have it filmed at the actual site, the castle at Elsinore, Denmark. It was, literally, an historic production.

The actor, reportedly, has the most demanding role in "The Battle of Britain." That sounds like our boy!

Plummer is still up to his trick of tackling the toughest. He is now in Uzhgored, Russia, bringing to life another enigmatic historic figure, the Duke of Wellington, in Dino De Laurentiis' production of "Waterloo." It is directed by the Russian Segei Bondarchuk, who directed "War and Peace."

Bondarchuk speaks no English, but we'll bet two giant talents like Plummer and the Russian speak the same language.

Metro, more than pleased with David Hemmings' performance in "Alfred the Great," is looking to revive the "Charlemagne" project with David in the title role.

Norman Panama thinks that Carol Burnett is the best actress-comedienne since Lucille Ball burst upon the scene and is outlining an original screenplay to utilize her talents.

Arthur Andrej Bushanki has sent Richard Crenna galley proofs of his novel, "Highway" — a short story about a man in his 30s who abandons everything to search for a new way of life. He wants Richard to star in the film, which is on Italian producer Frenco Christaldi's schedule for 1970.

ALLEN-GOLDSMITH REPORT

Robert S. Allen

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Over the last six years, budget cutting action by the Senate has trimmed $8.6 billion from the regular appropriations requested for the Pentagon and the armed services.

That is a sizable sum. It represents about 2.6 per cent of the $349.8 billion in appropriations for defense purposes recommended for the 1964-69 fiscal years by former Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

During the same period, however, all the regular appropriations, totaling $671.2 billion, were cut $24.5 billion or 3.6 per cent. That means that some $321.5 billion in non-defense budget requests absorbed Senate cuts totaling $15.9 billion, about 4.9 per cent.

These totals, from a private study, set the dimensions of the current Senate controversy over military spending and national priorities. They provide statistical support for the assertion by Pentagon critics that the Senate (and the House too) are just rubber stamps in the annual budget process.

The statistics suggest that non-defense programs, cut nearly five per cent in the six fiscal years, were hit nearly twice as hard by the Senate budget cutters as were the programs in the Defense Department money bills, cut 2.6 per cent.

Budge experts say that disparity would probably increase a bit if totals for "supplemental" money bills were added to the regularly budgeted appropriations. That is because the Pentagon usually gets most of its supplemental requests — for pay, provisions and the like — while non-defense supplementals are more readily denied.

Non-experts might contend that the 3.6 per cent overall cut for all regular appropriations is not really very large. There can be much argument also about what is a "rubber stamp." The totals indicate, however, that small defense budget cuts have been smaller than non-defense budget cuts, which are also small.

TFX, FDL AND THEN? — In terms of weapons, rather than dollars, the congressional record for cuts is similar — some accomplishments, significant in themselves, but less so when viewed against the overall procurement program.

There is, in the first place, the Navy F-111 fighter, the Navy's version of the controversial TFX fighter designed to be used by all the services. The Navy plane was canceled because of a tide of congressional resistance which originated with Sen John L. McClellan, D-Ark.

Then there are the FDLs, the first deployment logistic ships, floating armories and weapons depots to carry major equipment for troops to be moved by airlift. Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Appropriations Committee, has been able to block the FDL program so far.

Some other weapon developments, such as transition to the new Poseidon missile for the Polaris submarine fleet, have been slowed by congressional pressures. Often, however, the pressure has been in the other direction. The Senate and House have prodded the Pentagon and sometimes voted sums in excess of presidential requests.

In the last six years, for example, Congress has, on a couple of occasions, called for a faster transition to nuclear power for warships, both carriers and escorts. Those speed-up pressures have sometimes paid off in the past.

The 41 missile firing submarines of the Polaris fleet, which are now viewed as the nation's major deterrent force by some of the Pentagon's critics, would surely have been delayed, and might not now be completed if Congress had not pressed for faster action by the Navy.

WHAT'S TO DO? — As senators are discovering in the long debate over the current procurement bill, it is hard to cut defense spending by zeroing in on individual weapons systems, however expensive. There are always persuasive arguments for the weapons, and additional sums are then required for men to use them.

Happily there is a gradual awakening to the fact that major cuts in defense spending will require a better definition of what the United States might have to do in the ultimate emergency with its weapons and its men in uniform.

In fighting against the FDL program, Russell argued a couple of years ago, that "If we can go anywhere and do anything, we'll always be going somewhere and doing something." That argument, by the supposed Senate hawk, has won the day against the mobile arms depot so far.

Vista Grande Ousted From Legion Series

Oklahoma Tops Local Crew In Loser's Bracket Battle

BY BOB LUDWIG
Gazette Telegraph
Sports Writer

HASTINGS, Neb. — The long grind, the grueling hours of competition, and the turmoil of a 2½ week road tour ended abruptly for Colorado's representative in the American Legion World Series Friday morning when Barlesville, Okla., blanked Vista Grande in the second round of the eight-team tourney 4-0.

For Coach Bob Gill's diamond crew, composed of players from Mitchell High School, the defeat was a hard pill to swallow as the Flyer's earned the distinction of being the first contingent to be erased from the meet.

But lowered heads need not be the scene around the Mitchell locker room as the crew finished their 1969 campaign as one of the top eight teams in the nation. Quite an honor, considering that there are over 10,000 teams in the country with over 150,000 participants.

The Mitchell nine gave a good account of themsevles during their two contests in the tourney but fate dictated the Flyer's early elimination from the beginning of the meet.

By chance alone, the Flyer's were paired against two of the top three teams in the tourney and that's a lot of pressure for any club.

Mitchell faced highly touted West Palm Beach, Fla., on opening day. The contest was the most exciting affair of the tourney thus far but a misjudged grounder in the eighth inning sent the Flyers to the loser's bracket as the Florida crew took the tilt 2-1.

Friday's opponent, Bartlesville, dropped into the loser's division after losing to favored Portland, Ore., 4-1 on Thursday. The Oklahoma nine's loss on opening day was its first in tourney play. It was attributed to the fact that its number one pitcher, Ron Chissoe, was unable to play due to eligibility regulations.

But Chissoe was able to take the field on Friday and his pitching performance closed the door on any threat the Mitchell nine could muster.

The hard throwing left-hander utilized a combination of breaking curves and fast balls in registering 14 strike-outs during the nine-inning contest. He allowed the Flyers only three scattered hits while walking a like amount.

Mitchell's lone extra base connection off the mound ace was a double by Don Struck in the seventh, but Chissoe let Struck die at second when he fanned the next two batters.

Bartlesville beat the Flyers at their own game, the patented explosion in the first inning.

The Oklahoma crew tallied three markers in the initial frame and added another in the sixth while holding the Mitchell nine at bay during the contest.

Lead-off batter Don Shelton ignited the barrage in the first with a single down the left-field line. He moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Mike Yount, his first of two during the day, and rounded the base paths when Bill Berryhill ripped a one-bagger up the middle.

Berryhill advanced to second when Roger Teat drew a base on balls. Both runners scampered home when center fielder Don Thornberry smashed his first of two doubles in the affair.

Mitchell starter Ray Zaremba, who suffered the loss, squelched the Oklahoma attack for the next four innings, striking out the side in the fourth.

Thn the sixth inning saw Bartlesville garner its last marker of the contest with Thorberry getting credit for the run.

With one out, Thornberry ripped his second two-bagger of the day into center field bringing Art Martindale to the plate. The first baseman tapped Zaremba's pitch to second baseman Jim Bowles. The keystone replacement booted the grounder and while attempting to retrieve it Thornberry crossed the plate to set the score at 4-0.

The loss set Zaremba's season record 11-4. Duringhis six innings on the mound, the righthander was tapped for five hits, three of which were doubles. Three of the four Oklahoma tallies score off of Zaremba were of the earned variety. He struck out seven opposing batters and walked three.

Mitchell Team Not Used to Pressures

HASTINGS, Neb.—Baseball teams, and athletic groups in general, are formed for one purpose, winning.

Yes, winning. Not for the humanitarian ideals of building character and sportsmanship, though these are definitely a by-product of winning.

For in this country and throughout the world, winning and all its aspects, both in school, business and athletics is the ultimate goal of all participants.

Sure, it's nice to be a good loser, but it's easier to be the victor.

But in any winning organization there is usally a period in its early growth when a setback, such as Mitchell's loss in the 1969 American Legion World Series, has to be overcome.

With the Vista Grande team, it must review the reason for its performance in the tournament and build on these a winning formula for next season.

In looking back over the last two defeats, it is evident that the Flyer's had not experienced the mental pressures of a tournament of this magnitude.

The Mitchell nine entered the meet as the youngest of the eight teams. They had played almost 20 less games than the other clubs and had been in tourney competition for only two weeks.

The other teams in the meet had all been in at least two tournaments during the summer and were used to the strain of playing four or more tilts in a short period of time.

But the other clubs will lose most of their seasoned players next year as they will be over the 17-year-old age limit.

Not so for Vista Grande, the club will lose only four members of its Colorado and Region Seven championship contingent.

While these players, Ron Haines, Lynn Harnly, Stu McPherson and Don Struck, have been mainstays on the team, the other members of the club have gained experience in the world of pressure play.

Coach Bob Gill will welcome back such standouts as Catcher Mike England, who led the team in hitting in '69; Ace Righthander Ray Zaremba, who led the club in home runs; Second Baseman Steve Weatherly, Third Baseman Paul Krug, Shortstop Jim Ulrich, Center Fielder Paul Williams, Utility Player Jim Bowles, Outfielder Mark Magnuson, Hitter Marty Nolan, Pitcher Doug Harnly, Rookie Hurler Dave Krause, and Utility Player Cliff Koehler.

Combine these seasoned plyers with the Mitchell Legion B crew, who made it to the state tourney's third round this summer, and the prospects of returning to the national tournament in 1970 look promising for the Colorado Springs team.

With cries of "We'll be back next year," the Mitchell nine left Hastings, Neb., but this year's setback has given more to next season's outlook than winning could have ever done.

Kelly, Sayers, O.J. Set For Saturday's Grid Play

Leroy Kelly, Gales Sayers and O.J. Simpson, three of pro football's most spectacular running backs, all will be on display Saturday night in an exhibition doubleheader in Cleveland.

A capacity crowd of 84,000 in the Cleveland Stadium will watch Sayers and the Chicago Bears, 2-2, of the National Football League, take on Simpson, the heralded rookie, and the Buffalo Bills, 1-3, of the American Football League, in the first game.

Then, Kelly, the NFL's rushing king for the last two years, and the unbeated Browns, 2-0-1, will tangle with the Green Bay Packers, 1-2, in an all-NFL contest.

O.S., the All-American from Southern California, still has to prove himself in the money ranks although he's rated a cinch to make it big.

Simpson, 21, incidentally is the biggest of the trio at 6-2 and 204 pounds. Sayers, 26, is 6-0 and 198 and Kelly, 27, is 6-0 and 200.

The doubleheader and a Saturday night Matchup of Joe Namath's Super Bowl champion New York Jets, 2-2, of the AFL, and the rugged Minnesota Vikings, 3-0, at Winston-Salem, N.C., features the weekend's exhibition program.

It should be interesting to see how Namath's protectors will fare against the Vikings' fearsome Front Four of ends Jim Marshall and Carl Eller and tackles Alan Page and Gary Larsen, undoubtedly eager to dump the gimpy-legged quarterback superstar.

The weekend card of nine Saturday games and two Sunday afternoon contests closes out a full schedule for the 26 major pro teams.

All of the Saturday games are at night with the exception of the afternoon clash in Princeton, N.J., between the New York Giants, 0-2, and the Philadelphia Eagles, 1-1, of the NFL.

The rest of the schedule includes:

Saturday

Washington, NFL, 2-1, vs. Detroit, NFL, 2-1, at Tampa, Fla., in a nationally televized game, CBS, 6:30 p.m. EDT.

Los Angeles, NFL, 1-2, at San Diego, AFL, 2-1-1.

Baltimore, NFL, 4-0, at Miami, AFL, 0-4.

Atlanta, NFL, 2-1, at New Orleans, NFL, 1-2.

Cincinnati, AFL, 1-2, at Pittsburgh, NFL, 1-1.

Sunday

San Francisco, NFL, 0-3, at Oakland, AFL, 1-3.

Denver, AFL, 1-2, vs Boston, AFL, 1-2, at Jacksonville, Fla.

The NFL started the long weekend program with a 13-7-1 edge over the AFL.

The NFL beat Houston, of the AFL, 14-11 for the championship of Texas.

On Friday night, Kansas City, AFL, 4-0, taclked St. Louis, NFL, 2-1, for the championship of Missouri.

But on Sept. 14 the AFL starts playing for real with the NFL due to follow on Sept. 21.

A crowd of more than 84,000 is expected to jam Municipal Stadium Saturday night to see some preseason skirmishing by four teams participating in the eighth annual pro football doubleheader.

Cleveland fans will be getting their first look at the 1969 edition of the Cleveland Browns, led by quarterback Bill Nelsen and Leroy Kelly, who was the National Football League's top rusher last year.

They'll also get to see the Chicago Bears' fine runner, Gale Sayers, and O.J. Simpson, the Buffalo Bills' highly touted rookie.

LIONS-REDSKINS ON TV

The Washington Redskins-Detroit Lions exhibition football game will be televised today on KKTV, Channel 11 at 4:30.

Warriors Ink Rick Barry To Cage Pact

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Franklin Mieuli, owner of the San Francisco Warriors, said Friday that Rick Barry has agreed to a five-year contract and will leave the Oakland Oaks —now the Washington Caps—to rejoin the Warriors.

Run-scoring singles by Sandy Alomar and Jay Johnstone made it 4-1 in the seventh as California chased loser Dave McNally, 17-5. The angels got two more in the ninth on Jim Fregosi's bases-loaded single.

Winner Andy Messersmith, 13-8, allowed an unearned run in the first without a hit and Baltimore scored again in the eighth. Both runs ere driven in by Frank Robinson.

The announcement by Mieuli, with Barry standing at his side, came at the law offices of Loeb and Loeb in Los Angeles, following a closed session that lasted more than three hours.

Present were the Warrior owner, Barry and Barry's attorney, a member of the firm, Robert Ruben.

"I'm happy to be back with the Warriors or else I wouldn't have agreed to the terms," Barry said. Based on the fact that the Oaks are going back to Washington, D.C., I don't feel compelled to go with them.

"I feel I must do what is best for my family and myself."

The owner of the National Basketball Association club was asked to discuss salary terms, and answered, "We don't usually go into salary matters. All I can say is that Rick is an excellent player and is receiving an excellent salary."

Barry jumped from the Warriors to Oakland two years ago but had to sit out a season by court order.

Plays 'Like Rabbit' In 2-1 Final Win

David "Spec" Goldman played "like that rabbit that climbed the tree" Friday, holding off a late charge by Curtis Person to win the 10th annual World Seniors golf championship at the Broadmoor Golf Club, 2 and 1.

Goldman blistered the front nine in three-under-par 33 and finished 17 holes at one under. The Dallas, Tex. native thus became the third golfer to win back-to-back titles in the prestigious tournament. Cecil Dees won in 1966 and 1967, and Howard Creel won in both 1961 and 1962.

"That was for sure my best round of the tournament," a happy Goldman said after the round. "I didn't finish so good, but then I didn't have to sink that putt on 17 and there was no need in being a hero."

"It had to be my best round," Goldman continued, "or I'd have been beaten. It was like that rabbit that climbed the tree. He knew he couldn't climb the tree, but the dogs were chasing him and he didn't have any choice. The dogs were chasing me today. I had to play well."

Person from Memphis, Tenn., must have felt like a scared rabbit himself after the front nine. He played out to the turn in one-under-par 35, but found himself two holes behind the hot-putting Goldman. He finished the 17 holes in one-over-par after taking one of five bogeys on the 17th.

Goldman wasted no time in gaining an advantage in the match. After halving the first hole, he hit a great approach shot on the second off a gravel road on the left of the fairway. He left himself just 10 feet from the cup and rammed the putt in for a birdie and a one-up lead.

Person got the hole back on the next hole, dropping a 13-foot birdie putt.

Person took the first bogey of the match on the par-three fifth hole when he put his tee shot in a sand trap in front of the green and blasted over the green on his second shot. Goldman took advantage of Person's lapse and won with a par.

Goldman sank his longest putt of the round in winning the seventh hole to go two up. He tapped in a 35-footer for a birdie that put him two under par for the seven holes.

Person got back a hole with a scrambling birdie on the eighth hole. He put his second shot on the 492-yard, par-five hole in a trap in front of the green, but blasted out to within three feet and tapped in for a birdie. Goldman three-putted the green, which he was on in two, or he would have gone three under for the round.

Goldman returned the favor on the ninth hole, putting his tee shot on the 185-yard hole three feet from the pin and dropping his putt for a birdie. The win enabled him to go into the back nine with a two-hole edge on Person, winner of the national senior amateur championship last year.

Goldman upped that lead to three holes on the tenth when Person took his second bogey of the round. The lead was upped to four on the twelfth hole when Person took another bogye. It was the biggest lead of the match for Goldman, who never trailed his opponenet.

The big lead turned out to be necessary for Goldman. Person got his game together late and staged somewhat of a charge. It turned out to be just not enough.

Person missed yet another chance to gain on Goldman on the 15th when he three-putted his first green of the tournament. It was a bad time to three-putt. Goldman took his first bogey of the entire round on the hole, but Person also shot bogey.

Person was dormie from that hole on, but kept the match alive with a birdie on the 150-yard 16th. He put his tee shot four feet from the cup and rammed the putt in.

Both golfers had trouble on the 17th, but when Person missed a putt for a par and Goldman had two putts from ten feet away for bogey, it was all over.

GREAT RECOVERY SHOT — David "Spec" Goldman of Dallas, Tex., hit this shot from beneath a tree and on a hard surface on the 14th hole of Friday's final match in the World Seniors Golf Tournament at the Broadmoor Golf Club. Goldman put the shot six feet from the hole and sank the putt to salvage a par on the hole. He defeated Curtis Person of Memphis, Tenn., 2 and 1 for his second straight title in the meet.

Vista Grande Ousted From Legion Series

Oklahoma Tops Local Crew In Loser's Bracket Battle

BY BOB LUDWIG

HASTINGS, Neb. — The long grind, the grueling hours of competition, and the turmoil of a 2½ week road tour ended abruptly for Colorado's representative in the American Legion World Series Friday morning when Barlesville, Okla., blanked Vista Grande in the second round of the eight-team tourney 4-0.

For Coach Bob Gill's diamond crew, composed of players from Mitchell High School, the defeat was a hard pill to swallow as the Flyer's earned the distinction of being the first contingent to be erased from the meet.

But lowered heads need not be the scene around the Mitchell locker room as the crew finished their 1969 campaign as one of the top eight teams in the nation. Quite an honor, considering that there are over 10,000 teams in the country with over 150,000 participants.

The Mitchell nine gave a good account of themsevles during their two contests in the tourney but fate dictated the Flyer's early elimination from the beginning of the meet.

By chance alone, the Flyer's were paired against two of the top three teams in the tourney and that's a lot of pressure for any club.

Mitchell faced highly touted West Palm Beach, Fla., on opening day. The contest was the most exciting affair of the tourney thus far but a misjudged grounder in the eighth inning sent the Flyers to the loser's bracket as the Florida crew took the tilt 2-1.

Friday's opponent, Bartlesville, dropped into the loser's division after losing to favored Portland, Ore., 4-1 on Thursday. The Oklahoma nine's loss on opening day was its first in tourney play. It was attributed to the fact that its number one pitcher, Ron Chissoe, was unable to play due to eligibility regulations.

But Chissoe was able to take the field on Friday and his pitching performance closed the door on any threat the Mitchell nine could muster.

The hard throwing left-hander utilized a combination of breaking curves and fast balls in registering 14 strike-outs during the nine-inning contest. He allowed the Flyers only three scattered hits while walking a like amount.

Mitchell's lone extra base connection off the mound ace was a double by Don Struck in the seventh, but Chissoe let Struck die at second when he fanned the next two batters.

Bartlesville beat the Flyers at their own game, the patented explosion in the first inning.

The Oklahoma crew tallied three markers in the initial frame and added another in the sixth while holding the Mitchell nine at bay during the contest.

Lead-off batter Don Shelton ignited the barrage in the first with a single down the left-field line. He moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Mike Yount, his first of two during the day, and rounded the base paths when Bill Berryhill ripped a one-bagger up the middle.

Berryhill advanced to second when Roger Teat drew a base on balls. Both runners scampered home when center fielder Don Thornberry smashed his first of two doubles in the affair.

Mitchell starter Ray Zaremba, who suffered the loss, squelched the Oklahoma attack for the next four innings, striking out the side in the fourth.

Thn the sixth inning saw Bartlesville garner its last marker of the contest with Thorberry getting credit for the run.

With one out, Thornberry ripped his second two-bagger of the day into center field bringing Art Martindale to the plate. The first baseman tapped Zaremba's pitch to second baseman Jim Bowles. The keystone replacement booted the grounder and while attempting to retrieve it Thornberry crossed the plate to set the score at 4-0.

The loss set Zaremba's season record 11-4. Duringhis six innings on the mound, the right-hander was tapped for five hits, three of which were doubles. Three of the four Oklahoma tallies score off of Zaremba were of the earned variety. He struck out seven opposing batters and walked three.

Mitchell Team Not Used to Pressures

HASTINGS, Neb.—Baseball teams, and athletic groups in general, are formed for one purpose, winning.

Yes, winning. Not for the humanitarian ideals of building character and sportsmanship, though these are definitely a by-product of winning.

For in this country and throughout the world, winning and all its aspects, both in school, business and athletics is the ultimate goal of all participants.

Sure, it's nice to be a good loser, but it's easier to be the victor.

But in any winning organization there is usally a period in its early growth when a setback, such as Mitchell's loss in the 1969 American Legion World Series, has to be overcome.

With the Vista Grande team, it must review the reason for its performance in the tournament and build on these a winning formula for next season.

In looking back over the last two defeats, it is evident that the Flyer's had not experienced the mental pressures of a tournament of this magnitude.

The Mitchell nine entered the meet as the youngest of the eight teams. They had played almost 20 less games than the other clubs and had been in tourney competition for only two weeks.

The other teams in the meet had all been in at least two tournaments during the summer and were used to the strain of playing four or more tilts in a short period of time.

But the other clubs will lose most of their seasoned players next year as they will be over the 17-year-old age limit.

Not so for Vista Grande, the club will lose only four members of its Colorado and Region Seven championship contingent.

While these players, Ron Haines, Lynn Harnly, Stu McPherson and Don Struck, have been mainstays on the team, the other members of the club have gained experience in the world of pressure play.

Coach Bob Gill will welcome back such standouts as Catcher Mike England, who led the team in hitting in '69; Ace Righthander Ray Zaremba, who led the club in home runs; Second Baseman Steve Weatherly, Third Baseman Paul Krug, Shortstop Jim Ulrich, Center Fielder Paul Williams, Utility Player Jim Bowles, Outfielder Mark Magnuson, Hitter Marty Nolan, Pitcher Doug Harnly, Rookie Hurler Dave Krause, and Utility Player Cliff Koehler.

Combine these seasoned plyers with the Mitchell Legion B crew, who made it to the state tourney's third round this summer, and the prospects of returning to the national tournament in 1970 look promising for the Colorado Springs team.

With cries of "We'll be back next year," the Mitchell nine left Hastings, Neb., but this year's setback has given more to next season's outlook than winning could have ever done.

Kelly, Sayers, O.J. Set For Saturday's Grid Play

Leroy Kelly, Gales Sayers and O.J. Simpson, three of pro football's most spectacular running backs, all will be on display Saturday night in an exhibition doubleheader in Cleveland.

A capacity crowd of 84,000 in the Cleveland Stadium will watch Sayers and the Chicago Bears, 2-2, of the National Football League, take on Simpson, the heralded rookie, and the Buffalo Bills, 1-3, of the American Football League, in the first game.

Then, Kelly, the NFL's rushing king for the last two years, and the unbeated Browns, 2-0-1, will tangle with the Green Bay Packers, 1-2, in an all-NFL contest.

O.S., the All-American from Southern California, still has to prove himself in the money ranks although he's rated a cinch to make it big.

Simpson, 21, incidentally is the biggest of the trio at 6-2 and 204 pounds. Sayers, 26, is 6-0 and 198 and Kelly, 27, is 6-0 and 200.

The doubleheader and a Saturday night Matchup of Joe Namath's Super Bowl champion New York Jets, 2-2, of the AFL, and the rugged Minnesota Vikings, 3-0, at Winston-Salem, N.C., features the weekend's exhibition program.

It should be interesting to see how Namath's protectors will fare against the Vikings' fearsome Front Four of ends Jim Marshall and Carl Eller and tackles Alan Page and Gary Larsen, undoubtedly eager to dump the gimpy-legged quarterback superstar.

The weekend card of nine Saturday games and two Sunday afternoon contests closes out a full schedule for the 26 major pro teams.

All of the Saturday games are at night with the exception of the afternoon clash in Princeton, N.J., between the New York Giants, 0-2, and the Philadelphia Eagles, 1-1, of the NFL.

The rest of the schedule includes:

Saturday

Washington, NFL, 2-1, vs. Detroit, NFL, 2-1, at Tampa, Fla., in a nationally televized game, CBS, 6:30 p.m. EDT.

Los Angeles, NFL, 1-2, at San Diego, AFL, 2-1-1.

Baltimore, NFL, 4-0, at Miami, AFL, 0-4.

Atlanta, NFL, 2-1, at New Orleans, NFL, 1-2.

Cincinnati, AFL, 1-2, at Pittsburgh, NFL, 1-1.

Sunday

San Francisco, NFL, 0-3, at Oakland, AFL, 1-3.

Denver, AFL, 1-2, vs Boston, AFL, 1-2, at Jacksonville, Fla.

The NFL started the long weekend program with a 13-7-1 edge over the AFL.

The NFL beat Houston, of the AFL, 14-11 for the championship of Texas.

On Friday night, Kansas City, AFL, 4-0, tacIked St. Louis, NFL, 2-1, for the championship of Missouri.

But on Sept. 14 the AFL starts playing for real with the NFL due to follow on Sept. 21.

A crowd of more than 84,000 is expected to jam Municipal Stadium Saturday night to see some preseason skirmishing by four teams participating in the eighth annual pro football doubleheader.

Cleveland fans will be getting their first look at the 1969 edition of the Cleveland Browns, led by quarterback Bill Nelsen and Leroy Kelly, who was the National Football League's top rusher last year.

They'll also get to see the Chicago Bears' fine runner, Gale Sayers, and O.J. Simpson, the Buffalo Bills' highly touted rookie.

Warriors Ink Rick Barry To Cage Pact

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Franklin Mieuli, owner of the San Francisco Warriors, said Friday that Rick Barry has agreed to a five-year contract and will leave the Oakland Oaks —now the Washington Caps—to rejoin the Warriors.

Run-scoring singles by Sandy Alomar and Jay Johnstone made it 4-1 in the seventh as California chased loser Dave McNally, 17-5. The angels got two more in the ninth on Jim Fregosi's bases-loaded single.

Winner Andy Messersmith, 13-8, allowed an unearned run in the first without a hit and Baltimore scored again in the eighth. Both runs ere driven in by Frank Robinson.

The announcement by Mieuli, with Barry standing at his side, came at the law offices of Loeb and Loeb in Los Angeles, following a closed session that lasted more than three hours.

Present were the Warrior owner, Barry and Barry's attorney, a member of the firm, Robert Ruben.

"I'm happy to be back with the Warriors or else I wouldn't have agreed to the terms," Barry said. Based on the fact that the Oaks are going back to Washington, D.C., I don't feel compelled to go with them.

"I feel I must do what is best for my family and myself."

The owner of the National Basketball Association club was asked to discuss salary terms, and answered, "We don't usually go into salary matters. All I can say is that Rick is an excellent player and is receiving an excellent salary."

Barry jumped from the Warriors to Oakland two years ago but had to sit out a season by court order.

GREAT RECOVERY SHOT — David "Spec" Goldman of Dallas, Tex., hit this shot from beneath a tree and on a hard surface on the 14th hole of Friday's final match in the World Seniors Golf Tournament at the Broadmoor Golf Club. Goldman put the shot six feet from the hole and sank the putt to salvage a par on the hole. He defeated Curtis Person of Memphis, Tenn., 2 and 1 for his second straight title in the meet. ## Chicago Bulls Name New GM

CHICAGO (AP) —Pat Williams, 29, business manager of the Philadelphia 76ers, Friday was named general manager of the struggling Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association.

Williams, a former minor league baseball catcher, got a two-year contract as successor to Dick Klein, general manager and president, who resigned after a disagreement over policy with the club's board of directors.

Golf Trick Shot Paul Hahan to Appear Sunday

Golf trick shot artist Paul Hahn will appear Sunday at 3 p.m. at Mountain View Golf Center.

Hahn, from Hialeah, Fla., uses unorthodox clubs and stances, but consistently hits the ball 240-260 yards.

Grid Star Perishes In Mishap

CASTLEWOOD, Va. (AP) — One young football player was reported dead and at least 15 injured after a goal post the Castlewood High School grid team was erecting came in contact with a power line Friday.

Authorities indicated one youth, who was not immediately identified, was dead on arrival at a Lebanon hospital, five others were reportedly admitted to for minor injuries.

Reports from the tiny Russell County community were incomplete, but indicated the team had been constructing a metal goalpost for its football field during a practice when the post touched a high power line running along the edge of the field.

Yanks Win in Polish Track

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Kathy Hammon of Sacramento, Calif., won two events at an international track Friday night, taking the women's 200-meter dash in 23.6 seconds and the 400-meter run in :52.1 although the temperature dropped to 41 degrees.

Ben Vaughn of Georgia Tech, also won two events with a :10.4 clocking in the 100 meters and :20.9 in the 200.

The cold weather thwarted the effort of Bill Toomey of Laguna Beach, Calif., to surpass the world record in the decathlon although he won the event.

Beech Workers End Walkout

Beacon Hill Raceway will hold its mid-season stock car championships Sunday at 7 p.m., and its championship midget races Monday at 7 p.m.

The track is located seven miles north of Pueblo on Interstate 25 at the Bragdon Interchange.

E. German Sets Swimming Mark

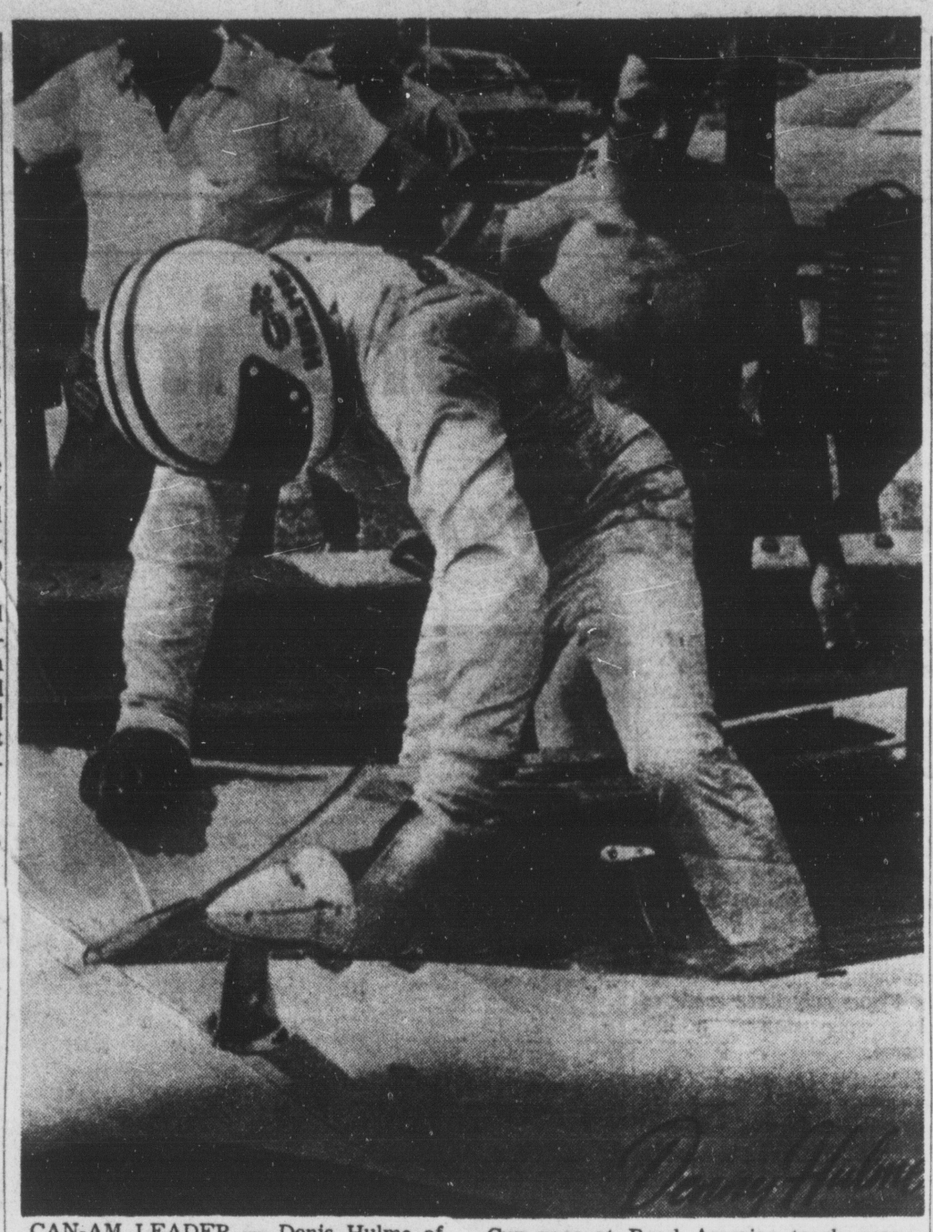
BERLIN (AP) — Roland Matthes of East Germany set a world record in the 200-meter backstroke Friday with a clocking of 2 minutes, 6.4 seconds.

Swimming in the East German championships, the 18-year-old schoolboy bested by two-tenths of a second the previous world record held by Gary Hall of Garden Grove, Calif.



CAN-AM LEADER — Denis Hulme of New Zealand looks like a spaceman as he prepares for today's practice sessions for the Canadian-American Challenge Cup race at Road America track near Elkhart Lake, Wis. Hulme will be trying for his fourth victory in the Can-Am series in today's 200-miler.

Hulme-McLaren Team Take Massive Can-Am Race Lead

ELKHART LAKE, Wis. (AP) — The New Zealand team of Denis Hulme and Bruce McLaren carry a massive point lead into the second half of the $1 million Canadian-American road racing series opening at Elkhart Lake Sunday.

Hulme, the reigning Can-Am champion, is the individual leader in the point battle for the $100,000 in cash that goes with it at the end of the season.

Under Can-Am rules, drivers are allowed to count only the best four finishes out of the first five races. The same rules apply in the remaining five events.

The 34-year-old Hulme, former world driving champion, won three of the five races and has 75 points to 70 for McLaren, who builds the cars he and Hulme drive. McLaren won two events, but also came in second in two other starts.

Third in the point standings is Chris Amon, the New Zealander whose Ferrari 612 did not join the series until the third race, the one at Watkins Glen, N.Y. Since then he has compiled one second and two third-place finishes for 39 points.

In fourth place at the halfway point is George Eaton of Canada. The McLaren Mark 12-Chevrole' driver has 32 points, while John Surtees of England ranks fifth with 30.

Valley Hi-Jinx Golf Ends Today

Valley Hi Country Club kicked off its 6th annual member-guest Hi Jinx gold tournament Friday with more than 100 golfers entered in the two-day meet.

Play ends today with the final 18-holes slated to begin at 9 a.m. with a shotgun start.

The total score of both team members less their total combined handicap is the format of play.

One of the featured guests in the tourney is Lawrence Welk of Television fame. Welk is playing with Bill Breck. Welk and his partner failed to place among the leaders after the first round.

The duo of Rick Carlin and his guest Gary Graham, along with the team of Bud Wilhelm and Abbie Costello tied for the lead after the first 18-holes with identical 132 totals.

Second place was held by Bill Mitchell and R. V. Travis, (135) while Dock Robinette and his guest Harold Ried (137) followed in third.

Rex Wade and Buddy Wells fired a combined 138 to finish fourth after the first round, just ahead of Dick Webster and Rod Kollman in fifth.

Two teams were tied for sixth with matching 140 scores.

The low net individual score went to Gary Graham with a 64, followed by Bud Wilhelm, Abbie Costello and Rod Kollman with 66s.

Chicago Bulls Name New GM

CHICAGO (AP) —Pat Williams, 29, business manager of the Philadelphia 76ers, Friday was named general manager of the struggling Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association.

Williams, a former minor league baseball catcher, got a two-year contract as successor to Dick Klein, general manager and president, who resigned after a disagreement over policy with the club's board of directors.

Golf Trick Shot Paul Hahan to Appear Sunday

Golf trick shot artist Paul Hahn will appear Sunday at 3 p.m. at Mountain View Golf Center.

Hahn, from Hialeah, Fla., uses unorthodox clubs and stances, but consistently hits the ball 240-260 yards.

Grid Star Perishes In Mishap

CASTLEWOOD, Va. (AP) — One young football player was reported dead and at least 15 injured after a goal post the Castlewood High School grid team was erecting came in contact with a power line Friday.

Authorities indicated one youth, who was not immediately identified, was dead on arrival at a Lebanon hospital, five others were reportedly admitted to for minor injuries.

Reports from the tiny Russell County community were incomplete, but indicated the team had been constructing a metal goalpost for its football field during a practice when the post touched a high power line running along the edge of the field.

Yanks Win in Polish Track

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Kathy Hammon of Sacramento, Calif., won two events at an international track Friday night, taking the women's 200-meter dash in 23.6 seconds and the 400-meter run in :52.1 although the temperature dropped to 41 degrees.

Ben Vaughn of Georgia Tech, also won two events with a :10.4 clocking in the 100 meters and :20.9 in the 200.

The cold weather thwarted the effort of Bill Toomey of Laguna Beach, Calif., to surpass the world record in the decathlon although he won the event.

Beech Workers End Walkout

Beacon Hill Raceway will hold its mid-season stock car championships Sunday at 7 p.m., and its championship midget races Monday at 7 p.m.

The track is located seven miles north of Pueblo on Interstate 25 at the Bragdon Interchange.

E. German Sets Swimming Mark

BERLIN (AP) — Roland Matthes of East Germany set a world record in the 200-meter backstroke Friday with a clocking of 2 minutes, 6.4 seconds.

Swimming in the East German championships, the 18-year-old schoolboy bested by two-tenths of a second the previous world record held by Gary Hall of Garden Grove, Calif.

Hulme-McLaren Team Take Massive Can-Am Race Lead

ELKHART LAKE, Wis. (AP) — The New Zealand team of Denis Hulme and Bruce McLaren carry a massive point lead into the second half of the $1 million Canadian-American road racing series opening at Elkhart Lake Sunday.

Hulme, the reigning Can-Am champion, is the individual leader in the point battle for the $100,000 in cash that goes with it at the end of the season.

Under Can-Am rules, drivers are allowed to count only the best four finishes out of the first five races. The same rules apply in the remaining five events.

The 34-year-old Hulme, former world driving champion, won three of the five races and has 75 points to 70 for McLaren, who builds the cars he and Hulme drive. McLaren won two events, but also came in second in two other starts.

Third in the point standings is Chris Amon, the New Zealander whose Ferrari 612 did not join the series until the third race, the one at Watkins Glen, N.Y. Since then he has compiled one second and two third-place finishes for 39 points.

In fourth place at the halfway point is George Eaton of Canada. The McLaren Mark 12-Chevrole' driver has 32 points, while John Surtees of England ranks fifth with 30.

Valley Hi-Jinx Golf Ends Today

Valley Hi Country Club kicked off its 6th annual member-guest Hi Jinx gold tournament Friday with more than 100 golfers entered in the two-day meet.

Play ends today with the final 18-holes slated to begin at 9 a.m. with a shotgun start.

The total score of both team members less their total combined handicap is the format of play.

One of the featured guests in the tourney is Lawrence Welk of Television fame. Welk is playing with Bill Breck. Welk and his partner failed to place among the leaders after the first round.

The duo of Rick Carlin and his guest Gary Graham, along with the team of Bud Wilhelm and Abbie Costello tied for the lead after the first 18-holes with identical 132 totals.

Second place was held by Bill Mitchell and R. V. Travis, (135) while Dock Robinette and his guest Harold Ried (137) followed in third.

Rex Wade and Buddy Wells fired a combined 138 to finish fourth after the first round, just ahead of Dick Webster and Rod Kollman in fifth.

Two teams were tied for sixth with matching 140 scores.

The low net individual score went to Gary Graham with a 64, followed by Bud Wilhelm, Abbie Costello and Rod Kollman with 66s.

Buff Gridders End Workout Due to Heat

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — University of Colorado football coach Eddie Crowder ended practice Friday for his Golden Buffalos 30 minutes earlier than scheduled due to heat in the mid-90s.

During the practice, the Buffs prepared for their first scrimmage which will be Saturday. The coaching staff has announced the scrimmage will be closed to the public.

During the practice, linebacker Eddie Cox, a nonletterman from Liberal, Kan., broke a thumb.

The Buffs, who have been somewhat injury plagued so far, announced linebacker Rick Ogle who suffered a pulled hamstring muscle earlier in the week, will be back on the field Saturday. Senior slotback Monte Huber is expected to be able to re-join the team Monday. He suffered a slight hip injury earlier.

The Buffs also announced right tackle Bill Collins, of Houston, Tex., will not have to undergo surgery for removal of a wire plaked in his shoulder as was earlier believed.

Aaron Looking Back — He's Gaining Fast

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Never look back," says Satchel Paige, "something or somebody may be gaining on you."

It's a problem Hank Aaron doesn't have. He can peek back all he wants because the only guy doing any gaining is Henry himself.

The Atlanta slugger unloaded two more home runs Thursday night, including the 12th grand slam of his career, leading the Braves to an 8-2 romp over Pittsburgh. The two homers gave him 36 this year and 546 for his career—third on the all-time list behind Babe Ruth's 714 and Willie Mays' 598.

Aaron has gained 25 homers on Mays this season. Willie started the year 77 ahead of Henry, 587 to 510 but now the margin is down to 52.

Aaron is 545 homers ahead of Steve Huntz, St. Louis' rookie infielder, who hit his first major league homer in the 10th inning to give the Cardinals a 2-1 decision over Houston.

In other National League games Thursday, San Francisco edged Philadelphia 4 3, Chicago dropped Cincinnati 3-1 and Montreal ripped Los Angeles 9-5. New York and San Diego were off.

U.S. Netters Fall in Tennis Play

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Ile Nastase, 23-year-old onetime Romanian shepherd-boy, upset America's national champion, Stan Smith, Friday as disaster from all directions poured down on Uncle Sam's Davis Cup team in the U.S., Open tennis championships.

In the first confrontation between the two teams who will battle for the Cup next month in Cleveland, the slender, dark-haired stylist from behind the iron curtain cut down the towering Smith with flashy, brilliant tennis 5-7, 12-10, 7-5, 6-3.

The crowd of 10,000 at West Side Stadium was astounded at Nastase's remarkable performance on a grass surface with which he is not familiar.

Smith's defeat was just part of the ill fortune that befell the American Cup squad.

Clark Graebner, who shared the singles assignments with Arthur Ashe, Jr., in winning back the Cup from Australia last December, sprained his right ankle going for a lob in his match against Britain's Roger Taylor and had to default.

Although Dr. Dan Manfredi, who treated the ankle on the spot, said it was a minor sprani and Graebner may be all right in a few days, there was doubt that he could be made fitforthe spot, said it was a minor sprain and Graebner may be all right in a few days, there was doubt that he could be made fit for the match against the dark-horse Romanians.

The challenge round matches are scheduled in Cleveland Sept. 19-21.

Another player who might be expected to be thrown into the breach, Charlie Pasarell of Puerto Rico, was knocked out of the competition in straight sets by a big, bearded Australian named Terry Addison 6-3, 9-7, 6-4.

Addison is ranked seventh in Australia, and it is a token ranking. He doesn't play much. He is a tennis gypsy, traveling the world.

Pancho Gonzales, the 41-year-old onetime king of the courts, kept the crowd glued to their seats as he beat young Ray Ruffels of Australia's Davis Cup team 6-2, 3-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4.

Pancho was the crafty master in joining fellow contract pros—Andres Gimeno, John Newcombe, Marty Riessen and Tony Roche in the third round.

Donald Dell, the U.S. Davis Cup captain, and his No. 1 ace, Arthur Ashe, watched the Smith-Nastase match from the marquee and both were impressed by the young Romanian's poise, speed and skills.

"He's very good on grass—he played splendidly," Dell said. "I think the Romanians would be very tough at Cleveland."

Smith, a strapping 6-foot-4 athlete from Southern California, figured to be America's top singles hope in the Challenge round. Although ranked third nationally behind Ashe and Graebner, he has had the best season of the three of them, winning the U.S. championship a week ago in Brookline, Mass.

Graebner's injury was a tragic one.

Playing on the grandstand court, he was leading Taylor, a contract pro, 4-3 in the opening set of their second round match when he went back for a lob.

He lost his footing and fell to the ground, somersaulting. He came up in pain.

His right ankle was taped on the spot and he was given two sedatives when he insisted on continuing. However, with the score 4-6, 6-1, 2-0 in favor of Taylor, he tossed his racket to the sideline and defaulted.

"What luck, said Graebner. "I was playing so well."

Besides the Davis Cup, there is the consideration of a $16,000 first prize in this $137,000 tournament.

"This is a triple disaster for us—but only at Forest Hills," Dell said. "Maybe it will be a good thing in that our team won't go into Cleveland overconfident. This match shows these guys can be really tough."

Margaret Court of Australia and Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., the women's favorites, paced the advance into the third round for the ladies.

Mrs. Court continued her devastating play by crushing Betty Ann Grubb of Santa Monica, Calif., 6-1, 6-0. Mrs. King, coming back from a year-old knee operation, ousted 20-year-old Marilyn Ashner of Holliswood, N.Y., 6-3, 6-4.

"I don't seem to concentrate any more—I make too many stupid shots. I don't play pattern tennis as I used to," said Mrs. King.

Osmanski, Luckman Nab NFL All-1940 Star Spot

NEW YORK (AP) — On the second play from scrimmage in the Chicago-Washington National Football League championship game of 1940 Bear running back Bill Osmanski took a handoff from quarterback Sid Luckman and raced 68 yards for the touchdown.

It was only the beginning. Before it was over, the Bears had put 73 points on the scoreboard, shut out the Redskins—and established the unequalled proficiency of the T-formation. The single wing, double wing, A formation were out.

Luckman, Sammy Baugh and Bob Waterfield, the three leading quarterback and exponents of the T-formation as team after team put in the system, have been honored for their contributions by being selected to an All-NFL 1940s team.

The team helps commemorate the 50th anniversary season of the NFL, which in conjunction with Simon and Schuster Inc., is publishing a book called "The First Fifty Years." Featured in the book are five all-star teams, one for each decade in NFL history, and leading up to the selection of an Alltime NFL team.

Luckman, Baugh and Waterfield, who among them accounted for 48,462 yards in the air and 424 touchdowns, share honors on the 33-man All-1940s squad with seven other players already inducted into the Hall of Fame.

They include backs Bill Dudley, George McAfee, Marion Motley, Charles Trippi and Steve Van Buren and two centers — Clyde "Bulldog" Turner and Alex Wojciechowicz.

Chiefs Remain Undefeated In 31-21 Win Over Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Defensive back Jim kearney scurried 18 yards with an interception and set up a touchdown that brought the Kansas City Chiefs from behind and ignited them to a 31-21 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in an exhibition football game Friday night.

The National Football League Cardinals, now 2-2 in exhibition play, had slim 7-6 lead early in the second period. Quarterback Charley Johnson fired a pass toward John Gilliam but Kearney stepped in, caught the ball on the Cardinals 31 and weaved his way to the 13.

wendell Hayes ran for 11 and Mike Garrett cracked over from the one to put the American League Chiefs ahead for good.

The Criefs, only undefeated AFL team, had it pretty much their way as the muggy night wore on. They got 21-7 lead early in the third quarter on Len Dawson's passing and Garrett's running.

Dawson moved the Chiefs 63 yards in 10 plays with Gloster Richardson pulling in a 15-yard toss for the score. The Chiefs' quarterback added insult to injury by hitting Hayes on the two-point conversion.

Jan Stenerud added three points on a 42-yard field goal late in the third period.

Gilliam pulled the Cardinals to 24-14 with a 49-yard touchdown catch from reserve quarterback Ed Roseborough early in the final quarter.

The Chiefs scored an insurance touchdown with less than six minutes to go when Dawson hit Jerrel Wilson with a 13-yard pass from a fake field goal formation. Rookie running back Ed Podolak set up the score with a 51-yard kickoff return.

St. Louis came back on another scoring drive engineered by Roseborough. Big yardage came on a 21-yard pass to Roy Shivers, who ran 16 on the next play to score.

Three Share First Round Lead in Hartford Tourney

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — J.C. Snead, a nephew of the famed Slamming Sam, charged through the gathering dusk to a five-under-par 66 Friday and tied Bob Murphy and Joel Goldstrand for the first round lead in the $100,000 Greater Hartford Open Golf Tournament.

They were etc. 2nd graf previous sb58.

Snead, a drawling 27-year-old made his round coming home. He was one under at the turn, then rammed in a 25-foot putt on the 10th, holed another from 14 feet on the 12th, and put irons within three feet at 13 and 15.

They were far from secure in the lead however, with a host of players giving par a terrible beating on the 6,568-yard par-71 Wethersfield Country Club course, one of the shortest layouts on the tour.

Bob Lunn, who made a run at the Avco classic last week before fading back to ninth, led a group of eight at 67. The others included Phil Rodgers, Bob Smith, Roy Pace, hard-hitting Martin Roesink of Holland, Hal Underwood, R.H. Sikes and Jerry Abbott.

More than a dozen followed at 68, including lean Davy Hill, Australian Bobby Staton, lefty Bob Charles of New Zealand and always dangerous Jack Nicklaus.

The group at 70 included Lee Trevino and defending champion Billy Casper, who complained of being "dead tired."

PGA champ Ray Floyd, went to a 72, far back in the field and Masters title - holder George Archer had a 71.

Murphy, a roly poly product of Florida who won both the US amateur and national collegiate championships before turning pro, has been in a slump since his clubs were stolen from his station wagon in Philadelphia six weeks ago.

Using a putter a friend sent from Mulberry, Fla., Murphy put together his best round in weeks.

He reached the par-five second in two big blows and two-putted for a birdie, rammed in a 20-footer on the fifth for another and wedged to within six inches for still another on the sixth.

Melnyk Clings To Amateur Lead

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steve Melynk, 235-pound University of Florida golfer, scrambled to a two-over-par 34-39-73 with three bogeys and a double bogey on the back nine, but maintained his three-stroke lead after 54 holes Friday in the 69th annual U.S. Amateur Golf Championship.

AMATEUR GOLF ON TV
The U.S. Amateur Golf final round will be seen today on KRDO, Channel 13 at 1:30 p.m.

The 21-year-old Melnyk appeared ready to run away from the field after a two-under-par front nine sent him six strokes ahead, but he faltered coming home, at one point slipping to a one stroke advantage. For the second straight day, he birdied the 18th to pad his margin.

Allen Miller, the University of Georgia insurance major disadvantaged when his putter was stolen overnight, is right where he started the day, three strokes back, at 219 after a 37-36-73.

Miller had company, however, as Marvin (Vinnie) Giles, runnerup in this tournament the past two years, shot a 36-36-72 to tie for second place. Miller and Giles were six strokes over par for 54 holes, while Melnyk was three strokes over regulation for the 36-35-71 Oakmont Country Club course.

Another two strokes back is Tommy Watson, of Shawnee Mission, Kans., who fired a 36-36-72 Friday for a 221. Grouped at 223 are Dick Siderowf, U.S. Walker Cup member from Westport, Conn., 36-35-71, John Farquhar of Amarillo, Tex., 36-40-76, and Bruce Ashworth of Las Vegas, Nev., 39-37-76.

A disappointed Melnyk said that when he made the turn Friday leading by six strokes, "I felt like I had the tournament won. That's why I played so badly the next five holes. I relaxed and that's what you can't do on this course."

The husky 6-foot-1 Melnyk, an industrial management major at Florida, said he looked at the scoreboard "and I just cakewalked. I'm real disappointed."

Miller refused to use his hay fever or the stolen putter as an alibi. He said he took nose drops Thursday night.

Rifemeir Bids for Third Straight Win at RMKC

Frank Hall's Rifemeir tries to keep his 1969 record clean at Rocky Mountain Kennel Club Saturday night when he bids for his third straight official win in the featured ninth race.

Rifemeir, who finished in the money 17 times in 19 outings at RMKC last year, is off to a flying start this season. After going unbeaten in three pre-season schooling races, Rifemeir kicked off the meeting last Saturday with a win in the opening night Inaugural feature.

Rifemeir came back again on Wednesday to take the midweek headliner. Both official victories were by four lengths.

Main competition for Rifemeir is expected to come from kennelmate Second Fire and G. A. Adlerson's Crack Ruler. At Denver's Mile High Kennel Club last summer, Second Fire won the $17,500 Timberline Stake and Crack Ruler captured the Derby finals.

Other entries in the 1710-foot Peak Course run are Babe's Laddie, Gallant Cain, Twister D, The Grand Champ and Quick King.

Quick King, owned by Ernest Fromm, also figures strongly. He had nine firsts and five seconds in 21 trips at Denver.

The second and eighth events Saturday also send top grade sprinters over the Peak strip. The seventh matches a mixture of Grade A and BB distance runners over the 2080-foot Springs Course.

Post time for the first of 11 races is 8:05 p.m.

No More High Flying Sox

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Prohibition is just a name from the past for members of the Boston Red Sox, but it's suddenly striking home.

The edict is out: no more booze on flights between cities. And that goes for players, Manager Dick Williams, the coaches, writers and anyone else traveling on the Red Sox' charter plane.

General Manager Dick O'Connell, a social drinker himself, cracked down Thursday, directing "airlines not to serve hard liquor" to any personnel on Red Sox' chartered flights.

The Red Sox declined to expand on O'Connell's memo posted in the clubhouse and later distributed through copies for traveling baseball writers.

However, players privately criticized stewardesses on United Airlines, which accomodates the Red Sox charters. Most of the Boston players are married and were harsh in attacks, verbally, on some hostesses.

The Associated Press learned that the club's hard liquor ban resulted from an incident aboard a United Airlines flight from San Francisco Aug. 4 after the Red Sox ended a road trip with a lengthy doubleheader at Oakland.

A stewardess allegedly was insulted by a couple of players during the flight to Boston. She reportedly complained to superiors, who relayed the information to O'Connell.

Williams, seated in front with his young daughter, did not receive any complaint. Traveling secretary Jack Rogers says no one complained to him. The team coaches also did not hear of any complaint. Nor did any of the Boston writers.

The stewardess, not identified, may have complained to the pilot, captain of the plane. However, none of the Red Sox personnel aboard have any such knowledge.

"There were several complaints and they were taken up with the Red Sox management," a United Airlines spokesman said in New York when asked to comment on O'Connell's memo. "It is their own idea of banning liquor. Beer is still being served."

Williams, noted as a hard-nosed manager, is married to a former stewardess. Jim Lonborg, the 1967 American League Cy Young Award winner as the No. 1 pitcher, is engaged to a United stewardess. Lonborg is also the club's player representative.

O'Connell's memo posted in the clubhouse and directed to writers and all other traveling personnel as well as players, said, "We expect each individual to abide by this rule." Ironically, the team's charter to Minneapolis was delayed a couple of hours Thursday evening.

O'Connell said in the memo that drinking has "caused serious instances aboard planes, especially with crew personnel."

Jim Chestney received a record $4,650 for winning the 1969 Masters.

U.S. Netters Fall in Tennis Play

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Ile Nastase, 23-year-old onetime Romanian shepherd-boy, upset America's national champion, Stan Smith, Friday as disaster from all directions poured down on Uncle Sam's Davis Cup team in the U.S., Open tennis championships.

In the first confrontation between the two teams who will battle for the Cup next month in Cleveland, the slender, dark-haired stylist from behind the iron curtain cut down the towering Smith with flashy, brilliant tennis 5-7, 12-10, 7-5, 6-3.

The crowd of 10,000 at West Side Stadium was astounded at Nastase's remarkable performance on a grass surface with which he is not familiar.

Smith's defeat was just part of the ill fortune that befell the American Cup squad.

Clark Graebner, who shared the singles assignments with Arthur Ashe, Jr., in winning back the Cup from Australia last December, sprained his right ankle going for a lob in his match against Britain's Roger Taylor and had to default.

Although Dr. Dan Manfredi, who treated the ankle on the spot, said it was a minor sprani and Graebner may be all right in a few days, there was doubt that he could be made fitforthe spot, said it was a minor sprain and Graebner may be all right in a few days, there was doubt that he could be made fit for the match against the dark-horse Romanians.

The challenge round matches are scheduled in Cleveland Sept. 19-21.

Another player who might be expected to be thrown into the breach, Charlie Pasarell of Puerto Rico, was knocked out of the competition in straight sets by a big, bearded Australian named Terry Addison 6-3, 9-7, 6-4.

Addison is ranked seventh in Australia, and it is a token ranking. He doesn't play much. He is a tennis gypsy, traveling the world.

Pancho Gonzales, the 41-year-old onetime king of the courts, kept the crowd glued to their seats as he beat young Ray Ruffels of Australia's Davis Cup team 6-2, 3-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-4.

Pancho was the crafty master in joining fellow contract pros —Andres Gimeno, John Newcombe, Marty Riessen and Tony Roche in the third round.

Donald Dell, the U.S. Davis Cup captain, and his No. 1 ace, Arthur Ashe, watched the Smith-Nastase match from the marquee and both were impressed by the young Romanian's poise, speed and skills.

"He's very good on grass—he played splendidly," Dell said. "I think the Romanians would be very tough at Cleveland."

Smith, a strapping 6-foot-4 athlete from Southern California, figured to be America's top singles hope in the Challenge round. Although ranked third nationally behind Ashe and Graebner, he has had the best season of the three of them, winning the U.S. championship a week ago in Brookline, Mass.

Graebner's injury was a tragic one.

Playing on the grandstand court, he was leading Taylor, a contract pro, 4-3 in the opening set of their second round match when he went back for a lob.

He lost his footing and fell to the ground, somersaulting. He came up in pain.

His right ankle was taped on the spot and he was given two sedatives when he insisted on continuing. However, with the score 4-6, 6-1, 2-0 in favor of Taylor, he tossed his racket to the sideline and defaulted.

"What luck, said Graebner. "I was playing so well."

Besides the Davis Cup, there is the consideration of a $16,000 first prize in this $137,000 tournament.

"This is a triple disaster for us—but only at Forest Hills," Dell said. "Maybe it will be a good thing in that our team won't go into Cleveland overconfident. This match shows these guys can be really tough."

Margaret Court of Australia and Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., the women's favorites, paced the advance into the third round for the ladies.

Mrs. Court continued her devastating play by crushing Betty Ann Grubb of Santa Monica, Calif., 6-1, 6-0. Mrs. King, coming back from a year-old knee operation, ousted 20-year-old Marilyn Ashner of Holliswood, N.Y., 6-3, 6-4.

"I don't seem to concentrate any more—I make too many stupid shots. I don't play pattern tennis as I used to," said Mrs. King.

Osmanski, Luckman Nab NFL All-1940 Star Spot

NEW YORK (AP) — On the second play from scrimmage in the Chicago-Washington National Football League championship game of 1940 Bear running back Bill Osmanski took a handoff from quarterback Sid Luckman and raced 68 yards for the touchdown.

It was only the beginning. Before it was over, the Bears had put 73 points on the scoreboard, shut out the Redskins—and established the unequalled proficiency of the T-formation. The single wing, double wing, A formation were out.

Luckman, Sammy Baugh and Bob Waterfield, the three leading quarterback and exponents of the T-formation as team after team put in the system, have been honored for their contributions by being selected to an All-NFL 1940s team.

The team helps commemorate the 50th anniversary season of the NFL, which in conjunction with Simon and Schuster Inc., is publishing a book called "The First Fifty Years." Featured in the book are five all-star teams, one for each decade in NFL history, and leading up to the selection of an Alltime NFL team.

Luckman, Baugh and Waterfield, who among them accounted for 48,462 yards in the air and 424 touchdowns, share honors on the 33-man All-1940s squad with seven other players already inducted into the Hall of Fame.

They include backs Bill Dudley, George McAfee, Marion Motley, Charles Trippi and Steve Van Buren and two centers — Clyde "Bulldog" Turner and Alex Wojciechowicz.

Chiefs Remain Undefeated In 31-21 Win Over Cards

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Defensive back Jim kearney scurried 18 yards with an interception and set up a touchdown that brought the Kansas City Chiefs from behind and ignited them to a 31-21 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals in an exhibition football game Friday night.

The National Football League Cardinals, now 2-2 in exhibition play, had slim 7-6 lead early in the second period. Quarterback Charley Johnson fired a pass toward John Gilliam but Kearney stepped in, caught the ball on the Cardinals 31 and weaved his way to the 13.

wendell Hayes ran for 11 and Mike Garrett cracked over from the one to put the American League Chiefs ahead for good.

The Criefs, only undefeated AFL team, had it pretty much their way as the muggy night wore on. They got 21-7 lead early in the third quarter on Len Dawson's passing and Garrett's running.

Dawson moved the Chiefs 63 yards in 10 plays with Gloster Richardson pulling in a 15-yard toss for the score. The Chiefs' quarterback added insult to injury by hitting Hayes on the two-point conversion.

Jan Stenerud added three points on a 42-yard field goal late in the third period.

Gilliam pulled the Cardinals to 24-14 with a 49-yard touchdown catch from reserve quarterback Ed Roseborough early in the final quarter.

The Chiefs scored an insurance touchdown with less than six minutes to go when Dawson hit Jerrel Wilson with a 13-yard pass from a fake field goal formation. Rookie running back Ed Podolak set up the score with a 51-yard kickoff return.

St. Louis came back on another scoring drive engineered by Roseborough. Big yardage came on a 21-yard pass to Roy Shivers, who ran 16 on the next play to score.

Three Share First Round Lead in Hartford Tourney

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — J.C. Snead, a nephew of the famed Slamming Sam, charged through the gathering dusk to a five-under-par 66 Friday and tied Bob Murphy and Joel Goldstrand for the first round lead in the $100,000 Greater Hartford Open Golf Tournament.

They were etc. 2nd graf previous sb58.

Snead, a drawling 27-year-old made his round coming home. He was one under at the turn, then rammed in a 25-foot putt on the 10th, holed another from 14 feet on the 12th, and put irons within three feet at 13 and 15.

They were far from secure in the lead however, with a host of players giving par a terrible beating on the 6,568-yard par-71 Wethersfield Country Club course, one of the shortest layouts on the tour.

Bob Lunn, who made a run at the Avco classic last week before fading back to ninth, led a group of eight at 67. The others included Phil Rodgers, Bob Smith, Roy Pace, hard-hitting Martin Roesink of Holland, Hal Underwood, R.H. Sikes and Jerry Abbott.

More than a dozen followed at 68, including lean Davy Hill, Australian Bobby Staton, lefty Bob Charles of New Zealand and always dangerous Jack Nicklaus.

The group at 70 included Lee Trevino and defending champion Billy Casper, who complained of being "dead tired."

PGA champ Ray Floyd, went to a 72, far back in the field and Masters title - holder George Archer had a 71.

Murphy, a roly poly product of Florida who won both the US amateur and national collegiate championships before turning pro, has been in a slump since his clubs were stolen from his station wagon in Philadelphia six weeks ago.

Using a putter a friend sent from Mulberry, Fla., Murphy put together his best round in weeks.

He reached the par-five second in two big blows and two-putted for a birdie, rammed in a 20-footer on the fifth for another and wedged to within six inches for still another on the sixth.

Melnyk Clings To Amateur Lead

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Steve Melynk, 235-pound University of Florida golfer, scrambled to a two-over-par 34-39-73 with three bogeys and a double bogey on the back nine, but maintained his three-stroke lead after 54 holes Friday in the 69th annual U.S. Amateur Golf Championship.

The 21-year-old Melnyk appeared ready to run away from the field after a two-under-par front nine sent him six strokes ahead, but he faltered coming home, at one point slipping to a one stroke advantage. For the second straight day, he birdied the 18th to pad his margin.

Allen Miller, the University of Georgia insurance major disadvantaged when his putter was stolen overnight, is right where he started the day, three strokes back, at 219 after a 37-36-73.

Miller had company, however, as Marvin (Vinnie) Giles, runnerup in this tournament the past two years, shot a 36-36-72 to tie for second place. Miller and Giles were six strokes over par for 54 holes, while Melnyk was three strokes over regulation for the 36-35-71 Oakmont Country Club course.

Another two strokes back is Tommy Watson, of Shawnee Mission, Kans., who fired a 36-36-72 Friday for a 221. Grouped at 223 are Dick Siderowf, U.S. Walker Cup member from Westport, Conn., 36-35-71, John Farquhar of Amarillo, Tex., 36-40-76, and Bruce Ashworth of Las Vegas, Nev., 39-37-76.

A disappointed Melnyk said that when he made the turn Friday leading by six strokes, "I felt like I had the tournament won. That's why I played so badly the next five holes. I relaxed and that's what you can't do on this course."

The husky 6-foot-1 Melnyk, an industrial management major at Florida, said he looked at the scoreboard "and I just cakewalked. I'm real disappointed."

Miller refused to use his hay fever or the stolen putter as an alibi. He said he took nose drops Thursday night.

Rifemeir Bids for Third Straight Win at RMKC

Frank Hall's Rifemeir tries to keep his 1969 record clean at Rocky Mountain Kennel Club Saturday night when he bids for his third straight official win in the featured ninth race.

Rifemeir, who finished in the money 17 times in 19 outings at RMKC last year, is off to a flying start this season. After going unbeaten in three pre-season schooling races, Rifemeir kicked off the meeting last Saturday with a win in the opening night Inaugural feature.

Rifemeir came back again on Wednesday to take the midweek headliner. Both official victories were by four lengths.

Main competition for Rifemeir is expected to come from kennelmate Second Fire and G. A. Adlerson's Crack Ruler. At Denver's Mile High Kennel Club last summer, Second Fire won the $17,500 Timberline Stake and Crack Ruler captured the Derby finals.

Other entries in the 1710-foot Peak Course run are Babe's Laddie, Gallant Cain, Twister D, The Grand Champ and Quick King.

Quick King, owned by Ernest Fromm, also figures strongly. He had nine firsts and five seconds in 21 trips at Denver.

The second and eighth events Saturday also send top grade sprinters over the Peak strip. The seventh matches a mixture of Grade A and BB distance runners over the 2080-foot Springs Course.

Post time for the first of 11 races is 8:05 p.m.

No More High Flying Sox

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Prohibition is just a name from the past for members of the Boston Red Sox, but it's suddenly striking home.

The edict is out: no more booze on flights between cities. And that goes for players, Manager Dick Williams, the coaches, writers and anyone else traveling on the Red Sox' charter plane.

General Manager Dick O'Connell, a social drinker himself, cracked down Thursday, directing "airlines not to serve hard liquor" to any personnel on Red Sox' chartered flights.

The Red Sox declined to expand on O'Connell's memo posted in the clubhouse and later distributed through copies for traveling baseball writers.

However, players privately criticized stewardesses on United Airlines, which accomodates the Red Sox charters. Most of the Boston players are married and were harsh in attacks, verbally, on some hostesses.

The Associated Press learned that the club's hard liquor ban resulted from an incident aboard a United Airlines flight from San Francisco Aug. 4 after the Red Sox ended a road trip with a lengthy doubleheader at Oakland.

A stewardess allegedly was insulted by a couple of players during the flight to Boston. She reportedly complained to superiors, who relayed the information to O'Connell.

Williams, seated in front with his young daughter, did not receive any complaint. Traveling secretary Jack Rogers says no one complained to him. The team coaches also did not hear of any complaint. Nor did any of the Boston writers.

The stewardess, not identified, may have complained to the pilot, captain of the plane. However, none of the Red Sox personnel aboard have any such knowledge.

"There were several complaints and they were taken up with the Red Sox management," a United Airlines spokesman said in New York when asked to comment on O'Connell's memo. "It is their own idea of banning liquor. Beer is still being served."

Williams, noted as a hard-nosed manager, is married to a former stewardess. Jim Lonborg, the 1967 American League Cy Young Award winner as the No. 1 pitcher, is engaged to a United stewardess. Lonborg is also the club's player representative.

O'Connell's memo posted in the clubhouse and directed to writers and all other traveling personnel as well as players, said, "We expect each individual to abide by this rule." Ironically, the team's charter to Minneapolis was delayed a couple of hours Thursday evening.

O'Connell said in the memo that drinking has "caused serious instances aboard planes, especially with crew personnel."

Jim Chestney received a record $4,650 for winning the 1969 Masters.

Marshals Arrest Peas, French Fries in Denver

DENVER (AP) — Records in the U.S. Attorney's office indicate that, during the past several months, federal marshals have formally — and legally — arrested such things as 148 bags of split green peas, a 1968 Mercury Cougar, XR7 and 13,405 cases of frozen french fries.

Ass't U.S. Atty. Milton Branch explains the "arrests" actually are seizures of the goods or articles believed involve in criminal cases.

In the case involving the peas Marshal Doyle W. James formally filed a notice to inform the court the defendants peas were in custody. The peas were being sued in Denver U.S. District Court by the United States.

Other arrests were made of:

—54.53 acres of land in Douglas County.

—Two barrels of unlabeled, sweetened, condensed skim milk

—359 cases of shrimp.

—119,400 bushels of wheat.

Branch pointed out that often the marshal will seize a car that was used to transport If it is later learned the owner was unaware of the crime, the government will release the vehicle.

A seizure was made of cosmetics alleged to contain unsafe chemicals, Branch said. And the government took custody of the potatoes on a claim they were adulterated with ammonia. Land that is seized might be some the government requires for a federal project, with compensation for owners.

Branch said sometimes the court will determine a contaminated shipment of food can't be salvaged, and it will be destroyed.

Chicago Cabs Getting Bullet Proof Shields

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI)—All Chicago taxicabs must install bulletproof shields by Sept. 1, 1970, according to a law signed Thursday by Gov. Richard Ogilvie.

The measure is designed to protect drivers from robbery or assault.

The law requires cabs to have "a bulletproof shield completely separating the driver's seat from the back seat."

Some cab drivers have opposed the idea, saying it prevents conversation with passengers and could diminish tips.

$2 Million Bill To Repair Homes In Rock Springs

WASHINGTON (AP)—It will take $2 million to $3 million to halt damage to homes in Rock Springs, Wyo., caused by earth slippage. Eight per cent of the homes in the city are above abandoned mine shafts.

A spokesman for Sen. Clifford Hansen's office said damage totaling $200,000 has already occurred in the coal mining town.

Damage, thus far confined to the older homes, started about six months ago. Before residents of damaged homes can be moved, the senator's office said, back filling of the mines must be done to prevent further damage in the city.

Such slippage and sinking of the land is not confined to Rock Springs, according to the Bureau of Mines. It reports that 29 million acres in 28 states have been damaged by slippage.

Also, 1.7 million acres will cave in by the year 2000 if mining techniques are not perfected.

Studies are to be made in the Colorado coal mining towns of Lafayette, Frederick, Dacona, and Firestone. The bureau also said similar conditions exist in Leadville, Colo.

Jimmy Brown Facing Trial

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Jim Brown, fullback turned actor, must stand trial on an assault charge arising from a Hollywood traffic accident.

Brown, 33, who was an All-Pro football player with the Cleveland Browns, says his arrest is an example of police harassment.

Judge Leonard S. Wolf of Municipal Court ordered Brown to stand trial in Superior Court after a two-hour preliminary hearing Thursday. Brown is free on $2,000 bond.

CIA Declares Innocence In Green Beret Mystery

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency is given a clean bill in the Green Beret mystery story in the newest version of the case told by sources identified as CIA officials.

Defense lawyers for the eight U. S. Special Forces men held by the Army in South Vietnam for investigation on charges that they murdered a Vietnamese have alleged that the CIA was involved.

Attorney George W. Gregory said the alleged murder victim was a Communist double agent hired by the CIA. Some Saigon sources said CIA ordered him killed after films caught him talking with North Vietnamese in Cambodia.

Now, this version has been made available to newsmen in Washington:

The Vietnamese agent was working for the Green Berets and after he was suspected of being a double agent the Green Beret men asked CIA friends, who were also engaged in undercover work in South Vietnam, what they should do with the suspect.

The CIA officers recommended that the suspect be turned over to South Vietnamese authorities, who could pursue the interrogation into the suspect's activities and knowledge.

Later, one of the eight Green Berets came to a CIA colleague and said the suspect had been killed. The Green Berets had told their Army superiors in Saigon that the suspect had been sent on a mission. The CIA man advised that the true story be told to Army investigators.

An investigator then went to the Green Beret unit and determined to his satisfaction that there was evidence the Vietnamese man had died June 20.

In sum, according to this version, the Vietnamese victim was not a CIA employee, the CIA never ordered him killed but only recommended that he be turned over to South Vietnamese officials, and the CIA only learned of the reported death after it had occurred.

The Green Beret commander, Col. Robert B. Rheault, was relieved of his command July 21 and on Aug. 5 the Army announced the charges against him and the other seven.

The Army inquiry, a military

The CIA has maintained its usual public silence in face of what, in the Green Beret case, it feels have been unfair and untrue versions circulated about alleged CIA complicity. The Army too has been generally mum—including issuing no statement about the CIA—on grounds silence should be kept until the proceedings run their proper course.

Former SS Officer Gets Life in Prison

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — A Frankfurt court today convicted former SS Lt. Col. Hermann Krumey, a top lieutenant of Adolf Eichmann, of complicity in the mass murder of more than 300,000 Hungarian Jews during 1944 and sentenced him to a life term in prison.

The court also convicted another Eichmann aide, Lt. Col. Otto Hunsche of assisting in the murder of Hungarian Jews and sentenced him to 12 years in prison.

The verdicts ended a 14-month trial of the two men, who served in the special SS unit Eichmann headed. Eichmann was tried in Israel and hanged in 1962 for his part in the mass murder of Jews during World War II.

Lindsay, Once GOP Bright Light, Now in Battle to Remain in Field

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Only a year ago, Mayor John V. Lindsay was being mentioned as a possible Republican vice presidential candidate.

Today, he is fighting for his political life, rejected by voters of his own party and struggling for re-election as an independent.

His critics say he is a poor administrator and has done too much for minorities at the expense of others. Many look on him as mayor of Manhattan and say he ignores the four other boroughs. In the June primary, he won only in Manhattan.

His boosters claim he was principally responsible for keeping New York City cool while other major cities had riots in 1967 and 1968, that he has made the streets safer by hiring more police and modernizing equipment, that the streamlined city government, that he is the only one who can pull together the city's diverse ethnic groups.

His opponents in a confusing race, where party libels appear to mean little and predictions are difficult, are:

—John J. Marchi, 48, a little known Republican state senator from Staten Island who narrowly defeated Lindsay in the primary. He is the son of Italian immigrant parents. He also has the Conoervativt party nomination.

—City Comptroller Mario A. Procaccino, 56, a Democrat who has geared his campaign to "safety in the streets" and defeated four other contenders, including former Mayor Robert F. Wagner, in the Democratic primary. He has rejected the conservative label, describing himself as a "moderate progressive." But many liberal Democrats say they cannot vote for him.

The tall, handsome Lindsay, 47, has the nomination of the tiny, but influential, Liberal party whose votes were a major factor in his 1964 victory. In addition, after his primary defeat this year, he formed his own independent party with the help of liberal Democrats and Republicans.

Of his chances, he says only: "This is a tough campaign. I feel our case is strong and that we will win."

Lindsay has been criticized, particularly by middle and lower - middle class whites, ever since he took office in 1965 on the day that a city-snarling subway and bus strike began. His popularity suffered again a year later when he initiated the city's first income tax.

His fortunes rose during the racially explosive summer of 1967. While Detroit and Newark had major riots, New York stayed calm as Lindsay walked the streets of the city's ghettoes in his shirtsleeves. He was named vice chairman of the President's National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, which investigated rioting in other cities in 1967 and 1968.

Lindsay also was building the city's police force to more than 32,000 men and modernizing its equipment and communications.

Also, he worked to make city parks safe and attractive and bring people into them for various activities and entertainment.

But, there were two years of teachers strikes, a garbage strike, transportation problems, increased welfare costs, higher taxes, a police work slowdown and a worsening housing shortage.

Last fall, the city was shaken by three teachers' strikes over tht issue of community control of controls. The teachers' union, which has many Jewish members, accused Negro community leaders of anti-Semitism. Lindsay, who supported decentralization, was accused by some of not taking a strong enough stand against the racial slurs.

Last February, after a 15-inch snowfall, critics complained that Lindsay didn't get the streets cleaned fast enough.

When he personally surveyed the situation in the outlying borough of Queens a woman shouted at him:

"Mr. Mayor, I've been here for 30 years and I've ever seen anything like this. Just you try to get elected again!"

To get re-elected, Lindsay must get enough votes from liberals of both parties in this traditionally Democratic city to overcome his lack of regular Republican backing.

Marchi says his primary victory was a mandate "for a change in the way government is operated." The main issue in his campaign he says, is "law and order. I would be cavalier with the public if I assigned it a lesser priority."

Procaccino says he will win because "I have the average people of New York City with me." He got less than one-third of the total vote in the Democratic primary.

Procaccino is backed by much of the city's labor leadership, including the one-million-mtmber Central Labor Council.

He says he is for "better housing, for better schools, for beautiful parks and for improved transportation. But, he says, "You can't enjoy all of this unless you can walk the streets without fear. Since when is safety in the streets synonymous with conservatism?"

Proclaiming party loyalty, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller endorsed Marchi, although he supported Lindsay in the primary and contributed $50,000 to his campaign. President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew also endorsed Marchi.

Lindsay has the support of New York's two Republican senators, Jacob K. Javits and Charles Goodell; of the New former backers of Sen. Eugene McCarthy and the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy; and of Walter P. Reuther, president of the United Auto Workers Union.

So far, several well-known Democrats have made no endorsement, including Arthur Goldberg, former Supreme Court justice, secretary of labor, U. S. Ambasador of the United Nations, and Theodore Sorensen, attorney-author and Kennedy family adviser. Both are considering a run for the Senate next year and must consider the effect of their endorsements on the 1970 race.

Tough Quitting When Another Puffs Away

By MIKE DUFFY
Associated Press Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — As everyone who has tried to give up cigarettes knows, it's tough to break the habit when you hang around with a bunch of heavy smokers. And if your companions are baboons who smoke four packs a day, it's enough to make you go ape.

Henry Swanson Jr., 32, has been trying to stop smoking for a year.

But he has to spend most of his time with three live baboons who are all as crazy over smoking cigarettes as eating bananas.

Swanson is a caretaker for the animals who are part of a Louisiana State University School of Medicine research project on the effects of smoking on hardening of the arteries.

Swanson, who has been smoking since he was 12, says "mostly lack of will power" keeps him puffing. But lighting up four packs a day for the baboons would put a strain on anyone's will power.

His heaviest smoker is "007," who got started when, in the interest of science, he was rewarded with a banana every time he took a puff on a cigarette held at the edge of his cage.

Then the other two baboons started smoking, too, perhaps to keep up with "007," and now the three are permanent residents of a smoke-filled room at the school. For "007," it's three packs a day, the other two a half-pack apiece.

Dr. Jack P. Strong, head of the school's pathology department and director of the program, says hardening of the arteries is a major factor in the death of most of the world's male population.

The baboons were brought into the program after he and a team of physicians made a trip to Kenya.

Water Co. Loses Plea For Service in Boulder

DENVER (UPI)—The Public Utilities Commission (PUC) Friday denied, for the second time, an application by the High Mountain Waterline Co. to supply water to portions of Boulder County.

The company had originally filed its application Oct. 30, 1968, which the PUC denied April 21, 1969. The company then filed for, and was granted, a rehearing in the case.

The company had said it planned to supply water to about 540 customers in eastern Boulder County.

Marshals Arrest Peas, French Fries in Denver

DENVER (AP) — Records in the U.S. Attorney's office indicate that, during the past several months, federal marshals have formally — and legally — arrested such things as 148 bags of split green peas, a 1968 Mercury Cougar, XR7 and 13,405 cases of frozen french fries.

Ass't U.S. Atty. Milton Branch explains the "arrests" actually are seizures of the goods or articles believed involve in criminal cases.

In the case involving the peas Marshal Doyle W. James formally filed a notice to inform the court the defendants peas were in custody. The peas were being sued in Denver U.S. District Court by the United States.

Other arrests were made of:

—54.53 acres of land in Douglas County.

—Two barrels of unlabeled, sweetened, condensed skim milk

—359 cases of shrimp.

—119,400 bushels of wheat.

Branch pointed out that often the marshal will seize a car that was used to transport If it is later learned the owner was unaware of the crime, the government will release the vehicle.

A seizure was made of cosmetics alleged to contain unsafe chemicals, Branch said. And the government took custody of the potatoes on a claim they were adulterated with ammonia. Land that is seized might be some the government requires for a federal project, with compensation for owners.

Branch said sometimes the court will determine a contaminated shipment of food can't be salvaged, and it will be destroyed.

$2 Million Bill To Repair Homes In Rock Springs

WASHINGTON (AP)—It will take $2 million to $3 million to halt damage to homes in Rock Springs, Wyo., caused by earth slippage. Eight per cent of the homes in the city are above abandoned mine shafts.

A spokesman for Sen. Clifford Hansen's office said damage totaling $200,000 has already occurred in the coal mining town.

Damage, thus far confined to the older homes, started about six months ago. Before residents of damaged homes can be moved, the senator's office said, back filling of the mines must be done to prevent further damage in the city.

Such slippage and sinking of the land is not confined to Rock Springs, according to the Bureau of Mines. It reports that 29 million acres in 28 states have been damaged by slippage.

Also, 1.7 million acres will cave in by the year 2000 if mining techniques are not perfected.

Studies are to be made in the Colorado coal mining towns of Lafayette, Frederick, Dacona, and Firestone. The bureau also said similar conditions exist in Leadville, Colo.

Chicago Cabs Getting Bullet Proof Shields

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (UPI)—All Chicago taxicabs must install bulletproof shields by Sept. 1, 1970, according to a law signed Thursday by Gov. Richard Ogilvie.

The measure is designed to protect drivers from robbery or assault.

The law requires cabs to have "a bulletproof shield completely separating the driver's seat from the back seat."

Some cab drivers have opposed the idea, saying it prevents conversation with passengers and could diminish tips.

Brown, 33, who was an All-Pro football player with the Cleveland Browns, says his arrest is an example of police harassment.

Judge Leonard S. Wolf of Municipal Court ordered Brown to stand trial in Superior Court after a two-hour preliminary hearing Thursday. Brown is free on $2,000 bond.

CIA Declares Innocence In Green Beret Mystery

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Central Intelligence Agency is given a clean bill in the Green Beret mystery story in the newest version of the case told by sources identified as CIA officials.

Defense lawyers for the eight U. S. Special Forces men held by the Army in South Vietnam for investigation on charges that they murdered a Vietnamese have alleged that the CIA was involved.

Attorney George W. Gregory said the alleged murder victim was a Communist double agent hired by the CIA. Some Saigon sources said CIA ordered him killed after films caught him talking with North Vietnamese in Cambodia.

Now, this version has been made available to newsmen in Washington:

The Vietnamese agent was working for the Green Berets and after he was suspected of being a double agent the Green Beret men asked CIA friends, who were also engaged in undercover work in South Vietnam, what they should do with the suspect.

'Zebra' Set Friday At Cooper 70

"Ice Station Zebra," MGM's spectacular screen version of Alistair MacLean's best-selling novel, opens Friday at the Ute 70 Theatre. The big picture in Super Panavision and Metrocolor stars Rock Hudson, Ernest Borgnine, Patrick McGoohan, Jim Brown, Tony Bill and Lloyd Nolan, with a large supporting cast of featured players.

Hudson is cast in the Martin Ransohoff production as the commander of the USS nuclear submarine Tigerfish, bound under the Arctic ice cap to the North Pole on what his orders tell him is a mission to rescue survivors at a weather station shattered by explosion and fire. He suspects a hidden objective because of his passengers, two close-mouthed men from British Intelligence whom he is to assist in any way they desire, and a contingent of heavily armed U. S. Marines. Then his vessel is sent hurtling below her theoretical implosion depth by sabotage.

But it isn't until just before the story's climax that the sub commander learns what his orders do not mention. The agents are after a downed space capsule containing the key to the balance of power in event of a nuclear war, and the

Russians are coming by plane and parachute after the same prize. The climax is the confrontation on the top of the world.

To bring MacLean's exciting novel alive for the cameras, Ransohoff signed director John Sturges, an old hand at the grand-scale action film, with such classics of the genre as "The Great Escape," "The Magnificent Seven" and "Gunfight at the O.K. Corral" among his credits.

It was on the strength of Sturges' name that Patrick McGoohan, star of the widely successful "Secret Agent" TV series, agreed to make his Hollywood debut in "Ice Station Zebra," and he remains right in character as one of the two intelligence men. Ernest Borgnine plays his teammate, with Jim Brown as a U. S. Marine captain, Tony Bill as a fledgling lieutenant, and Lloyd Nolan as Admiral Garvey.

Famed cinematographer John Stephens, who got those conversation-piece shots of the racing cars in "Grand Prix" from right in the middle of the pack, is responsible for some of the spectacular scenes in "Ice Station Zebra." These include panoramas of fjords, glaciers and tundra filmed in Greenland and of the vast ice cap itself, photographed within 200 miles of the North Pole.

But you don't take an entire movie company to that climate for five months. So, for matching close shots, the top of the world was reproduced from photographs taken by the crew of the Navy's nuclear submarine, Skate, when she surfaced at the Pole in 1958.

MacLean called his submarine the Dolphin but, because the Navy has a real one by that name, Hudson's craft was christened the Tigerfish. She was "played" by the USS Ronquil in exterior scenes both on the surafce and below. For interiors, the studio built its own Tigerfish in six sections which, if put together, would have measured 300-feet in length, or a tight fit for the Rose Bowl, and reaching the height of a five-story building.

'Che!' At Cooper 70

Based on factual accounts of the controversial Latin-American revolutionary, "Che!" is now showing at the Cooper 70 Theatre. Omar Sharif stars in the title role and Jack Palance plays the part of Fidel Castro in the 20th Century-Fox production produced by Sy Bartlett and directed by Richard Fleischer.

Basically the screenplay by Michael Wilson and Sy Bartlett covers the period from Che's landing with Castro in Cuba through the successful revolution and takeover of the island, and on to the guerilla campaigns and his death in Bolivia.

The screenplay is based on intensive research by Bartlett who worked with David Karp on the story. Bartlett talked to about 100 persons, 20 of whom were intimates of Che, in order to decide on the format of the film. And in the writing, Bartlett managed to effect an objectivity so that from a political viewpoint the sory does not embrace the left or the right, but gives an unbiased view of the dramatic highlights of the martyred revolutionary's life.

Co-starring with Sharif and Palance are Cesare Danova, Robert Loggia, Woody Strode and Barbara Luna. The film was shot in Panavision and De Luxe Color on locations in Puerto Rico which resemble the actual Cuban locale.

AT THE CHIEF — Burt Lancaster stars in "Castle Keep," which is now showing at the Chief Theatre.

'Zebra' Set Friday At Cooper 70

"Ice Station Zebra," MGM's spectacular screen version of Alistair MacLean's best-selling novel, opens Friday at the Ute 70 Theatre. The big picture in Super Panavision and Metrocolor stars Rock Hudson, Ernest Borgnine, Patrick McGoohan, Jim Brown, Tony Bill and Lloyd Nolan, with a large supporting cast of featured players.

Hudson is cast in the Martin Ransohoff production as the commander of the USS nuclear submarine Tigerfish, bound under the Arctic ice cap to the North Pole on what his orders tell him is a mission to rescue survivors at a weather station shattered by explosion and fire. He suspects a hidden objective because of his passengers, two close-mouthed men from British Intelligence whom he is to assist in any way they desire, and a contingent of heavily armed U. S. Marines. Then his vessel is sent hurtling below her theoretical implosion depth by sabotage.

But it isn't until just before the story's climax that the sub commander learns what his orders do not mention. The agents are after a downed space capsule containing the key to the balance of power in event of a nuclear war, and the

Russians are coming by plane and parachute after the same prize. The climax is the confrontation on the top of the world.

To bring MacLean's exciting novel alive for the cameras, Ransohoff signed director John Sturges, an old hand at the grand-scale action film, with such classics of the genre as "The Great Escape," "The Magnificent Seven" and "Gunfight at the O.K. Corral" among his credits.

It was on the strength of Sturges' name that Patrick McGoohan, star of the widely successful "Secret Agent" TV series, agreed to make his Hollywood debut in "Ice Station Zebra," and he remains right in character as one of the two intelligence men. Ernest Borgnine plays his teammate, with Jim Brown as a U. S. Marine captain, Tony Bill as a fledgling lieutenant, and Lloyd Nolan as Admiral Garvey.

Famed cinematographer John Stephens, who got those conversation-piece shots of the racing cars in "Grand Prix" from right in the middle of the pack, is responsible for some of the spectacular scenes in "Ice Station Zebra." These include panoramas of fjords, glaciers and tundra filmed in Greenland and of the vast ice cap itself, photographed within 200 miles of the North Pole.

But you don't take an entire movie company to that climate for five months. So, for matching close shots, the top of the world was reproduced from photographs taken by the crew of the Navy's nuclear submarine, Skate, when she surfaced at the Pole in 1958.

MacLean called his submarine the Dolphin but, because the Navy has a real one by that name, Hudson's craft was christened the Tigerfish. She was "played" by the USS Ronquil in exterior scenes both on the surafce and below. For interiors, the studio built its own Tigerfish in six sections which, if put together, would have measured 300-feet in length, or a tight fit for the Rose Bowl, and reaching the height of a five-story building.

Buying Your Color TV From A Servicing Company Is A Wise Investment

Would you buy your new automobile from a dealer that does not service what he sells? We don't believe you would due to the possibility of unsatisfactory service to your new investment. A purchase of this size deserves the best service possible.

We invite you to visit Shouse TV, Inc. store at 1436 N. Hancock in Golf Acres Shopping Center where we have on display the most complete selection of 1970 Zenith Color TV in Colorado Springs.

Unlike the store that sells many items, television has been our only business for twelve years here in Golf Acres. Naturally we have more time to devote to the new televisions that we have sold to so many people and would like to be of service to you. Buy your new Zenith from the professionals at Shouse TV, Inc.

BACK FOR HORROR — Anthony Perkins stars in "Psycho," the Alfred Hitchcock thriller which starts Friday at the Cooper 70 along with "Eye of the Cat."

* * * * * * * * *

'Psycho' Set Friday At Cooper 70

Pit today's rebellious youth against the tenacity and rigidity of the older generation, embellish this topical conflict with a story of greed, ruthlessness and horror and set the terror tale amidst San Francisco's natural duality of genteel, baronial living and the Bay City's contemporary bohemian life, and you have Universal's new Technicolor suspense thriller, "Eye of the Cat," which comes Friday to the Cooper 70 Theatre.

Joseph Stefano, who gained fame for his scripting of Alfred Hitchcock's "Psycho," and is a specialist in psychological shock drama, wrote the original screenplay. David Lowell Rich gave it a sure directorial touch while Bernard Schwartz and Phillip Hazelton produced.

Further adding to the contemporary aspect of the drama is the casting of the stellar roles. Michael Sarrazin, one of Hollywood's most sought-after young dramatic actors, is romantically paired with the excitingly beautiful and talented Gayle Hunnicutt. The older generation is personified by thrice-Oscar nominated Eleanor Parker in the third star role.

Among San Francisco area highlights seen as background for the thrills and chills of "Eye of the Cat" are famed Lafayette Park and Square with its hundred-year -old baroque mansions owned and formerly owned by such wealthy an famous families as Spreckels and Zellerbach. Other famed Bay City areas to be seen in the film are the spectacular Golden Gate Bridge, the honky-tonk North Beach and the legendary bohemian waterfront of Sausalito, with its picturesque bars, houseboats, sailboats and abandoned ferry boats.

Every tale of the macabre has a non-human element as a horror catalyst and the shocking plot developments of "Eye of the Cat" are aided and abetted by one of the oldest and chilling of such elements—the apparently harmless house cat. The feline, indeed one in particular and literally dozens of others of its fellow creatures, provides the impetus for unforgettable terror, much as the species was used by Edgar Allan Poe and as floks of birds were used by shoc master Hitchcock in "The Birds."

Heading the human protagonists in this contemporary shock drama is handsome, blue-eyed Sarrazin as the ailurophobia-afflicated (fear of cats) victim who returns to the old mansion from whence he fled to free himself from a possessive older woman. This is his biggest of the successively important portrayals which has brought him to stardom in little more than a year. He gained critical acclaim for his role in "The Flim Flam Man." He then appeared with Tony Franciosa in Universal's "A Man Called Gannon" prior to assuming the lead in "Eye of the Cat". He has since finished co-starring with Julie Christie in "In Search of Gregory."

'Cowboy' Set to Open At Cinema 70

In "Midnight Cowboy," Dustin Hoffman's first film since "The Graduate" catapulted him to stardom and an Academy Award nomination, the versatile young actor demonstrates his extraordinary range by portraying a character who is the exact antithesis of the clean-cut college graduate with whom he has been identified. In color by DeLuxe, "Midnight Cowboy" opens Wednesday, Sept. 10, at the Cinema 70 thru United Artists, an entertainment subsidiary of Transamerica Corporation.

Although Hoffman achieved "overnight" fame for his performance in "The Graduate," he had previously won critical acclaim for his acting on stage in New York. "Journey of the Fifth Horse" won him an "Obie" Award and 'Eh" brought him to the attention of Mike Nichols, who cast him as Benjamin in "The Graduate."

His portrayal of Ratso, in "Midnight Cowboy" calls for a seedy, scheming con man.

Hoffman rallied to the role. A dedicated actor who has always preferred character parts to star-stereotypes, Hoffman is now in the unique position of being able to combine both characterization and stardom, choosing his roles carefully.

Jon Voight co-stars with him in "Midnight Cowboy," which was produced by Jerome Hellman and directed by John Schlesinger.

MOVING ON TWO FRONTS

NEW YORK (AP)—Twentieth Century-Fox is fighting World War II all over again on film—on two fronts. The movie company is shooting "Tora, Tora, Tora," the story of the Pearl Harbor attack, in Hawaii. At the same time, it has begun filming "Patton, Blood and Guts," in Spain. It is the story of the exploits of Gen. George Patton during World War II in Europe.

AT THE PEAK — John Phillip Law co-stars with Lee Van Cleef in "Death Rides a Horse," which is now showing at the Peak Theatre.

SLAVES — Dionne Warwick stars with Ossie Davis in "Slaves," which starts Wednesday at the 8th Street Drive In. The co-feature is "Sinful Davey," starring John Hurt.

'Cowboy' Set to Open At Cinema 70

In "Midnight Cowboy," Dustin Hoffman's first film since "The Graduate" catapulted him to stardom and an Academy Award nomination, the versatile young actor demonstrates his extraordinary range by portraying a character who is the exact antithesis of the clean-cut college gaduate with whom he has been identified. In color by DeLuxe, "Midnight Cowboy" opens Wednesday, Sept. 10, at the Cinema 70 thru United Artists, an entertainment subsidiary of Transamerica Corporation.

Although Hoffman achieved "overnight" fame for his performance in "The Graduate," he had previously won critical acclaim for his acting on stage in New York. "Journey of the Fifth Horse" won him an "Obie" Award and 'Eh" brought him to the attention of Mike Nichols, who cast him as Benjamin in "The Graduate."

His portrayal of Ratso, in "Midnight Cowboy" calls for a seedy, scheming con man.

Hoffman rallied to the role. A dedicated actor who has always preferred character parts to star-stereotypes, Hoffman is now in the unique position of being able to combine both characterization and stardom, choosing his roles carefully.

Jon Voight co-stars with him in "Midnight Cowboy," which was produced by Jerome Hellman and directed by John Schlesinger.

MOVING ON TWO FRONTS

NEW YORK (AP)—Twentieth Century-Fox is fighting World War II all over again on film—on two fronts. The movie company is shooting "Tora, Tora, Tora," the story of the Pearl Harbor attack, in Hawaii. At the same time, it has begun filming "Patton, Blood and Guts," in Spain. It is the story of the exploits of Gen. George Patton during World War II in Europe.

AT THE PEAK — John Phillip Law co-stars with Lee Van Cleef in "Death Rides a Horse," which is now showing at the Peak Theatre.

Pussycat Set Sunday At Aircadia

If you're going to make a comedy that spoofs the fuss we make about S-E-X, the first thing you need is lots of beautiful girls and that's exactly what Producer Charles K. Feldman gathered for his Technicolor laugh-getter "What's New Pussycat?," United Artists release opening Sunday at the Aircadia Drive In Theatre.

There's Romy Schneider, "the greatest Austrian export since the waltz," who showed what she could do with comedy in "Good Neighbor Sam" recently. She plays the role of a language teacher who tries to get boy friend, Peter O'Toole, to give up all the beautiful girls in his life and settle down with her.

Then there's Paul Prentiss as a kooky strip-tease dancer. Paula is well-remembered for her comedy in the recent "World of Henry Orient" in which she scored as the counterfoil for Peter Sellers, who is also starred in this film.

A third beauty assembled by Feldman is the irresistible, beautiful Capucine who showed her enormous talent for getting laughs also opposite Sellers, in "The Pink Panther." She's a beautiful neurotic in "What's New Pussycat?," who uses an icy exterior to hide a passionate interest in men.

A fourth (as guest star) is Swiss-born Ursula Andress, who plays a sex kitten in costumes said to make the famous bikini she wore in the first of the James Bond films, "Dr. No," look like a Victorian bath robe.

A comedy also calls for comedians and here, too, Feldman came through with some of the best. Peter Sellers, for instance, who is best known to American audiences for his hilarious roles in "Lolita," "Dr. Strangelove," "The Pink Panther," "The World of Henry Orient" and "A Shot in the Dark."

There's also a surprise comedian in "What's New Pussycat?" He's handsome Peter O'Toole who plays the top love interest in the comedy. Peter became world-famous overnight with his portrayal of the title role in "Lawrence of Arabia," and his performance as Henry II in "Becket" did nothing to diminish that fame. His role as the young man who just can't get enough feminine company in "What's New Pussycat?" is said to be uproariously funny and those who have already seen him in it say his talent for the comic equals that of his dramatic.

Then there's Woody Allen, Esquire Magazine's "hot comedian of the year." Woody not only appears in "What's New Pussycat?," but he wrote it! This is his first screen appearance and his first movie story. Besides being funny on his own in a big way, Woody wrote many of the Sid Caesar television shows and has a Sylvania Award to show how good he was at it.

A lot of "What's New Pussycat?" was filed in Paris, where the story takes place, particularly in some of its more renowned striptease palaces such as the famed Crazy Horse, and the several seen in the picture are the real thing, shot on location by Feldman's technicians.

Heironymus Set Sunday At the Flick

With complete film -making virtuosity, Anthony Newley not only stars, produces and directs "Can Heironymus Merkin Ever Forget Mercy Humppe and Find True Happiness?", but also co-authored the screenplay and wrote the music for the nine songs in the picture. What results is a hilarious erotic comedy with music.

Also starring Joan Collins and Milton Berle and co-starring Bruce Forsyth, Stubby Kaye and George Jessel, the Regional Films release in Technicolor comes Sunday to the Flick Theatre. Garnering 10 pages in color in the March, 1969 Playboy, that magazine on its cover calls it "The wackiest, sexiest film yet."

The story is a movie within a movie. Newley plays an introspective film singing idol who relives his part -real, part -illusionary past, drawing on strange characters to people the past as well as lovelies who line up as Heironymus plucks them one by one. Berle is his satanic agent, named Good Time Eddie Filth, who lures him into his career of ardent desire, and Jessel, as the Presence of death, occasionally materializes and then pops out to spout shaggy jokes as pointless parables. Newley takes both him and Berle to task in the final reel, spouting a parable of his own to Jessel, and ignoring the urgings of Berle.

Miss Collins, as she is in reality, plays Newley's wife, and their actual children, Tara, four-year-old daughter, and Sascha, two-year old son, serve as the audience along with grandma, witnessing the biographical movie -fantasy within a movie. Herman Raucher collaborated on the screenplay.

With lyrics by Herbert Kretzmer, Newley performs six of the nine hit songs he wrote for the picture. The dance numbers, choreographed by Johnny Greenland, range from the old time English music hall, as exemplified by Forsyth in the early part of the story, to the beautiful, almost psychedelic Astrological Ballet.

Good Photography Takes A Good Deal of Practice

By IRVING DESFOR

For most people, a camera is a tool to be used only when taking pictures.

My suggestion is that a camera is an instrument that can be studied, handled and used — without film in it — until you know it so well you can take pictures under stress without fumbling.

That means changing the focus instantly when the subject moves — or the lens opening if the illumination varies — in an automatic reflex action. Your main attention must be focused on the elements in the viewfinder and the exact instant they jell to make a picture. At that instant you CLICK!

A person learning to play a musical instrument or trying to acquire any skill is expected to spend a great deal of time practicing.

Yet very few would-be photographers practice with their cameras in dry-run rehearsals. In fact, if you saw a friend taking pictures and found out he had no film in the camera, that he was "just rehearsing," what would your normal reaction be:

"That's a smart idea!" or "You must be nuts!"

THE NOSE AND THE BULK — Bob Hope and Jackie Gleason co-star in "How to Commit Marriage," which is now showing at the Ute 70 Theatre.

'Marriage' Now Showing At Cooper 70

"How to Commit Marriage" is the wedding of the talents of two of the funniest men in show business, Bob Hope and Jackie Gleason. These two Kings of Comedy team up for the first time on the screen in the Naho Production from Cinerama Releasing Corporation which is now showing at the Ute 70 Theatre.

Jane Wyman stars with Hope and Gleason and key supporting roles are played by Tina Louise, Marueen Arthur, Leslie Nielsen, Joanna Cameron, Tim Matthieson, Irwin Corey and Paul Stewart, and introducing a sensational new musical group, The Comfortable Chair.

Bob Hope and Jane Wyman play the parents of an 18-year-old girl who falls in love with Jackie Gleason's son. Bob and Jane are planning a divorce but decide to postpone it until the kids get married. Jackie, spouse-less, tries to talk the kids out of marriage, setting the stage for a comic and tender battle between the two giants of comedy.

Bill Lawrence produced and Norman Panama directed the original screenplay by Ben Starr and Michael Kanin.

"How to Commit Marriage" is a motion picture of a number of firsts. For Gleason and Hope, long time admirers of each other, both as performers and public figures as well as avid golfing opponents, this was their first film together.

Jane Wyman, who has appeared with Bob on television, is also doing her first film with Hope.

In one of the most hilarious sequences of the comedy, Gleason, trying to upset the imperturbable Hope, brings a chimp onto the golf course and the chimp — in reality, one of the highly talented Marquis chimps — challenges Bob to a match. It is Bob's first match against simian competition.

"How to Commit Marriage" features the film debut of Joanna Cameron, who hails from Greeley, Colo., and at 19, had only one TV commercial to her credit. But when she read for the part of Bob's daughter, she was signed immediately by Hope, who also is executive producer for the film which is his 51st motion picture.

The comedy was filmed in Hollywood and on location around Los Angeles.

Producer Lawrence has produced and directed many of Bob's early radio shows for Pepsodent and Jello. Panama's first screenplay was Bob's "My Favorite Blonde" in 1941 but before that Panama was one of Bob's joke writers on radio. More recently, Norman produced "Facts of Life" with Bob and Lucille Ball. Director of Photography Charles Lang has done many Hope films — so have production supervisor Austen Jewell, and many of the rest of the crew.

Several Los Angeles locations were utilized for this film.

"How to Commit Marriage" features the film debut of Joanna Cameron, who hails from Greeley, Colo., and at 19, had only one TV commercial to her credit. But when she read for the part of Bob's daughter, she was signed immediately by Hope, who also is executive producer for the film which is his 51st motion picture.

The comedy was filmed in Hollywood and on location around Los Angeles.

Producer Lawrence has produced and directed many of Bob's early radio shows for Pepsodent and Jello. Panama's first screenplay was Bob's "My Favorite Blonde" in 1941 but before that Panama was one of Bob's joke writers on radio. More recently, Norman produced "Facts of Life" with Bob and Lucille Ball. Director of Photography Charles Lang has done many Hope films — so have production supervisor Austen Jewell, and many of the rest of the crew.

Several Los Angeles locations were utilized for this film.

'Remagen' Set to Open At the Chief

What many military historians believe to have been the most important single action of World War II — and the one conceded by Allied and German authorities today as having shortened the war — the taking of the famous bridge at Remagen on March 7th 1945 — is relived in all its pulsating drama and heroic grandeur in Producer David L. Wolper's classic "The Bridge at Remagen" which will occupy the giant Panavision screen of the Chief Theatre beginning Wednesday in Color by DeLuxe.

The film, produced on a spectacular scale seldom approached in movie making, is released by United Artists, an entertainment enterprise of Transamerica Corporation.

The picture stars George Segal, Robert Vaughn ("The Man From U.N.C.L.E."), Ben Gazzara and Bradford Dillman with a guest star appearance by E. G. Marshall.

So important did Hitler consider the destruction of the bridge at Ramagen before it could be taken by the onrushing Americans that he knowingly wrote the death warrant for his entire 15th Army in ordering it dynamited before they could cross and the only reason it remained intact when the Yanks arrived was through one of those weird and almost unbelievable "flukes" which so often spice the pages of history.

To make sure that the story was retold exactly as it happened, Wolper engaged Congressman Ken Hechler (D-W. Va.) combat historian, former professor of political science, research assistant to Presidents Roosevelt and Truman, and uathor of the authoritative "The Bridge at Remagen" as technical advisor.

The picture's cast of thousands includes a large part of the Czechoslovakian army and Czech civilians from the vicinity of Davle near Prague where a bridge identical to the one at Remagen still exists and was used to shoot much of the action.

The screenplay for "The Bridge at Remagen" was written by Richard Yates and William Roberts with a story line woven into its fabric by Roger Hirson. Elmer Bernstein wrote the film's original music. John Guillermin directed.

David Bennett to Direct Springs Music Theatre

The Board of Directors of the Colorado Springs Music Theatre has announced the appointment of David Bennett as director for the 1969-70 season. Ruth Biggs, business manager, said, "We are most fortunate to have this young man with his exceptional talent and capabilities and his extensive training and experience again working with us."

David Bennett teaches speech and drama at Cheyenne Mountain Junior High School and is familiar to local audiences through his many appearances in leading roles in Colorado College productions such as "Luther," "Lute Song," "The Deputy" and "The Little Foxes." Last spring he received a standing ovation for his role as the Old Actor and his direction of the Music Theatre's "The Fantasticks." This summer he received a scholarship to Colorado State College at Greeley and appeared in leading roles in "The Unknown Soldier and His Wife" and Shakespeare's "Henry IV" with The Little Theatre of the Rockies.

By popular request, the first Music Theatre production of the season will be repeat performances of the critically acclaimed and very successful presentation last spring of "The Fantasticks." First definitely scheduled performances are for the Saturday evenings of Sept. 20 and 27 at the Iron Springs Chateau, a small, intimate theatre which this musical requires. Tickets will be $2.50 each and may be purchased at

The TV Week in Review

TODAY

Younger viewers (and those young in heart) will be treated to a peek at five new fall children's shows on NBC during the 8:30 a.m. KELLOGG'S PRESENTS THE BANANA SPLITS ADVENTURE HOUR. First to be introduced will be the stars of "Here Comes the Grump," who are the principal inhabitants of a colorful fantasy land. Then come "The Pink Panther" and "Jambo." "H.R. Pufnstuf" will feature elaborately costumed live actors in fantasy roles and the star will be Jack Wild of "Oliver." The final sneak preview will be "The Heckle and Jeckle Show."

The Minnesota Twins play host to the Boston Red Sox in the Major League Baseball Game of the Week at 12:15 p.m. on NBC.

ABC will telecast the 1969 USGA Men's Amateur Gold Championship live from Oakmont Country Club in Oakmont, Pa., at 1:30 p.m.

CBS will feature highlights of second and third-round play in the second U.S. Open TENNIS Championship from Forest Hills, N.Y. The tournament offers $125,000 in prize money. Top seeded are Rod Laver, John Newcombe, Tony Roche, Arthur Ashe and in the women's division are Margaret Court and Billy Jean King. The telecast begins at 2 p.m.

The Rugby League Cup final from Wembley Stadium in London and the 22nd biennial Walker Cup golf championship between amateur golfers of Great Britain and the U.S. will be featured on ABC'S WIDE WORLD OF SPORTS.

The Washington Redskins, under coach Vince Lombardi, take on the Detroit Lions in an NFL pre-season game to be presented live by CBS at 4:30 p.m.

LAWRENCE WELK's Champagne Music Makers visit a traditional county fair with such goodies as "Have I Stayed Too Long at the Fair?" by Ralna English; "Loveliest Night of the Year" featuring Joe Feeney, and "If My Friends Could See Me Now," a duet by Tanya Falan and Jack Imel.

Officers Malloy and Reed answer a call about a child left alone and discover the mother has not been home in three days on NBC's ADAM 12.

Versatile Roger Miller is the headline guest on ABC's THE JOHNNY CASH SHOW which features folk-soul singer Odetta, the vocal duo Bobby and I and thin-man comedian Charlie Callas.

Michael Parks (who will be featured in "Then Came Bronson" this fall) stars in "WILD SEED," the drama of a boy and girl whose strange friendship — the result of the intense loneliness each feels — fosters a joint quest for truth and love, on the NBC Saturday Night at the Movies. Black and white.

When MANNIX' secretary's boyfriend Gabe Johnson (Yaphet Kotto — who just turned in a magnificent acting job as a mentally disturbed Vietnam veteran on Hawaii Five O) disappears, Mannix learns that he's an escapee from a prison road gang who is determined not to return.

SUNDAY

Madame Lili Kraus, renowned interpreter of piano music of the Viennese classical school, is featured in a concert - with-commentary of compositions by Franz Schubert on an encore presentation of CAMERA THREE on CBS.

"I Never Saw Another Butterfly," based on a book of poetry and sketches by doomed children imprisoned between 1942 and 1944 in Theresienstadt Concentration Camp in Czechoslovakia, will be repeated on LOOK UP AND LIVE on CBS.

A quaint Swedish village where people have been making beautiful crystal objects for generations — Boda — is explored on ABC's DISCOVERY '69. (Repeat)

Pittsburgh Steeler Bill Saul, wired for sound, presents a rare, dramatic look at the linebacker in action on "The Linebackers: Search and Destroy" on CBS's NFL ACTION.

THE 21ST CENTURY demonstrates methods to design safer cars and highways and to improve driver competence, and studies the problem of traffic congestion in America. (CBS-Repeat)

A live broadcast from the National Governor's Conference at the Broadmoor Hotel will be presented by NBC Channel 5 when six governors are the guests in a special one-hour edition of MEET THE PRESS. To be interviewed on the program to be shown locally at 3:30 p.m. are Buford Ellington of Tennessee; John Love of Colorado; Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York; Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey; John J. McKeithen of Lousiana and Richard Ogilvie of Illinois. The newsmen slated to interview the governors are David Broder of the Washington Post, Peter Lisagor of the Chicago Daily News, Alan Otten of the Wall Street Journal and Douglas Kiker of NBC. Lawrence Spivak is moderator.

George Shultz, Secretary of Labor, will be the guest on FACE THE NATION on CBS.

Bart Starr, quarterback for the Green Bay Packers, teaches a fundamental lesson in teamwork to Mark and his friends when he appears in a cameo role on CBS's GENTLE BEN. (Repeat)

Sandler and Young, Jackie Mason, Anna Moffo, Sam and Dave, Roslyn Kind, Ballet America, Pat Cooper and Charlie Cairoli are guests on THE ED SULLIVAN SHOW on CBS.

"DAVY CROCKETT GOES TO CONGRESS," the second episode of the original Davy Crockett trilogy starring Fess Parker, will be colorcast on NBC's Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color.

Comedy by Junior Samples and the regulars plus songs by guest stars Sonny James and Tammy Wynette are features of HEE HAW on CBS.

An historic African confrontation after which 11 Victoria Crosses were awarded for extraordinary valor and courage is the basis of the ABC Sunday Night Movie, "ZULU," starring Stanley Baker, Jack Hawkins, Michael Caine and Ulla Jacobson.

Ossie Davis guests as a freed slave who attempts to keep his family together and overcome his fear of the white community in "The Wish" on NBC's BONANZA. The sad and very relevant episode was written and directed by series star Michael Landon.

MONDAY

NBC's TODAY show features the following looks at new television shows: Monday — Leif Erickson of "The High Chaparral" on his boat at Marina Del Rey; Wednesday — Marc Copage and Michael Link of "Julia" at the Children's Zoo; and Friday — Joe Campanella and James Farentino on the set of "The Bold Ones."

Sir Gerald Bancroft, a treasury official, and the car taking him to a research testing center to look into apparent overspending, vanish while entering the installation on ABC's THE AVENGERS. (Repeat)

The Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds, in what may well be a preview of the National League playoff, will be featured at 6 p.m. on NBC's Major League BASEBALL Game of the Week.

Jemal David comes to the support of Hulbetta Mekko, a Creek Indian chief who killed the white man who tricked him into signing away much of the tribe's land on ABC's THE OUTCASTS. (Repeat)

Scheduled to appear on THE DICK CAVETT SHOW on ABC are Sal Mineo, who is turning his hand to directing with "Fortune and Men's Eyes," a play about homosexuals in prison, blues singer B. B. King, and I. F. Stone, whose weekly publication hits hard at current events.

Pianist Roger Williams and comedian Scoey Mitchlll are guests on CAROL BURNETT PRESENTS THE JIMMIE RODGERS SHOW on CBS.

Clinton JUDD tries to free a young southern girl who went to prison for assault and robbery to protect her boyfriend. ABC (Repeat)

Kitty takes the reins in a desperate stagecoach race across the prairie to save the life of a wounded stranger on CBS's GUNSMOKE. (Repeat)

As of press time, all three networks are planning to telecast President Richard M. Nixon's speech to the National Governor's Conference at the Broadmoor Hotel. The speech is scheduled between 9:30 and 11:30 p.m. but the telecast time is unknown at this time. A full schedule of events at the conference will be run in the special conference edition of the Gazette Telegraph Sunday.

TUESDAY

Gloria Foster, actress-wife of series co-star Clarence Williams III, portrays a lovely young girl who has been blind from birth and protected from the world's ills by her white companion-housekeeper on tonight's encore MOD SQUAD episode. The Williams work extremely well together and are both exceedingly talented. The program, which centers around an attempt on her life and Clarence's striving to show the blind girl the world around her, is well done and very moving.

LIBERACE enjoys an all-girl line-up of guest stars on his CBS show when he greets Phyllis Diller, Millicent Martin and Dusty Springfield.

A man who answered an ad in the East Village Barb and attended a party given by a secret "cult" is blackmailed with pictures taken at the party on ABC's N.Y.P.D. Underground movie star Ulrta Violet guests as Heidi Velvett. (Repeat)

"THE GREAT AMERICAN NOVEL," an innovative concept of presenting literature on television not as drama but in documentary form will be rebroadcast on CBS at 8 p.m. The special focuses on "Babbitt" and "The Grapes of Wrath."

NBC's FIRST TUESDAY spotlights the cult surrounding the once despised Edsel, sky diving, computer dating, corporal punishment in Irish schools, "gray market" sales of a medication that supposedly restores youth and the mysterious man who runs the Bahamas operation, and a look at Patrick Hemingway, author, who has been a professional hunter in East Africa for many years.

A well-meant attempt by Johnny and Scott LANCER to rescue a young bride-to-be (Shelley Fabares) from the clutches of her boyfriend

DICK CAVETT welcomes mystery novelist Rex Stout, singer Eartha Kitt and actor William Holden. Enjoy this exceptionally good talk show while you can before ABC dumps it. Dick Cavett is one of the finest wits on television and his guest lists this summer have featured people from all walks of life. Unlike the late-night shows, he does not have six or seven guests per night who are shuffled on the stage and either hustled back off again or moved down a row of chairs to not be heard from again all evening. Cavett lets people have their say and is knowledgeable about all his guests be they writers, artists, film and television stars or people involved in the controversy of today's world. Viewers who have enjoyed the clean school-boy charm of Cavett and wish to have him around again for more of his type of intelligent, educational and just plain grown-up television (like television should be) should let their wishes be known by writing American Broadcasting Co., 1330 Avenue of the Americas, New York City, N.Y.

The life and art of renowned pianist Arthur Rubinstein will be explored during the 90-minute color special ARTHUR RUBINSTEIN at 8:30 p.m. on NBC, Channel 5. Typical of the man, one of the very top names in music, is the statement that he can speak easily about composers like Tchaikovsky, Wagner, Chopin, Brahms and Mozart. "I can criticize them because I know exactly what they want and what they were doing," he says. "But what can I do about a composition which hurts my ears, which bores me?" he asks when questioned about why he won't play modern music.

Comedian Groucho Marx will be the only guest on the full hour of THE DICK CAVETT SHOW at 9 p.m. on ABC. A portion of this show aired June 13 but the last half was pre-empted. The complete program was so loudly acclaimed that ABC is showing the entire hour.

Labor Day Celebration Set Monday at Simla

It was announced in July that dances would be held at the Broadmoor Hotel during the month of August, but there will be one more dance and that will be on Labor Day, next Monday, same time, 8 to 10 with Fred Staeben calling. It is hoped that all clubs will join the group for the last outdoor dance of the season.

There will be a big Labor Day celebration out at Simla with a free hamburger feed at noon, band stand entertainment at 1:30 and a big free square dance in the park from 3 to 5 with Larry Berrige, formerly a resident of the Simla -Calhan area, and now of Denver, doing the calling. All callers and dancers are invited.

Also on Labor Day there will be a "Holiday from Danger" for young and old at the Air Force Academy picnic grounds no. 2. Skyline Squares will have a "Rolling Ball" booth; Fred Staeben will call for some demonstration dancing in the afternoon. There will be a pizza, barbeque, hamburgers, baked goods and cold drinks available. There will be games for all ages, horseback riding a nd dance contests with music provided by the Falconnaires. All this will begin at 8 a.m. and end at 6 p.m.

Many people have signed up for Fred's class for beginners and there is plenty of room for more. Classes will be held at the Youth Center in Pine Valley starting Sept. 10 and lasting for 15 weeks with sessions from 8 to 10:30. For more information, call the Staebens.

The Southeast Area Jamboree drew a crowd of twenty sets last Saturday evening at the Red Barn in Pueblo. There was fine dancing all evening with many callers in the area participating. This was a fine kick-off for dancing for the winter season and much time was spent in visiting with friends who have been vacationing from dancing during the summer.

Plans for the 1970 State Convention are nearing completion—then the actual work begins. The Convention will be held at the Harrison High School gymnasium and Gorman Junior High with round dancing at Garden Valley Restaurant on June 12 and 13, 1970. At a meeting held at the Bagleys last week, Bob Ruff of Whittier, California, was unanimously chosen as Master of Ceremonies for the affair and as he was in Colorado Springs for Mrs Dorothy Shaw's Cotillion, he was contacted by Convention Chairman, Maurice and Lou Maddock and taken for a tour of the Convention area. The one necessary and important part that is unfinished is the selection of a slogan. It was decided to call the Convention a "Pow-Wow" and an Indian theme will be used. We are asking dancers to submit some catchy phrase to precede the "Pow-Wow" bit. Entries should be mailed to Maurice Maddock, 120 East Winters Drive, 80907, not later than September 6th and the winner will be chosen by members of the Convention Commmittee and a prize will be awarded to the winner. Everybody, get your thinking cap on and come up with something clever.

Ute Promenaders will have a fifth Saturday dance this week with Harold Palmer calling. Everybody out tonight!

WHERE TO DANCE TONIGHT

Lanciers, Palmer Lake Town Hall, 8:30, Fred Staeben calling.
Ute Promenaders, Carriage Stop, 8:30, Harold Palmer calling.

MONDAY

Free open Labor Day Dance at the Broadmoor Hotel, 8:00, with Fred Staeben calling.

TUESDAY

Skyline Squares, USAF Academy Service Club, 8:00, Fred Staeben calling.

THURSDAY

Rhythmaires rounds, Carriage Stop, 7:30, 8:30 and 9:30, with Deane and Helen Serena.

FRIDAY

Waggin Wheelers, Carriage Stop, 8:30 with Harold Palmer calling.

From one "daughter" to three is the fate of John Forsythe, star of the new "To Rome with Love" series which will be on CBS next season in the 7:30-8 p.m. spot Sundays. In the long-run "Bachelor Father" series, Forsythe had a teen-aged niece on his hands. In the new shoe, he plays a widowed American college professor living in Rome with his three daughters, video-aged at 16, nine and six years. The theater's very funny Kay Medford plays the professor's older sister.

NBC will present its schedule for the new season in the week of Sept. 14-20. There will be seven new programs introduced in that period.

---

There may be quite a rating race in the 7:30-8:30 p.m. Satu - day slot in the fall. The solidly established Jackie Gleason program on CBS, which has been going in for a lot of variety programs lately, should have some solid competition in the guest star field through the return to weekly duty by singer Andy Williams on the NBC network. The logical Gleason riposte is to return to a heavy schedule of "The Honeymooners" shows. Which would make most people happy.

---

The musical team of Tommy Boyce and Bobby Hart will make a television pilot for Screen Gems.

Johnny Carson has a new NBC contract that obligates him to the "Tonight" program for a period "into the 1970's." At, of course, a token pay rise of a few thousand a week. And probably a few more weeks off. Carson took over the program in October, 1962.

Labor Day Celebration Set Monday at Simla

It was announced in July that dances would be held at the Broadmoor Hotel during the month of August, but there will be one more dance and that will be on Labor Day, next Monday, same time, 8 to 10 with Fred Staeben calling. It is hoped that all clubs will join the group for the last outdoor dance of the season.

There will be a big Labor Day celebration out at Simla with a free hamburger feed at noon, band stand entertainment at 1:30 and a big free square dance in the park from 3 to 5 with Larry Berrige, formerly a resident of the Simla -Calhan area, and now of Denver, doing the calling. All callers and dancers are invited.

Also on Labor Day there will be a "Holiday from Danger" for young and old at the Air Force Academy picnic grounds no. 2. Skyline Squares will have a "Rolling Ball" booth; Fred Staeben will call for some demonstration dancing in the afternoon. There will be a pizza, barbeque, hamburgers, baked goods and cold drinks available. There will be games for all ages, horseback riding and dance contests with music provided by the Falconnaires. All this will begin at 8 a.m. and end at 6 p.m.

Many people have signed up for Fred's class for beginners and there is plenty of room for more. Classes will be held at the Youth Center in Pine Valley starting Sept. 10 and lasting for 15 weeks with sessions from 8 to 10:30. For more information, call the Staebens.

The Southeast Area Jamboree drew a crowd of twenty sets last Saturday evening at the Red Barn in Pueblo. There was fine dancing all evening with many callers in the area participating. This was a fine kick-off for dancing for the winter season and much time was spent in visiting with friends who have been vacationing from dancing during the summer.

Plans for the 1970 State Convention are nearing completion—then the actual work begins. The Convention will be held at the Harrison High School gymnasium and Gorman Junior High with round dancing at Garden Valley Restaurant on June 12 and 13, 1970. At a meeting held at the Bagleys last week, Bob Ruff of Whittier, California, was unanimously chosen as Master of Ceremonies for the affair and as he was in Colorado Springs for Mrs Dorothy Shaw's Cotillion, he was contacted by Convention Chairman, Maurice and Lou Maddock and taken for a tour of the Convention area. The one necessary and important part that is unfinished is the selection of a slogan. It was decided to call the Convention a "Pow-Wow" and an Indian theme will be used. We are asking dancers to submit some catchy phrase to precede the "Pow-Wow" bit. Entries should be mailed to Maurice Maddock, 120 East Winters Drive, 80907, not later than September 6th and the winner will be chosen by members of the Convention Commmittee and a prize will be awarded to the winner. Everybody, get your thinking cap on and come up with something clever.

Ute Promenaders will have a fifth Saturday dance this week with Harold Palmer calling. Everybody out tonight!

WHERE TO DANCE TONIGHT

Lanciers, Palmer Lake Town Hall, 8:30, Fred Staeben calling.
Ute Promenaders, Carriage Stop, 8:30, Harold Palmer calling.

MONDAY

Free open Labor Day Dance at the Broadmoor Hotel, 8:00, with Fred Staeben calling.

TUESDAY

Skyline Squares, USAF Academy Service Club, 8:00, Fred Staeben calling.

THURSDAY

Rhythmaires rounds, Carriage Stop, 7:30, 8:30 and 9:30, with Deane and Helen Serena.

FRIDAY

Waggin Wheelers, Carriage Stop, 8:30 with Harold Palmer calling.

'SAMPLER' INCLUDES MENOTTI

NEW YORK (AP)—The City Center is offering a subscription series for next season, which is a "sampler."

Ballet, opera, drama and modern dance will be included. Each of the four different subscriptions will include the most recent opera by Gian Carlo Menotti, "Help! Help! the Globolinks," on the same bill as Menotti's "Amahl and the Night Visitors."

Also on the subscriptions will be the City Center Joffrey Ballet, New York City Opera, Grand Kabuki and Alwin Nikolais and Paul Taylor dance companies.

"How Justly Are You Treated?"

Listen this Sunday to the Christian Science Radio Series for some interesting insights on this question. It's on 84 stations in the Rocky Mountain area including:

COIN COLLECTING

Commentary

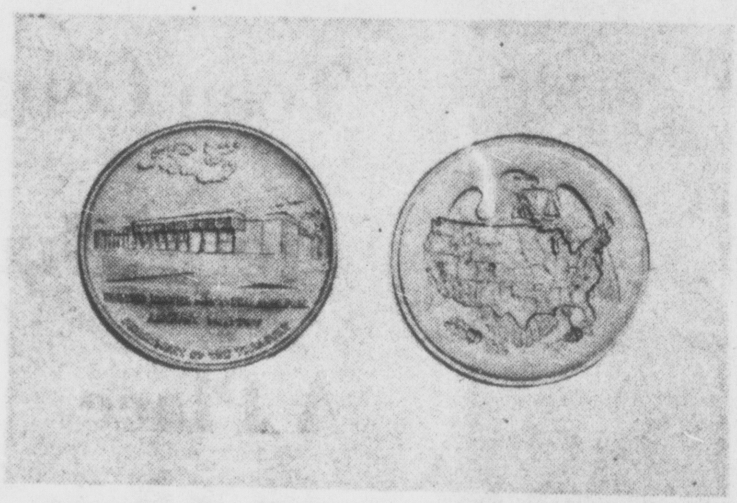
By EDWARD ROCHETTE



The new United States Mint at Philadelphia should become one of the great tourist attractions of the region drawing as many visitors as nearby Independence Hall. It was designed with the tourist in mind.

The new mint, expected to be in full operation during early 1970, was formally dedicated a few weeks ago during the American Numismatic Association's convention in Philadelphia. The date of the formal opening was not a coincidence as far the association's national convention was concerned. Mint officials purposely picked that date.

The new mint is equipped with the world's most modern coin production equipment, including a coin roller with a production capacity of 10,000 coins per minute, as opposed to a maximum capacity of 600 coins per minute with the fastest equipment in current use. The super-press is not a dream, I saw it in operation and it will revolutionize coin production.

For the first time in history, the mint equipment is arranged to provide for mechanized continuous flow through the coinage processes, from virgin metals to finished coins. This entire operation can be viewed from a glass - enclosed elevated gallery designed to accomodate 2,500 visitors per hour. Brochures are given the visitors and the machinery is color-coded so that one has little difficulty in understanding the operation. Pre-recorded explanations are broadcast at different positions along the gallery to further inform the visitor.

A numismatic museum containing mnt mementoes, historic coins and medals, and a sales counter, is also available to the public. Last week I mentioned the catalogue of medals for sale by the mint. It was especially prepared for offering at the sales counter. The idea stems from a similar service offered visitors at the French Mint. Here some 8,000 different medals, plus coins sets, and books are sold and the returns make no small contribution towards the total income of the establishment.

Ground for the new United States Mint at Philadelphia, the fourth in that city since 1792, was broken on September 17, 1965, and the cornerstone was laid at a public ceremony on September 18, 1968. Total cost of the facility will amount to approximately $39.4 million, including $1.9 million for the land, $18.6 million for the building, architect and engineering services, and $18.9 million for the purchase and installation of equipment developed especially for the highly sophisticated manufacture of coins.

A bronze medal commemorating the occasion has been placed on sale by the mint. The official opening medal, which will be added to the list of medals available for purchase from the Bureau of the Mint, will be sold in two sizes: 3 inch at $3.00 and 1 5-16 inch, will be $1.50. Both will be in bronze. Your order can be addressed to U. S. Mint, Philadelphia. Checks should be made payable to Superintendent, U. S. Mint.

The smaller medal was specially packaged for opening day only in a special envelope bearing the American flag of 1792 and an artist's rendition of the first mint in one corner on the obverse and on the other side a list of all U. S. mints and the periods of coin manufacture. The envelopes were then mailed and postmarked on the opening day, August 14, 1969. The 99-Company of San Clemente, California, prepared these first day—first medal issue covers, an interesting item for both the coin and stamp collector.

The obverse or front of the medal shows the main entrance of the new Philadelphia Mint building; the lettering, UNITED STATES MINT — PHILADELPHIA AUGUST 14, 1969 — DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY.

The reverse side has a map of the United States with 17 stars denoting the location of mint institutions, past and present, superimposed over our national emblem, the eagle.

Ten thousand covers were prepared and these should prove to be a worthwhile and profitable investment. I'm glad I have mine.

SOCK IT TO 'EM — A member of a local teenage band belts out a song during recent grand opening ceremonies at the local teen center. The group appeared before a national band, one of three brought in for the festivities. Weekly dances, primarily featuring local groups, are on tap for future teen weekends at the center.

A large scale experiment in applied sociology went into effect recently in Colorado Springs, largely to cope with the hungering and thirsting of a youthful generation for a system in which it can believe.

One of the large problems facing mankind may be that of equipping the young to face and fight the problems of living in the world of today as it exists today. Talk of generation gaps, youthful hoodlums, honor students and football players are all part of the complex problem known as youth in the society.

Colorado Springs officially and inofficially for sometime has recognized a need for a place where students — teens — could emit youthful exuberance in a healthful manner. A place where teens could go to dance, to learn, to play without stumbling into the pitfalls of juvenile crime and the myriad other charges hurled at the young.

The Teen Center of Colorado Springs is an attempt to meet that need in the community. Its success or failure will be largely dependent upon the support of the teenagers in the area

A place where teens could go to dance, to learn, to play without stumbling into the pitfalls of juvenile crime and the myriad other charges hurled at the young.

The Teen Center of Colorado Springs is an attempt to meet that need in the community. Its success or failure will be largely dependent upon the support of the teenagers in the area and, even more importantly, the allowance by parents for teens to operate and conduct the center in the manner the teens see fit.

It is a unique experiment in that teenagers control the operations of the center with an adult board standing by for consultation and advice. The city government became involved when it appropriated the money to rent the facilities for the center and private business, labor organizations and individuals lent a hand in supplying merchandise, material and money.

A recent issue of "Harper's Magazine" succinctly summed up the problems facing mankind:

"The planet and mankind are in grave danger of irreversible phe...yca tastro mabe Man in grave danger of irreversible catastrophe . . . Man may be skeptical about following the flight of the dodo into extinction, but the evidence points increasingly to just such a pursuit . . . There are four inter- . . . There are four interconnected threats to the planet, wars of mass destruction, overpopulation, pollution and the depletion of resources. They have a cumulative effect. A problem in one area renders it more difficult to solve the problems in any other area . . . The basis of all four problems is the inadequacy of the sovereign states to manage the affairs of mankind in the twentieth century."

The aware generation has this knowledge of the problems besetting the planet and the race and they have a distinct awarness that their generation may be the one called upon to solve these problems or to follow the flight of the dodo.

For some this presents a challenge while for others it creates a deep pessimism about the future and corresponding 'pleasure for the present' attitudes.

What this all means eventually is that a nation is faced with a problem. Attacking the problem on a national level is all but impossible but on a city level—that may be different.

That is where the Teen Center in Colorado Springs comes into the picture. About a year ago a meeting was held in a local high school to discuss the problems of facilities for teenagers, for out-of-school youngsters and a means of bridging the lack of understanding and communication between people of different social and ethnic groups.

The culmination of that meeting was an agreement by local businessmen to back the remodeling of a building by lending financial support. In March of this year the Colorado Springs City Council voted to pay the rent and utilities for the building, and interested teens, with adult supervision, got busy in converting a former auto dealer's building to a community center for the use of area teenagers.

The staff of the center hopes that it will accomplish four objectives:

One, the center hopefully will provide a valuable experience for youth by providing interaction among different social and racial groups. By this, teenagers may develop an understanding and knowledge of one another. Secondly it is hoped that the center can aid in breaking down social barriers and in developing better relations between various high schools by this broadening social experience.

The center is also designed to provide a wholesome place for recreation and, lastly, to provide an educational, practical work experience for many teenagers.

The center is run by a board of teenagers consisting of 36 students representing six area high schools. An executive teen board which is the primary governing body of the center is chosen by the teenagers from the 36 members of the teen board and consists of four Negro, four white teenagers.

Jay Endres is the director of the professional staff which includes Jock Eesch, Karla White, Leslie Burnside and Ernel Porche. This staff is responsible for the operation of the center, coordination of activities and advising the teenage board of directors.

GROOVIN on an opening night. Three teenagers caught the rhythm and the moves come naturally as they sat listening to one of the groups playing during grand opening festivities at the Teen Center of Colorado Springs.

recreation such as pool, ping-pong, games, television, a snack bar and a fireplace; meeting rooms, a party and dance area and a projects workshop.

Also encompassed in the center's functions are educational facilities including a street academy with a three-phase program planned to include on-the - job training, concentrated informal education and a program of returning to public school under special counseling.

The program is designed for high school 'drop-outs' and is partially financed by School District No. 11. The facility can prepare students to receive a high school diploma, to take a general equivalency exam for a diploma or it can prepare him to enter a vocational field.

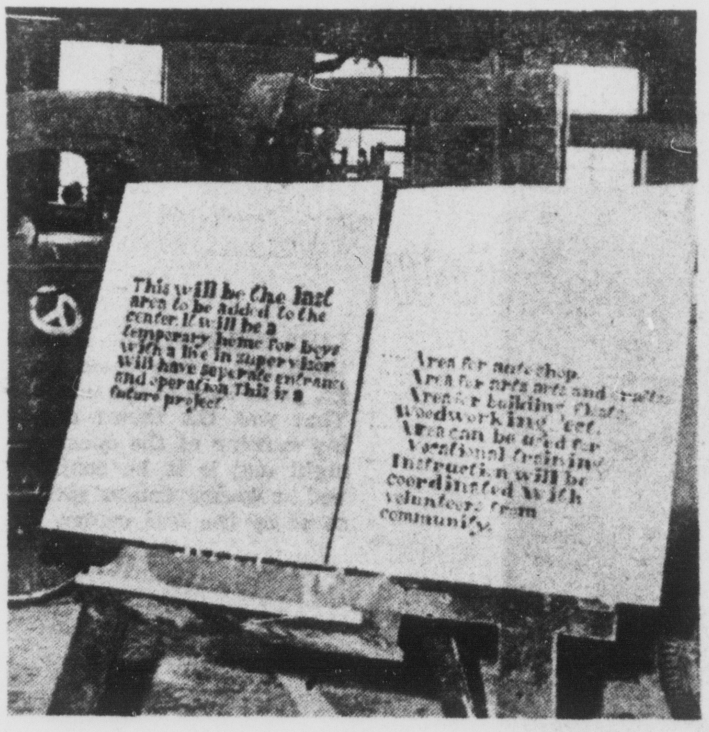
Future plans will include conversion of another part of the building to be used as a dormitory. This will be a temporary home for young boys with a full-time live-in supervisor. It will have a separate entrance and operation.

The center recently held its grand opening and is now functioning on a daily basis. At the press tour prior to the opening the media was told that the potential problems facing the center included discipline and control and misunderstandings among different social and ethnic groups.

Daily operation will probably provide wide contact with those problems and many others but the fundamental idea of bridging gaps, welding differences and producing a well-oriented teenage body in a growing community will remain.

The teenage leaders of the center today will be faced with the problems of not flying in the direction of the dodo bird tomorrow. The success or failure of the project will depend largely upon adult involvement.

The unique experiment, one of the few of its kind in the country, is now in flight. It remains to be seen if it will soar to the heights and look down from eagle's nests or plummet to the ground and be eaten by a hungry cat.



FUTURE — A sign during grand opening explained the functions of the projects workshop and the future dormitory which is planned as a later addition to the center.

DON'T TILT IT — Three youths took advantage of a break in other activities to try their hand at one of the pinball machines available in the teenage center, 324 E. Pikes Peak Avenue.

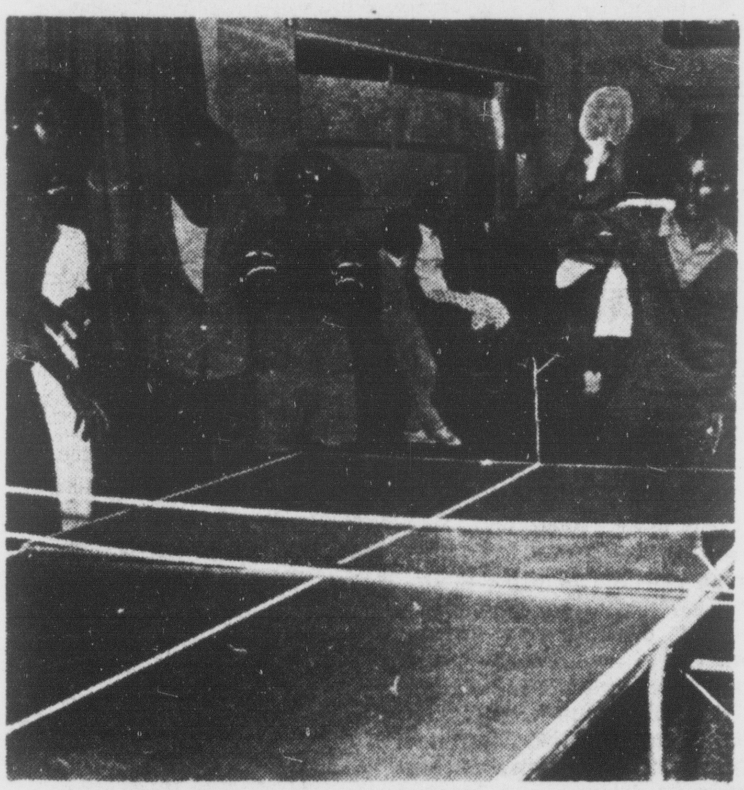
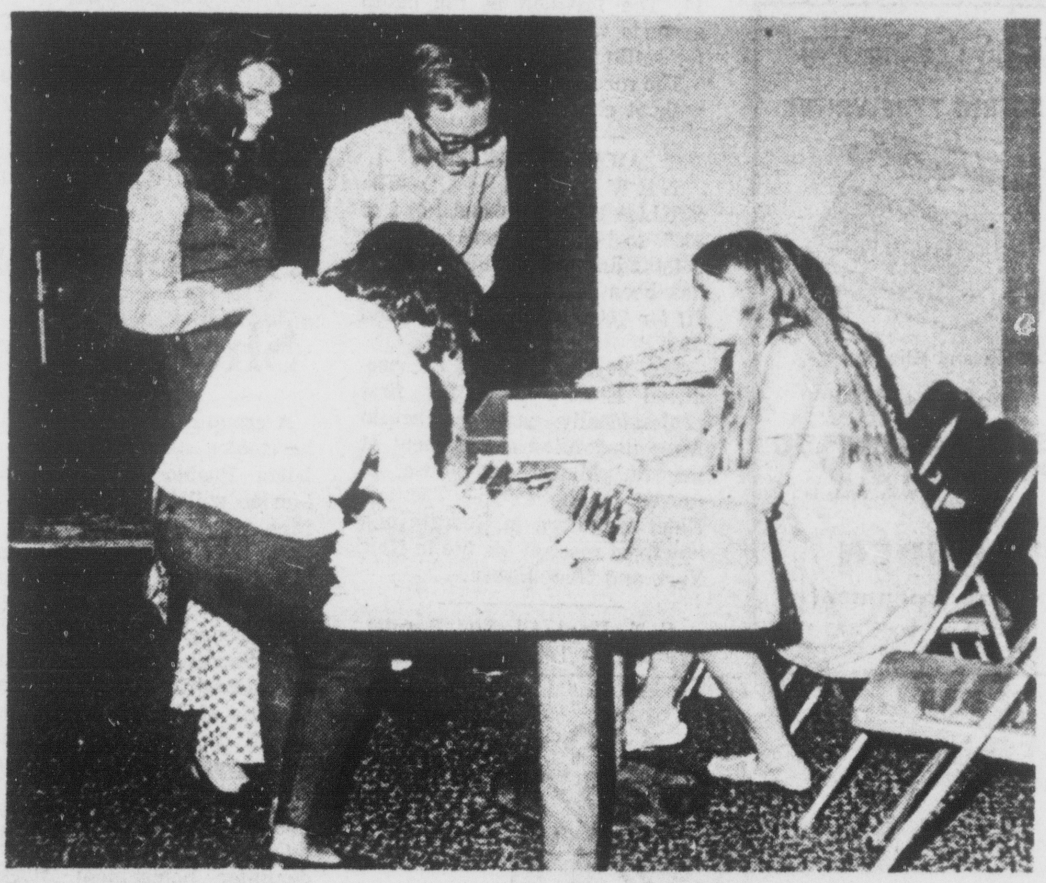
DANCING ROOM — Several couples were caught by the camera as they performed to the music during opening festivities at the Teen Center of Colorado Springs recently.

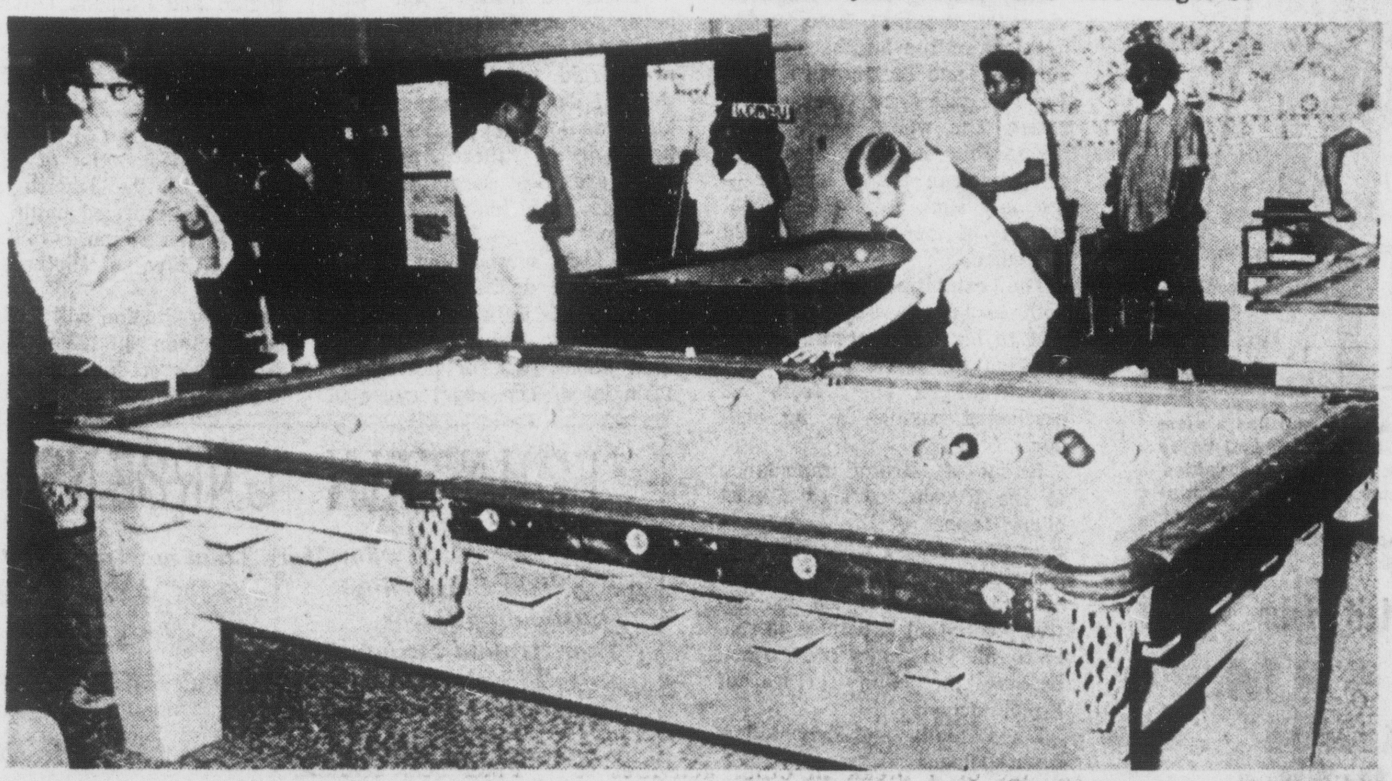
SIT THIS ONE OUT — Two gals who were on hand for opening night at the Teen Center decided to sit a dance out and smile prettily at the camera. Several others sat behind waiting for the dance to go into full swing prior to moving their operations out onto the floor.



SMASH — And the ping pong ball is sent slamming off the other end of the table only to be returned and re-smashed. It's all in the game when a couple of good players stand at opposite ends of the table and hit the little white ball back and forth.



REGISTRATION — Sign on the dotted line and you are a member of the teen center for one year. The fee is only half a dollar a year. These teens were caught being signed up by a member of the teen board on the first night of the grand opening.



JUST AFTER THE BREAK — The game is just beginning and the worried looks still several balls in the future. But one can bet that the worried looks and the intense concentration will follow as the game comes to a close.

Barbed Wire Association Sets Meet

The Colorado Antique Barbed Wire Collectors Association will hold its annual Fall Swap Meet in Woodland Park, Sept. 13 and 14.

The meet, hosted by L. J. Stewart, will be held at Stewart's Motel and Camp Ground which is located one mile south of Woodland Park.

Tables will be free to members of the association who are asked to bring their own chairs. Memberships in the organization may be purchased at the door.

Free coffee will be provided to members, who among other events, will participate in a wire splicing contest.

The annual banquet is scheduled for Saturday evening at which time officers for 1970 will be elected. The meet is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sept. 13 and from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sept. 14. The Pavilion at the camp grounds will be open at 3 p.m. for setting up.

The meet is open to the public without charge.

AWARD TO ELDER

NEW YORK (AP)—The STELLA Holt Memorial Fund of $300, to honor the author of an outstanding off-Broadway play, has been given to Lonne Elder III for "Ceremonies in Dark Old Men."

The Negro Ensemble Co. produced Elder's play, his first professionally produced work. After its limited engagement at the St. Marks Playhouse, it moved to the Pocket Theater. Elder was born in Georgia and has lived most of his life in New York and New Jersey.

ONE OF THE SECRET ceremonies of the Isleta Pueblo Indians of New Mexico, the offering of food gifts to the corn chiefs, is depicted in a painting by the renegade Isleta Joe B. Lente which will be included in an exhibition of Isleta paintings at the Fine Arts Center Sept. 2-20. Lente did the paintings and sent them to an anthropologist at the risk of his life. It is interesting that Lente sketched a picture of himself on a letter in the exact position of the corn chiefs, leading to the conclusion that he perhaps was himself a ranking chief.

Secret Indian Ritual Paintings Shown Here for the First Time

A group of paintings depicting heretofore secret rituals of the Isleta Pueblo Indians of New Mexico will be exhibited at the Fine Arts Center Sept. 2-20.

The origin of the paintings is as interesting as the subject-matter, in that they were done by a renegade member of the 3-430 Secret Indian ritual paint Isleta Pueblo who painted them secretly and then secreted them out of the small settlement to anthropologist Dr. Elsie Clews Parsons.

She agreed that the artist not be identified until after his death-for banishment, flogging or death would certainly await him in this highly ritualistic and superstitious Pueblo.

The paintings are on public view for the first time, under auspices of the Smithsonian Institution, and for the first time Joe B. Lente is revealed as the artist. The works constitute a memorable depiction of life in an American Indian village — the only such detailed pictorial record of ceremonial life in existence.

The exhibition is a tribute both to Lente's self-taught art and to his uncompromising dedication to, as he put it, "tell real," all he knew from his privileged position as an insider.

Ritual, of extreme importance to the Pueblo, covered almost every aspect of life and these ceremonies were jealously guarded from outside observance. From childhood the native population is trained to resist all attempts to probe beneath the calm surface of Pueblo society.

Dr. Parsons and her fellow anthropologist Esther S. Goldfrank had been probing for information of the Isletas since 1924 and in 1932 published a monograph about what they had learned. Joe Lente read the study and in 1936 wrote to Dr. Parsons that he would — for a modest price and a solemn promise of anonymity — accurately portray the Isleta life.

From then until her death in 1941, Lente sent her about 140 watercolors of extraordinary scientific interest and beauty. Lente wanted the paintings published, but he believed he would have been severely punished — killed — by his gods or their surrogates, the priests of his pueblo, if they found out. His letters to Dr. Parsons reveal his constant anxiety:

"These drawings you will never see anywhere because no one could do them. . . . They are afraid to die if they do them. I don't want any soul to know as long as I live that I have drawn these pictures. They are most secret. No one can see them but Indians who believe."

The facts surrounding Lente's life — and death — are fragmentary. He is believed to have been in his early 50s when he died about 1953, or possibly a little later. The exact cause of his death is unknown, some Indians saying that it was suicide, others, that he suffered a heart attack.

A self-taught artist, Lente shows ability in powerful compositional arrangement and color patterns. His brightly painted works can be easily appreciated even by viewers unfamiliar with Isleta ceremonies. He also pencilled comments on his work, which may still be seen on the exhibited paintings.

The paintings depict the ceremonies of planting and irrigation, the hunt and games, those attending birth, illness, and death, even those of war and scalping. There is often a strange and complex mixture of Indian and Catholic ritual. The Isleta also believed in spirits and witches.

Barbed Wire Association Sets Meet

The Colorado Antique Barbed Wire Collectors Association will hold its annual Fall Swap Meet in Woodland Park, Sept. 13 and 14.

The meet, hosted by L. J. Stewart, will be held at Stewart's Motel and Camp Ground which is located one mile south of Woodland Park.

Tables will be free to members of the association who are asked to bring their own chairs. Memberships in the organization may be purchased at the door.

Free coffee will be provided to members, who among other events, will participate in a wire splicing contest.

The annual banquet is scheduled for Saturday evening at which time officers for 1970 will be elected. The meet is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Sept. 13 and from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Sept. 14. The Pavilion at the camp grounds will be open at 3 p.m. for setting up.

The meet is open to the public without charge.

AWARD TO ELDER

NEW YORK (AP)—The STELLA Holt Memorial Fund of $300, to honor the author of an outstanding off-Broadway play, has been given to Lonne Elder III for "Ceremonies in Dark Old Men."

The Negro Ensemble Co. produced Elder's play, his first professionally produced work. After its limited engagement at the St. Marks Playhouse, it moved to the Pocket Theater. Elder was born in Georgia and has lived most of his life in New York and New Jersey.

ONE OF THE SECRET ceremonies of the Isleta Pueblo Indians of New Mexico, the offering of food gifts to the corn chiefs, is depicted in a painting by the renegade Isleta Joe B. Lente which will be included in an exhibition of Isleta paintings at the Fine Arts Center Sept. 2-20. Lente did the paintings and sent them to an anthropologist at the risk of his life. It is interesting that Lente sketched a picture of himself on a letter in the exact position of the corn chiefs, leading to the conclusion that he perhaps was himself a ranking chief.

The "BARQUERO" set down CANON CITY-FLORENCE-PENROSE way is just about the happiest I have ever seen. There are no personality problems, hang-ups and no primma donnas. There is a lot of laughter and a lot of good natured fun.

One of the leading influences has got to be director GORDON DOUGLAS. A cheerful, happy man, he keeps things rolling with a few practical jokes, a soft voice and a sure but steady hand. Not one crew member or cast member that I talked to, and I talked to quite a few the times I visited the set, can praise the man enough. He works fast and efficiently and gets the job done without historonics.

And he doesn't mind horsing around as long as it doesn't interfere with anything. In fact, he usually leads it.

There was the time they finished shooting early and returned to CARL'S MOTEL. FRANK FREDERICKSON, the film's PR man, was in his room, pounding out releases. He was surprised to see them back so early and kidded DOUGLAS about it.

GORDDY, as he is called, was with producer AUBREY SCHENCK. Both pulled long faces.

"Look, Frank," GORDDY said gravely. "I've got some bad news and we've got to keep it quiet. I don't want a word of this to get cut. I don't want a leak. That thunderstorm we had this afternoon? It caused a flash flood and it completely wiped out the set and injured some people. We have to rebuild. But remember Not a word"

"But, Gorddy," FRANK said desperately. "You had all those townspeople out there . (The extras) You can't keep it quiet. They'll spread the word around.."

"I said, nothing! Anybody asks, you deny everything. We've got to keep it quiet."

Frank spent the next two hours chewing his nails beside the phone waiting for questions from everybody concerned. It never rang and GORDDY finally let him off the hook, explaining they had just finished early.

DOUGLAS showed up on the set the first day, wearing the wildest, brightest, most colorful psychedelic pants you have ever seen. And it turned out that he had more than one pair, which he wore almost daily.

Last week, DOUGLAS walked onto the set at 7 a.m. to find it deserted. "Where the hell is everybody?" he shouted.

And one by one, they came walking out from behind one of the equipment trailers, each dressed in psychedelic pants. Count 'em. 65 of the wildest patterns you have ever seen in your life.

One of the crew members explained that they had planned to do this earlier, but they had some difficulty in getting 65 pairs of psychedelic pants at one time in CANON CITY.

"We had to wait three weeks, for them," he said.

DOUGLAS and his crew hope to be out of the region at the end of next week. It was a pleasure knowing them and being welcomed as we were onto the set. If "BARQUERO" is as big a hit as the cast and crew were down south, it should be a big hit indeed.

Michael Parks Says He's Acting Because 'It Pays a Lot of Money'

Michael Parks, hero of the new TV series, "Then Came Bronson," is an engaging young man who has pulled himself up by the boot straps during the past 15 years of his acting career.

Very hesitant to give interviews after a rather hectic series of misquotations some five years ago, Parks agreed to an informal taped interview last week during the filming of a TV episode north of Florence near the Fremont county airport.

Serious and intent on doing a professional job with the Bronson series, Parks explained that he has been turning down TV series work for several years.

Noting that he had done some 60 stage plays, 25 TV shows, and five featured motion pictures, Parks said that he now is back to do something "I have never wanted to do in my whole life—a series."

Out of work for over a year and a half because of a legal hassle with Universal Studios, Parks accepted the MGM offer to star in the Bronson series.

Married and the father of three children, Parks left school after the ninth grade to help out his family.

"I was working washing dishes when I spied a little theatre in North Beach with a sign in the window saying $10 a night.' I stopped to read the sign and it said 'responsive readings.' So I went in and said, 'what is a responsive reading?'

"The guy said 'get up on the stage and read."

"I said, 'I can do that.'"

Parks went on to explain that responsive readings paid better than $6 to $7 a day washing dishes. He was about 13 years old at the time.

Having filmed seven out of 16 to 20 episodes of 'Then Came Bronson," Parks commented that he thoroughly enjoys working with Bob Sabaroff, a co-producer of the series.

"We work hand in glove on the script," Parks said. "I do rewrite 98 per cent of what I say. However, together we think of a better line or a better attitude."

He added that he has certain ideas, philosophies and mores which he incorporates in his story line.

"I ask himself these questions . . . what is the story? What are you telling. Why are we spending so much money to tell this story?"

Explaining that each story's environment can affect the character he portrays differently, Parks added the analogy that "you certainly feel differently in a night club than you do in church."

Parks declared that he has enjoyed working with the people his company has come into contact with across the country. He also had high praise for the MGM crew making the series.

The Bronson crew has been working six days a week with some days as long as 12 to 13 hours a day, Parks said.

"The crew works very hard. Sometimes re-writing goes on late at night to be ready for shooting next morning. Special effects sometimes work all night. It's a very highly paid profession but one which requires long hours," he added.

A native of California, Parks attended 26 different schools before he finally quit school to work. He did not come from a family with acting or a stage background.

"My mother sang over the radio once in 1927," he grinned, "and she has joined me in singing on a new country album just relesed."

In commenting on his acting career, Parks was perfectly candid:

"I'm only acting because it pays a lot of money," he stated.

The pilot of the series, a two-hour movie, was recently shown by NBC on Channel 5. The series itself will begin in September with film slated to continue at least until December.

While in the Canon City area, Parks and his family have been renting a private home.

Fields Cult Is Alive And Well Coast to Coast

BY ROGER DOUGHTY
NEA Staff Corresponent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The bumper sticker, pasted snugly to the rear end of the battered station wagon, bore the legend, "W. C. Fields Is Alive and Drunk in Oakland." Strangley enough, a lot of people think he is.

Officially, W. C. blinked his frosty blue eyes for the last time Dec. 25, 1946, but you'd hardly know it. His movies turn up on the tube with regularity, flick festivals honor him on campuses from coast to coast, a record of some of his more sagacious sayings tops rock renderings in the charts, TV personalities imitate him and groups of otherwise down-to-business types gather over martinis (the master's favorites) to swap stories of his life and times.

"It isn't as weired as it seems," claims Dr. Alan Foster, a Manhattan psychiatrist and Fields fan who proudly claims that he'll glady get up at 3:30 in the morning to catch a W. C. movie on the late-late show.

"W. C.'s humor is perfect for our time," says Dr. Foster. "With all the pressures of modern society being brought to bear on us in this age of the A-bomb, the H-bomb, the pill, pollution, overkill and overcrowding, it's a real outlet to be able to associate yourself with a little guy like W. C. who looked life in the eye and told it where to go. He's be a superstar today, not that he wasn't in his own time."

And that he was.

Born William Claude Dukenfield in Philadelphia in 1879, W. C. ran away from home at 11. The only more or less kind thing he ever said about his home town turned out to be his self-written epitaph. It reads, "On the whole, I'd rather be in Philadelphia."

He taught himself to juggle and added some patter for comedy relief, but the comedy proved to be a bigger attraction than the juggling.

His characterization of a seedy, irascible, sharp-tongued drunk with a bulbous nose and an ice-cold heart made him a headliner in the Ziegfeld Follies, George White's Scandals, Earl Carroll's Vanities and such films as "Never Give a Sucker an Even Break" and "If I Had a Million." In later years he jousted with Charlie McCarthy on Edgar Bergen's radio show.

A typical meeting of the New York chapter of the Friends of Fields was in session the other night at Charley O's, a midtown Manhattan eatery that just happens to have a huge picture of W. C. on the wall with the legend: "A woman drove me to drink. I'll be a son of a gun, but I never thanked her."

"Fields said something almost like that," says manager Noel Hennebery," "but not quite. The quote has been changed just the slightest bit."

Gathered around a table directly under W. C.'s picture were Dr. Foster (current Chief Friend, as the superfriend of Fields is called here) and eight other people. Two said they were lawyers, one claimed to be a banker and the five others refused to comment.

All, however, had their favorite stories.

Dr. Foster opened with his, the one about W. C. tooling along in the bac seat of his along in the back seat of his seven-passenger Cadillac (his agent was driving), sipping alternately from a jug of gin and a bottle of vermouth, when a man with an extended thumb and a suitcase was spotted by the side of the road.

Ordering his driver to stop, Fields picked up the man, offered him a drink and was immediately made aware of his error when the passenger turned out to be an anti-alcohol crusading preacher.

"You're sinning in this automobile," said the preacher, "and although I don't usually deliver a sermon for free, I'll make an exception in your case and give you No. 4 from my book, which deals with 'The Evils of Drinking.' "

According to the story, Fields gulped a few more slugs of gin, listened up to the point where the preacher got to the part of the story where a down-and-out bum hocked his crippled son's special corrective shoes to buy a bottle of booze, then ordered to the agent to pull over to the side of the road at the nearest ditch.

Shoving his former passenger out of the car, Fields threw the man a bottle of gin and bellowed, "That's No. 3 from my book, which deals with 'How to Keep Warm in a Ditch.' "

One of the lawyers followed with a story dealing with the time W. C.'s car was stuck on a railroad track in Georgia—with a freight train just around the bend—and the other admitted attorney tossed in the tale of Fields in combat with a swan at his lakeside home in California.

Everybody knew the punch lines, but everybody laughed anyway.

Then it was off to Greenwich Village (right in the middle of the coffee) to take in a showing of "Never Give a Sucker an Even Break" at one of the run-down but up-and-coming "art" theaters.

"But remember," Dr. Foster reminded the Friends as they pushed through the restaurant's revolving door, " 'If I Had a Million' is on the late-late show tonight, so be sure to get home in time to watch."

And the picture of the master, hanging limply over the crumb-scattered table, smiled. At least it seemed that way.

Fields Cult Is Alive And Well Coast to Coast

BY ROGER DOUGHTY
NEA Staff Corresponent

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The bumper sticker, pasted snugly to the rear end of the battered station wagon, bore the legend, "W. C. Fields Is Alive and Drunk in Oakland." Strangley enough, a lot of people think he is.

Officially, W. C. blinked his frosty blue eyes for the last time Dec. 25, 1946, but you'd hardly know it. His movies turn up on the tube with regularity, flick festivals honor him on campuses from coast to coast, a record of some of his more sagacious sayings tops rock renderings in the charts, TV personalities imitate him and groups of otherwise down-to-business types gather over martinis (the master's favorites) to swap stories of his life and times.

"It isn't as weired as it seems," claims Dr. Alan Foster, a Manhattan psychiatrist and Fields fan who proudly claims that he'll glady get up at 3:30 in the morning to catch a W. C. movie on the late-late show.

"W. C.'s humor is perfect for our time," says Dr. Foster. "With all the pressures of modern society being brought to bear on us in this age of the A-bomb, the H-bomb, the pill, pollution, overkill and overcrowding, it's a real outlet to be able to associate yourself with a little guy like W. C. who looked life in the eye and told it where to go. He's be a superstar today, not that he wasn't in his own time."

And that he was.

Born William Claude Dukenfield in Philadelphia in 1879, W. C. ran away from home at 11. The only more or less kind thing he ever said about his home town turned out to be his self-written epitaph. It reads, "On the whole, I'd rather be in Philadelphia."

He taught himself to juggle and added some patter for comedy relief, but the comedy proved to be a bigger attraction than the juggling.

His characterization of a seedy, irascible, sharp-tongued drunk with a bulbous nose and an ice-cold heart made him a headliner in the Ziegfeld Follies, George White's Scandals, Earl Carroll's Vanities and such films as "Never Give a Sucker an Even Break" and "If I Had a Million." In later years he jousted with Charlie McCarthy on Edgar Bergen's radio show.

A typical meeting of the New York chapter of the Friends of Fields was in session the other night at Charley O's, a midtown Manhattan eatery that just happens to have a huge picture of W. C. on the wall with the legend: "A woman drove me to drink. I'll be a son of a gun, but I never thanked her."

"Fields said something almost like that," says manager Noel Hennebery," "but not quite. The quote has been changed just the slightest bit."

Gathered around a table directly under W. C.'s picture were Dr. Foster (current Chief Friend, as the superfriend of Fields is called here) and eight other people. Two said they were lawyers, one claimed to be a banker and the five others refused to comment.

All, however, had their favorite stories.

Dr. Foster opened with his, the one about W. C. tooling along in the bac seat of his along in the back seat of his seven-passenger Cadillac (his agent was driving), sipping alternately from a jug of gin and a bottle of vermouth, when a man with an extended thumb and a suitcase was spotted by the side of the road.

Ordering his driver to stop, Fields picked up the man, offered him a drirk and was immediately made aware of his error when the passenger turned out to be an anti-alcohol crusading preacher.

WITH SOME RESERVATION

By INJUN WOODY

I don't know what this world is coming to. . .especially the women. I would like to wash my hands of the whole business. But I can't wash my hands of the whole business because the Blouse & Skirt is a woman and she is the whole business as far as I am consarned, and to prove it, just this past week she conned me and sarned me into buying her a warshing machine.

Now it ain't that I was never sympathetic with her pleas, for it seems like only yesterday that she come to me and said that the rocks down on the riverbank was wearing the skin off her knuckles and would I at least get her a washboard and tub as bending over the rippling stream was putting a miserie in her backbone.

Now did I deny her request? I did not. I went out and bought her a nice wash-board, a copper one at that, and a tub that had two little rubber hoses covering the handles so she would not pinch in her fingers when she picked the tub up to take it outside to empty the water.

Though it seems like only yesterday, I realize that it actually was some time ago, as I now recall that she plumb wore out that copper wash-board and I had to replace it for her as the metal was sticking up and would sometimes tear the hide off her fingers, not to mention my shirt buttons. I didn't get a copper board that time as they had quit making them by then, but I spent some good money for a board that has worked out just fine up to now.

But, as I said, the women today just seem to want to loll around in luxury and I have been beset by turmoils that would unbalance the devil hisself with the constant nagging for a new "all-automatic" warsher. At last I decided that the sound of a "all-automatic" would be welcome indeed compared to the sound of whining complaints about rubbing her knuckles to the bone. Today it was installed. . .

Naturally, there was trouble right from the start. You can't get away from laws, and it seems there is a law that says you can't hook up even a "automatic" warsher with a two-prong outlet but have to have a special three-prong outlet. When you ask "Why?" they just say "It's the Law." Nobody seems to have any other reason for it and I doubt if there is one, as nobody ever goes any further than that.

Anyway, after the three prong outlet is put into the wall, the warsher is hooked up and the Blouse & Skirt says,

"I never had a "automatic" before. How do you work it?"

Well, the installer whips out a enginering book, hands it to the Blouse & Skirt and says,

"The instructions are in that book, lady. Read it and start up the machine. It will work alright."

The next thing the installer does is hand her a little plastic sack full of spare parts. Right away I get the feeling that the "automatic" is already about to break down and as I don't know one end of a screw-driver from the other I ask the guy a question that has been bothering me all along. . .

"If this here 'automatic' warsher don't automatic right can the Blouse & Skirt stick her wash-board in the tub and do the wash anyway?"

Well, I guess that stumped the expert, cause he just scratched his head for a minute, gazed at me with a far-away look and went out and got into his truck without so much as a fare-thee-well, thank-you, or go to grass.

Now I didn't see anything wrong with that question. The tub looked like it was sturdy enough, and outside of the inconvenience of that blooming stob sticking up in the middle of it I figured the B & S could wash clothes in it alright if she had a mind to.

The Blouse & Skirt, by this time, was standin there by the "automatic" reading the engineer's handbook for all she was worth and fingering the knobs and twirling dials around and they would go "tick-tick" and she would squeal with delight just like she knowed what it was all about. Finally I got tired of all these goings-on so I said,

"For Sagebrush Sakes, will you do somethin else besides standin here playin with them knobs? Is this supposed to be a play-toy or is it supposed to wash my unawares and shirts?"

"I am just learning how to operate the 'automatic,' ", she says, "I think I can work it now. I will get the clothes and we will see."

Well, I stand there looking at the thing and she goes into the bathroom an comes back with the big hamper full of duds and starts putting them into the tub.

She shuts the lid and turns a knob and water starts rushing into the thing and fills up and just keeps on rushing and finally I can see we are going to be flooded out of the utility room altogether in about five minutes more. . .

"Say, dearie," I says, "I know you need water to wash with but don't you think you should shut it off now?"

And do you know what she says?

"Look," she says, "this is my 'automatic' and I can run it any way I want. All you have to do is get out of here and let me handle my own chores as I see fit!"

So I left. I shut the door. After awhile I heard the washer swishing along just fine so I suppose she knowed what she was doing alright. Just the same, I ain't throwing out the trusty old wash-board yet. Nosireb, bob.

COLORADO SPRINGS KENNEL CLUB NOTES

by Fredell McConnell

The Colorado Springs Kennel Club had their monthly meeting on Monday August 25. Among many other items that were covered by the incoming officers was the acceptance of Marti Hauer as a new member of the club. The several guests present were introduced to the club and invited to join the club. The next year's show was discussed and many suggestions made. J. R. Smith was appointed as Club Parliamentarian.

The Junior Club President Teri Pavokovich made a report on the last meeting. There were several guests present. Dr. Paul Palmer gave a program on his Irish Wolfhound and one of his Cocker Spaniels. The elections of new officers was held. Teri was re-elected President, Linda Black became Vice-president, Rhonda Mason is the new Secretary, and Dr. Paul Palmer was reappointed as the Senior Representative. They have decided that the meeting is to be held on the third Saturday of every month with the meeting place to be announced later. Also, J. R. Smith, a Senior member, has agreed to conduct obedience classes for the jr. members on certain Saturday afternoons. So watch the column for more information.

The Greeley Kennel Club Dog Show and Obedience Trial yielded quite a few prizes for the local dogs. In the ring with their winning Old English Sheepdogs were Louise Lopina and Ann Penn. Louise's Sunnybrae Jack Frost went Winners Dog and Best of Opposite Sex to take a four point major: "Patches" will gain his championship with his next three points. Ann's Sunnybrae Jenny Lind, Patches's sister, was Reserve Winners Bitch.

Among winners in the Doberman Pinscher ring was a puppy dog, Hondo Von Hesse. "Louie" is now owned by Captain and Mrs. D. Charles Bare, bred by Harriet Pross, and previously owned by Jess and Scotty Osbern.

Christine Orman's Long-coated Chihuahua, Orman's Leweggie, was first in Open Dog and Reserve Winners Dog this past Sunday.

As usual, Harriet Pross had several dogs in the winners circle—her own and her clients. Ch. Columbine Nikit, Hap's Belgian Tervuren, Went Best of Breed. Her Gingersnap of Beckum was Reserve Winners Bitch in the German Shorthair Pointer ring. She also showed Roy and Norma Shipley's Rough Collie, Cherokee Indian Scout, to Winners Dog and Best of Opposite Sex for two points toward his major. Handling Jack Cullion's Saint Bernard, Bonny's Lord Norfolk, Harriet collected four points as Winners Dog, Best of Winners, and Best of Opposite Sex.

Two local Irish Wolfhounds were big winners at Greeley. Jerry McConnell's Rathrahilly Fralihock Pooka was Winners Dog and Best of Opposite Sex to collect his twelfth point. Taking Best of Breed, Best of Winners, and Winners Bitch was Dr. Paul Palmer's Fleetwind Just Plain Julie. She won her second major, three points, to be well on her way to her championship.

In the Wirehaired Dachshund ring, Roberta Jones' miniature dog and bitch came away with quite a few honors. From first place in American-bred Dog class, Augustus Von Jon-MW. won Winners Dog and Best of Winners to get his second major with three points. Mays Topaz-MW was Reserve Winners Bitch for our proud member Roberta.

Rep's Gypsy Lad, a brindle English Bulldog, brought back three ribbons for Judy Patrick. "Socks", first in the Open Dog class, went on to be Winners Dog and Best of Opposite Sex.

The coming shows ought to give us a few more proud owners, so those of you going to the Cheyenne this Sunday be sure to let me know how you fair. And those of you who failed to get your wins for the Greeley Show might call, too: 495-2347.

The Boulder-Flatirons Kennel Club Show to be held on Sunday, September 14, has its closing date on this Tuesday, September 2 at noon. For those of you wondering about the Colorado Kennel Club Show that has been announced as being held on September 21, I have heard that the show superintendent Roy Jones is having printing difficulties. I guess we will all just have to wait and see what develops. Also, I have heard nothing more on the Fort Collins' Kennel Club Show. Therefore, I'm not sure if they are holding an AKC sanctioned show this fall or not. I'll let you know what I hear.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Thomas Wilfred's clavilux, a keyboard instrument for projecting colors on a screen as a means of esthetic expression, preceded today's psychedelic lighting effects by some 40 years, The World Almanac notes. Wilfred projected colors and fantastic designs, then subjected them to rhythmical changes in shape and hue. The clavilux was used in solos and as visual accompaniment for music, dance and drama.

BY WES BRADLEY

I've always felt very sorry for people who don't have a Home Town. I've felt very fortunate that Colorado Springs is my Home Town. Even though I grew up in a dusty little Oklahoma town and didn't come to Colorado Springs until I was twenty years old; somehow or other this has always been my home Town. Even from the very first day I walked west on Pikes Peak Avenue past the Mining Exchange Building and a guy whom I'd never seen before smiled and said, "Howdy", this has been my Home Town.

There's a special feeling about a Home Town. It's a feeling that encompasses a lot of things . . . wide, almost empty streets . . . "settled" buildings housing the businesses and tall solid-looking buildings where unknown "money men" and "smart lawyers" go to work every day and when you finially meet them, the "money men" and the "smart lawyers", they're just people . . . it's trees overhanging Cascade and North Nevada avenues . . . it's leaves blowing across the Colorado College campus when LOU WORNER was an assistant profesor of History . . . it's the calm of a gently falling snow when it's two o'clock in the morning and ten below zero and yours are the only footprints in the otherwise unsullied whiteness and WOODSON TYREE was a Professor of Speech who saved your life with the most delicious smoked turkey anyone ever ate. . .it's the applause of an opening night audience after ORVIS GROUT has prodded a performance out of a very scared young actor for the Civic Theatre and WILBUR "BILL" MARSHALL, an equally scared actor, hadn't even though about running for the School Board, let alone being President of the Board. . .and HARRY HOTH was trying to get a lot of combat veterans to wear yellow "dinks" and black sweaters and cords and march into Washburn Field cheering the Tigers as he performed his duties as Enthusiasm Chairman and T. EUGENE McCLEARY was convincing the "Money Men" that selling auto parts could be a profitable business. . .and TOM McLAUGHLIN was comparing the Colorado College Forward Wall with the "Seven Blocks of Granite of FORDHAM" and HOWARD ARNBERG was writing about what was happening at City Hali under MAYOR JIM McCULLOUGH and JOE REICH hadn't given a thought to the establishment of an AIR FORCE ACADEMY and "DAD" BRUCE called in reporters and rookie detective OREN BOLLING to discuss the murder of a taxi driver and "RED" Davis was walking a beat in the boondocks. . .EV CONOVER was telling jokes about the lovely "GIRL OF THE WEST", a cutie named BARBARA STOCK, while they promoted the Pikes Peak or Bust Rodeo which CASPER ACKERMAN believed in heart and soul and across the street, CHASE STONE was working for his dreams for the city and up on the Colorado College Campus, BILL SMARTT was studying Business 101 and trying to figure out how to get back the tire and wheel he'd hocked in Calhan to make it on into Colorado Springs from down Texas way. . .And "MARTY" MURPHY had about decided to forego "trodding the boards" for the next season and concentrate on the practice of Law as he knew JOHN LOVE and BILL BAKER and COURTLAND COOL and IRVING HOWBERT were doing. . .and DAN QUIGLEY decided that one year as President of the Sigma Chi Fraternity was more than enough and if anyone ever asked him to be President of the Chamber of Commerce they damn well knew where they could go and CLAY BANTA decided to attend one more Chamber of Commerce luncheon before his membership expired. . .A Junior Phi Beta Kappa at CC named K.G. FREYSCHLAG thought he'd try once more to get HARRY HOILES and BYRON AKERS to get him better space for his CC Publicity releases and MARSHALL SPRAGUE decided that he could put together a pretty good book about Cripple Creek and "SPEC" PENROSE and the TUTTS of the BROADMOOR . . . and DOUG JARDINE used to drive by Camp Carson every once in a while to see that his workmanship was still as good as he knew it was a few years back.

There's a special feeling about a Home Town.

It's a feeling that encompasses a lot of things. It's mountains and garden hoses gently splashing green lawns, even though a quite-averted eyes. It's unhurried, smiling men wearing business suits and modified western hats. But mostly . . . it's people.

It's . . .you go your way and do your thing and make your living and over the years you meet a lot of different people and some of them rubs off on you and maybe some of you rubs off on them and each does his thing and many times, paths cross and as the years begin to fly by you meet them and there's a companionship that's best described as "easy" and it jumps educational, economic, social and other imaginary boundaries.

I've always felt very sorry for people who don't have a Home Town.

Rockhounds In Pueblo

Dr. Lyle Nesbitt, President of Pueblo Rockhounds, announced that the local club would have their Annual Rock And Mineral Show, Sept. 13 and 14.

The show will be held at the Southern Colorado State College, on the Orman Avenue Campus Center, Saturday 9 a.m. to 10 p.m., and Sunday Noon until 7 p.m.

Gems, semi-precious gems, minerals, fossils, and rocks of all types and descriptions will be displayed. Lapidary equipment will be displayed and Mrs. Margaret Perterson, well known gemologist and silversmith, will demonstrate gem work to the young rockhounds. Displays will come from many locals and will be judged by expert and professional people.

There will be approximately two dozen display tables at this event.

RORY BACK

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Rory Calhoun returns to greasepaint after a long time to play a slick con man in a "Lancer" episode for television.

COMING TO DENVER — Joel Grey recreates the title role of "George M" in the musical which will open a week's run in the Denver Auditorium Sept. 9.

Joel Grey to Bring 'George M' to Denver

The New York touring blockbuster called "George M!" starring Joel Grey, one of Broadway's brightest luminaries in the title role he created, is due at the Denver Auditorium Theatre September 9 for a limited stay through September 14. Goliath of the traveling theatrical musicals, "George M!" carried a huge company and scenic production with which to tell the life story of America's Yankee Doodle Dandy boy George Michael Cohan.

The high-stepping song-and-dancer with the rapid-fire direction and choreography of renowned Joe Layton features such immortal Cohan melodies as "Give My Regards To Broadway," "Mary," "Harrigan," "Over There," "Nellie Kelly," "Forty-Five Minutes From Broadway" and "You're A Grand Old Flag."

"George M!" is a clean, family - appeal musical with the songs and dances that etched the name of Cohan indelibly on the bible of show business for more than two decades of his musical and dramatic hits.

Labeled by the trade "The Big One" of the touring Broadway musicals, "George M!" is presented on tour by James Nederlander, George H. Steinbrenner III and Elizabeth Ireland McCann in association with original producers David Black, Konrad Matthaei and Lorin E. Price.

The show's book is by Michael Stewart, author of "Hello, Dolly," and John and Fran Pascal. The entire score is drawn from the 400 songs that George Cohan wrote over a period of 40 years, and there are musical and lyric revisions by his daughter Mary Cohan Rankin. Elaborate scenery is by Tom John and countless costumes by Freddy Wittop. Martin Aronstein did the lighting, Jay Blackton the vocal arrangements and Philip J. Lang the orchestrations. Jose Vega is production supervisor. Sound ballet is by Score Productions, Inc. and the original cast album is on Columbia Records.

Tickets on Sale at SEARS Customer Convenience Center in Southgate Shopping Center. Mail orders with check or money order and SELF-ADDRESSED STAMPED ENVELOPE to Hooks & Holzer Entertainments, P. O. Box 5005, Denver, Colorado 80217.

Dropout Plays Teacher

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Peter O'Toole, who plays the dedicated schoolmaster in "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," was a school dropout at age 13.
